"Here's my latest batch of telegrams that's come o'er land and sea,
From the snow-clad hills of Greenland to the fields of Tennessee;
There's some very funny incidents transpiring every day,
And which I'll tell you in my song, but don't you give them away."

DR. FREELAND PROVES VICTOR IN PREAKNESS

JUDGES REFUSE CLAIM OF FOUL IN STRETCH

Schaefer, on Winner, Held Saddle Near Turn, Says Minotaur's Rider.

AFRICAN RUNS THIRD; ENTRY PAYS 4-1 ODDS

Leaders Trail at Start and Go to Front at Stretch Turn in a Group.

By CHARLES A. WATSON
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

Pimlico Race Track, Md., May 10.—The distinctive pink, blue and white silks of Walter J. Salmon, thrice victorious in the classic Pimlico Preakness, today found another willing and gallant bearer in Dr. Freeland, the 3-year-old son of Light Brigade—Toddle, and the Salmon Stable's fourth Preakness triumph was duly recorded.

Installed with his stable mate, African, as the favorite among a field reduced by scratches to eleven 3-year-olds, Dr. Freeland ran a convincing race over the mile and three-sixteenths route to win by a length from John R. Thompson's Minotaur, which led African by a like distance, with the Warm Stable's The Nut another length back in fourth place.

Unknown to the 40,000 turf followers who overflowed the grandstand, clubhouse, paddock and lawn of the historic Hilltop track, Minotaur's owner had taken a long chance at the $52,325 purse an hour before the race by purchasing the colt from Charles Graffagnini for $40,000 despite the fact that Minotaur was held at 12 to 1 in the betting.

Entry Pays $9.70 to Win.

The victorious Salmon entry rewarded its backers with $9.70 for each $2 win ticket, paying $5.60 to place, and, curiously enough, 6.10 to show. The entry was one of the lightest regarded favorites in the history of the Preakness, although today's race long had been regarded as an "open" event.

The stretch run of today's Preakness was decisive and it was in this final running that Dr. Freeland under a superb ride by Louis Schaefer showed its mettle in the duel with Minotaur, which flashed to the front at one point in the home lane but could not stave off the onrushing Salmon colt. Both met with rough treatment rounding the stretch turn and Jockey Halbert, on Minotaur, claimed a foul on the return to the judges' stand, contending that Schaefer had deliberately grabbed his saddle and held him back. The judges, however, were of the opinion that Workman, on Beacon Hill, was largely responsible for forcing Dr. Freeland over on Minotaur.

The field was delayed at the start ten minutes by the fractiousness of ecsare, for which Jacques Cohen recently refused a $50,000 offer, but Starter Jim Milton finally dispatched the field in good order and the race for the $50,000 added purse was on with, the frenzied crowd of 40,000 lifting their voices in one grand conglomeration of shouts as the thoroughbreds thundered down the stretch past the grandstand, paddock and clubhouse with Leucite and Folking battling for the lead and the ultimate place horses bringing up the rear.

Sande Jammed Back at Start.

Earl Sande, riding the colt Hermitage, which he owns and trains, was jammed at the first turn and his chances ruined and he did not persevere with his mount. Leucite, the

Washingtonian Buys Noted Hals Painting

Dutch Master's Work, "Portrait of Judith Leyster," Done About 1620-1625, Is Sold for $250,000. Canvas Measures 29½ Feet by 25½ Feet.

New York, May 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The "Portrait of Judith Leyster," by Franz Hals, has been sold by the Ehrich Galleries to a Washington collector for $250,000, it was announced by the galleries today.

The name of the buyer was not disclosed, but it was stated definitely that it was not Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon.

The painting comes from the collection of E. Grainger, of Hastings, Sussex, England, in whose family it had been many years. Dr. W. R. Valentiner, well-known art expert, attested to the authenticity of the canvas.

The painting has never been published or publicly shown. The new owner, however, has permitted it to be exhibited at the Ehrich Galleries for one week, beginning next Monday.

The canvas is 29½ feet high and 25½ feet wide and was executed, according to Dr. Valentiner, about 1620-1625, the period during which Hals executed some of his best genre paintings.

Judith Leyster was Holland's most famous woman painter of the seventeenth century. She was a pupil of Hals and she later was married to Jan Miensze Moleaner, another Hals pupil. She painted so well in the style of the master that until twenty years ago her paintings went under the name of Franz Hals. At that time her work was rediscovered by Dr. Hofstede de Groot.

"It has been suggested," writes Dr. Valentiner, "that this might be a self-portrait by Judith Leyster, but with all her ability she was not capable of quite so spirited a composition. It is indeed more probable that this is the portrait of Judith Leyster by Franz Hals referred to in the inventory of J. M. Molenaer, the subject's husband."

BRITISH OPEN TITLE RETAINED BY HAGEN

8 AMERICANS IN FIRST 10

By FRANK H. KING.
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

Muirfield, Scotland, May 10.—With 292 strokes of a master golfer, Walter Hagen today won his fourth British open championship. Johnny Farrell, six strokes behind and Leo Diegel, trailing the leader seven strokes, finished second and third and aided their team captain in avenging the American defeat in the international team matches at Moortown.

Hagen led the Americans to the most sweeping victory scored by golfers from overseas in a British championship competition. Eight of the American entrants finished among the first ten. Only Abe Mitchell and Percy Alliss, tied for fourth place at 300, standing in the front rank for Great Britain.

Hagen won with as fine an exhibition of sustained golf as he has shown in the front rank for Great Britain.

Hagen won with as fine an exhibition of sustained golf as he has shown in his long career; repeating his performance of last year he jumped into the lead early today and with two fine rounds of 75 each, added to his 67 yesterday and 75 Wednesday, he held a commanding lead enabling him to win the same figure that gave him the British title in 1928.

A whipping gale from the Southeast made scoring conditions today as difficult as during the stormy start of the championship. Hagen started at once and on the first two holes whittled Leo Diegel's two-stroke lead away. He forged ahead and at the end of the third round was four strokes up on Alliss, led Mitchell and Diegel by five and was six ahead of Farrell.

Farrell, the open champion of the United States, realizing the great golfing risk involved in an almost impossible attempt to catch Hagen, reconciled himself to a stern fight for second place and played beautiful golf for his small but admiring gallery, composed largely of Irishmen.

Hagen largely won his fourth British title on the greens. Tom Fernie who played with him, said: "Hagen had a master touch on the slippery, wind-swept putting surfaces. He deserved to win."

With a great crowd cheering lustily, Hagen received the cup emblematic of the championship on the spacious eighteenth green. It was presented by A. W. Robertson-Durham, captain of the Honorable Company of Edinburg Golfers.

"Harry Vardon has his name on this fine old cup six times, James Braid has won it six times and I have won

SOLUTION OF FRENCH DEBT FORECAST HERE

HOPE FOR MELLON PLAN

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Premier Poincare of France will make an announcement with respect to the $4,000,000,000 debt which is owed to the American taxpayers in the near future, according to advices reaching here, and there is renewed hope of seeing the Mellon-Berenger agreement seriously considered before August 1, when $400,000,000 which France owes for purchased war supplies becomes due and payable. The French government has the choice of paying this latter amount in bulk or merging this item of indebtedness into the total covered by the unratified debt agreement.

There have been recent intimations that the French government had decided to pay the $400,000,000 and had already made arrangements to this effect, but it now develops that Poincare anticipates a change in the situation before the date of maturity, which comes in less than three months. Whether changed conditions will actually affect the obligation of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to collect this amount remains uncertain, but there appears to be no douot that diplomatic exchanges between the two governments will be precipitated over the debt question.

Mr. Mellon has made it clear in his last report that he will include the $400,000,000 in receipts to the Treasury unless the Mellon-Berenger agreement is ratified. Before this $400,000,000 can be legally merged in the debt agreement there must be ratifications not only by France, but by the United States.

This would mean ratification by the Senate of the United States as well as by the French chamber, and there have been no indications of action by the Senate before August 1.

But if Poincare takes the lead and secures ratification in the near future, there would be ample opportunity to adjust matters and ratification by the Senate here would be regarded as assured. The outcome of the discussions by the reparations experts now meeting at Paris will clear the atmosphere, it is suggested, and pave the way for positive action by the government of France.

This does not mean that the United States will yield to the suggestions of the internationalists and provide Europe with a gesture of unselfishness and sacrifice by surrendering amounts due from Germany for army costs or reparations due under the 2¼ per cent allotment of the Dawes plan. There has begun a form of propaganda to persuade America to make this gesture and some of the reports reaching here through diplomatic channels have tended to encourage this idea. But for

G.O.P. IN HOUSE FAILS TO AGREE ON TARIFF RULE

Conference to Hold Later Sessions in Dispute on Amendments.

TILSON DENIES GAG WILL BE ATTEMPTED

FARM GROUP READY TO TRUST COMMITTEE

(Associated Press.)

The first of a series of conferences among House Republicans looking to an agreement upon a rule to govern consideration of the tariff bill for amendment broke up yesterday after a two-hour session without reaching a decision.

Statements made following the conference, however, indicated that many of the protesting groups within the party would be given an opportunity to suggest changes in the rates in which they are interested once the bill is taken up for amendment.

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the Republican leader, announced after the meeting that Chairman Snell, of the rules committee, had submitted a tentative rule similar to that of 1922 for consideration of the present Fordney-McCumber law, but leaving out the particular controversial items on which special votes would be permitted Conferences Will Continue.

Four such items were allowed special votes in 1922 but until further conferences are held and the final form of a rule agreed upon, it will not be known what proposed new duties in the pending bill are to be put to test.

Chairman Hawley, of the ways and means committee, said it may require two or three conferences to agree upon a rule.

The tentative rule proposed would call for close of general debate on the bill next Thursday with a final vote set for May 23. Tilson said these dates were only tentative, however, and it was believed a vote would not be reached for several days beyond May 23.

The rule adopted in 1922 provided that committee amendments would have precedence over all others and that they could be proposed without regard to other rules.

Previous Rules Reviewed.

This, as well as other Republican tariff rules, were read by Snell, Tilson said, so "no one would be misled that we were trying to gag the membership."

"There was some lively discussion of some of the items in the bill," Tilson said, "but there was no indication of bitterness or hard feelings."

Sugar, hides, boots and shoes, cattle, lumber, brick and cement were among the commodities suggested to be put to a vote, he said, while one member, whom he did not name, requested that the whole bill be thrown open to amendment.

Representative Dickinson, of Iowa, one of the farm group leaders, indicated he was satisfied to rest his case in the hands of the ways and means committee, in view of the sentiment which he said had been manifested in favor of certain changes since the bill came out.

The Iowa member, who headed a ten-State movement in favor of changing some of the agricultural rates, said he was uncertain whether another conference would be held of members participating in the movement.

Dickinson proposed at the meeting yesterday that the usual course followed by the ways and means committee in meeting and reporting on the amendments they intended to bring in be followed this year.

There is a feeling among some Republicans on the committee and other

Mrs. George Barnett and Miss Tyner Guests at Second Court.

London, May 10 (A.P.).—The scene at Buckingham Palace tonight for the second court held by Queen Mary was almost a parallel of that of last evening, although more debutantes were presented and the rooms were very crowded. There were nearly 1,500 guests.

A large proportion of the presentations tonight were of representatives of the dominions and colonies. Eight American women made their curtsies to her majesty, the same number as was received at the first court of the season.

Just as the public during the wait in the Mall last evening picked out the American tennis star, Helen Wills, on whom to center their attention, so tonight Eileen Bennett, young English player, stood out among the debutantes.

The Americans presented tonight were Mrs. George Barnett, of Washington, D. C., and Virginia; Miss Marie Cullum, Pennsylvania. Mrs. Paul Grenning, California; Mrs. George Lawrence, jr., New York; Margaret McKittrick, Missouri; Miss Catherine Norcross, Georgia; Miss Margaret Tyner, of Wash-

QUICK CONFIRMATION OF HARTMAN LIKELY

Hoover Names Supporter of Al Smith to Public Utilities Commission.

CAPPER PRAISES RECORD

The nomination of Harleigh H. Hartman to be a member of the local Public Utilities Commission, exclusively announced in The Post yesterday morning, will receive early confirmation by the Senate, according to indications at the Capitol.

The nomination was sent from the White House to the Capitol late yesterday and was immediately referred to the Senate District committee.

Senator Capper (Republican), of Kansas, chairman of the committee, announced last night that he would appoint a subcommittee early next week to consider Hartman's nomination. Capper said he was impressed by Hartman's record as it was outlined in the newspapers.

In sending the nomination to the Senate yesterday, President Hoover gave out a statement outlining Hartman's record and also a statement saying that he had been "indorsed by members of the Interstate Commerce Commission and others."

One thing that was omitted from the White House statement, however, was the information that Hartman, although a Republican, had favored the election of Al Smith last November. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus and attends St. Gabriel's Catholic Church.

Hartman is regarded by those who know him as eminently qualified by study and experience to handle the work of the Public Utilities Commission. In fact, it is not too much to say that in selecting Hartman for the commission President Hoover has chosen a man who is head and shoulders above any past member of the commission in so far as knowledge of the work is concerned.

But while District leaders regard such qualifications as very fine, they are more interested in the question as to

WOMAN'S KERCHIEF ON STUDENT'S BODY

DISEASE NEW DISCLOSURE

Windsor, Conn., May 10 (A.P.).—Six handkerchiefs, five of them blood-stained, one a woman's and two bearing different initials, were in the pockets of Walter Treadway Huntington, Harvard junior, when his body was found, Medical Examiner Henry N. Costello revealed in his official report of homicide to the coroner late today. The body was found in a field two days ago with a bullet wound in the head.

The report was filed at about the same time the funeral of the young student, which had been announced for tomorrow to deceive the curious, was being held. The services were private.

Three hours earlier today County Detective Edward J. Hickey reported obtaining evidence and a motive sustaining his suicide theory in the case. At the same time Dr. Aaron T. Pratt, medical examiner for Windsor, issued an official finding of homicide, based on the autopsy, in which he was assisted by Dr. Costello, called in from Hartford.

Detective Dickey had given as the motive for self-destruction an incurable disease. The Huntington family, which includes the widowed mother, the dead student's brother, Clark, and sister, Mary, and a cousin, Charles Huntington, had announced themselves reconciled to the suicide belief. Hickey said that the sister and brother, in a hurried trip to Cambridge, Mass., had carried away evidence which sustained the disease theory.

Dr. Costello, in his report does not substantiate this theory. Instead, he refers to an "injury" which he described as "a cut a half-inch long."

The handkerchiefs, indicating that Huntington was not alone when he died, strengthened the investigators' idea that a woman was connected with the shooting, this idea having arisen

HOOVER MOVES TO AVERT RIFT IN PARTY LINES

BROOKHART TO TALK LOYALTY QUESTION

Letter to Friend Back Home Quickly Becomes Topic of National Interest.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Hoover moved quickly yesterday to prevent a breach in the party because of the clash Thursday of Senators Fess of Ohio, and Borah, of Idaho. He invited the Idaho senator to be a dinner guest at the White House tomorrow, together with Mrs. Borah.

The President's action came as the bitterness aroused by Fess' charges began to grow more acute. Plans are in the making to give the professorial Ohioan a castigation Monday. Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, announced that at that time he would "discuss pseudo Republicanism." Other senators also plan to speak, it is understood, the net effect being to heap such invectives upon Fess as to cause his shoulders to bend.

Mr. Hoover's move is, of course, to show that he does not subscribe to Fess' utterances.

The Ohioan, who seems to have a faculty for getting into hot water, dubbed Borah, Brookhart and Nye as "pseudo Republicans" because they voted for the debenture farm relief plan against the President's wishes. He recalled that these three were the prime movers in the calling of the extra session of Congress, Borah being more responsible than anybody else.

Political Slaves Lashed.

Borah retorted by saying that he "sincerely supported" Mr. Hoover for the Presidency but he did not consider that that prevented his entertaining different views now and then.

"Only a base class of indolent slaves would entertain any such ideas," he declared.

"There are two classes of politicians—one is the individual who barters his vote for gain and for money—there is the other who holds his convictions, his conscience, at the disposal of some particular individual, some one whom he looks upon as a political superior with a possible power to advance his interests.

"The contempt which self-respecting people measure out to both is a mere matter of degree."

Letter Leaped Boundaries.

Added weight was given to Fess' utterance because he is the party whip in the Senate, or third in command. On form his action was a self-appointed effort to discipline the three Progressives, and likewise the President's dinner invitation to Borah is a repudiation of this effort. It means that he does not consider Borah, at least, a "pseudo Republican."

It is more than likely that what actually happened, however, is that the Ohio senator did not realize that his charges would cause such a sensation. He made them in a letter to a private and political friend in Ohio. And then, perceiving the opportunity for some good publicity in his own State, he decided to give this letter to the "Ohio newspaper boys," that is, those who represent Ohio newspapers. It is significant that he said in this intimate letter that he had warned President Hoover against just what happened—Borah, Nye and Brookhart getting him into the extra session mess and then Motorist Says Headlights Revealed Man Poised on Guard Rail.

A reported drowning of an unidentified man, apparently bent upon suicide, on the north side of the Tidal Basin, near Fifteenth and B streets northwest, last night, resolved into mystery deeper than the basin. The harbor police and the rescue squad dragged throughout the night in a futile effort to find the body, as crowds stood by searching the waters under the powerful floodlights playing upon the surface.

Driving down Fifteenth street, Robert F. Whaley, of 1900 S street northwest, said his headlights showed a man in shirt sleeves poised upon the 3-foot guard rail, apparently intent on jumping into the basin, according to the report Mr. Whaley subse-

Policeman Who Shot Youth In Leg Is Put Back on Force

Commissioners Overrule Trial Board in Case of R. J. Allen.

Policeman R. J. Allen, of the Third Precinct, will not be dismissed from the District police force for shooting a colored youth in the leg several weeks ago.

The District Commissioners yesterday overruled the Police Trial Board which found Allen guilty of unjustified use of his pistol and sentenced him to dismissal.

The action of the Commissioners, taken on recommendation of Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty, who has immediate supervision of the Police Department, was expressed in the following language:

"Upon consideration of the testimony, appeal of counsel for the defendant and proceedings in this case, embarrassing him. He had warned against this, just as he used to help President Coolidge out of bad situations.

Chastised by Coolidge.

But the senator overlooked the closeness with which this country is knitted together in this modern day and time. The only way to confine an utterance to Ohio is to keep it from being worth while anywhere else.

In less time than it would take to tell, the senator's letter had taken on national significance and national circulation.

His predicament recalls that which he got into early last year when he came out of the White House and proudly announced that Mr. Coolidge had chastised him, subsequently to say that he was not telling the truth to the "newspaper boys."

But the President's dinner invitation to Borah and the drubbing that awaits him Monday do not disturb the senator's serene attitude toward life. He will take what comes and throw it off as a duck sheds water from its back.

Not to Question Loyalty.

Observers generally agree that the President must have been quite chagrined when Borah did vote for the debenture plan, especially when Borah probably carried three or four votes with him. But he is not of the mind to question his Republicanism because of this.

In fact, the President said at the outset of his administration that Congress was the legislative body and that it was for that body to do its legislating. He asserted in effect that he was to be no "big stick" President.

And as to Borah's attitude, he used to say during the campaign when his opponents recalled the time during the food administration when he bitterly attacked Hoover, that if he only found it necessary to attack or criticize a man once that was self-evidence that the man must be exceptionally good. Presumably, this is his attitude when he votes against him only once.

Josephine Washington Divorced From Clubman

New York, May 10 (A.P.).—Mrs. Josephine R. Washington, former actress and granddaughter of Joseph Jefferson, the actor, has obtained a divorce in Reno, Nev., from Henry James Lemar, Washington, wealthy New York clubman and "Dude Ranch" owner, friends here learned today.

Mrs. Washington charged cruelty and indifference and declared her husband had urged her on several occasions to get a divorce. They were married in Greenwich, Conn., in 1923 and have a son, 6 years of age. Washington, who is a descendant of John Washington, brother of George Washington, has made his home in Reno for the last four years. He is interested in mine property and conducts a "Dude Ranch" about 17 miles from Reno.

Swiss Drys End Drive For Local-Option Plan

Geneva, May 10 (A.P.).—Swiss temperance workers were today winding up a campaign to obtain public indorsement of local option principles at a national poll Sunday, May 12. The election is to be held by reason of an initiative petition signed by more than 150,000 citizens.

The proposition to be voted on provides that cantons and communes be authorized to prevent the manufacture and sale of distilled drinks at the demand of one-tenth of the voters in any local district. The campaign against hard drinks has been particularly active in Switzerland of late.

AROUND-WORLD HOP PLAN PARTLY BARED

Hulse, Reserve Flier of Army, Says Six Licensed Pilots Will Start in Fall.

SECRECY VEILS BACKERS

Baltimore, Md., May 10 (A.P.).—Albert Hulse, Army reserve flier, who has announced his intention of making a round the world nonstop flight, will make the effort in a monoplane in September, he said today, but secrecy still held most of the details.

The crew will be composed of six licensed pilots, but the names of the other five or the flight backers he would not reveal. Of the plane, he would say only that it weighed six and one-half tons and was to be taken up by him tomorrow for altitude tests. Where it was and who constructed it remained secret.

He estimated the nonstop flight would take five and one-half days. The start, he said, would be made between September 1 and 15 from New York with 900 gallons of gas. Gas will be taken en route, according to his plans, at Boston, Portsmouth and Nova Scotia, from where the plane will head over the Atlantic Ocean with 1,900 gallons of gas.

Other refueling points, he said would be: Two in Scotland, one each in Germany, Central Europe and Moscow, two in Siberia and one at Nome, Seward, Vancouver, Butte, Mont., and Detroit. The proposed route, he said, will take the plane over Chicago, but no gas will be taken at that point.

A radio is to be taken on the flight and communication maintained with land stations, he added.

U. S. Jury Fails to Act In Police Rum Scandal

Detroit, May 10 (A.P.).—The Federal jury investigating the Belle Isle police liquor scandal reported today that it did not find sufficient evidence upon which to base indictments for violation of any Federal laws. The jury was called after the suspension of Capt. Joseph A. Burkheiser, as harbor master and head of the police detail on the island, on charges of having aided rum runners in transportating liquor across from Canada.

Numerous police officers and members of the Detroit Yacht Club, located on Belle Isle, were among those summoned before the grand jury.

ANSELMI ALSO WEALTHY

Chicago, May 11 (U.P.).—Huge revenues for which gangsters sacrifice their lives brought wealth to at least one of the three victims in the latest flare-up of the beer war in Chicago, it was revealed today when arrangements for their funerals were made by relatives.

John Scalise was reported by police officials to have accumulated $250,000, and at the time he was slain by rival gangsters was preparing to return to Palermo, Sicily, his native city.

A silver and bronze casket costing $5,000 was ordered, in which the body of Scalise will be taken back to his native land for burial. The casket was ordered by Mrs. Antonia Mangaordo, an a[illegible] of Scalise, who disclosed to authorities the extent of her nephew's wealth.

Scalise's inseperable companion, Albert Anselmi, who met his death at the same time and in the same manner, also had considerable money. Relatives ordered a $6,000 casket, and his body probably will lie alongside Scalise's on the trip across the sea. Anselmi was a native of Maruals, Italy.

Elaborate funeral services are being planned for Joseph Giunta, third victim, who had succeeded to the leadership of the unique Sicilianе, a position which cost the lives of his two predecessors in the last year.

The services to be held tomorrow morning will be in keeping with Giunta's position as head of the Sicilian organization. A great silver and bronze casket held the body at an undertaking parlor today, and numerous huge floral designs surrounded it.

Authorities of Hammond, Ind., and Chicago continued their effort to run down the slayers. The accepted theory was that followers of "Bugs" Moran had killed the trio in revenge for the massacre of seven Moranites here on St. Valentine's Day.

It was believed the men were killed in Chicago and the bodies taken across the Indiana line near Hammond, where they were found Wednesday morning.

"DOCTOR," CHECKS REFUSED, ENDS LIFE

WRONG ADDRESS IS GIVEN

New York, May 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A middle-aged, well-dressed man walked into a drug store near 116th street and Broadway this afternoon and asked to have a $5 check cashed. He said he was "Dr. H. D. Costello, of 490 Riverside drive," and explained he had lost his wallet.

The manager, suspicious of the man's hurried manner, refused to cash the check. The "doctor" then offered a $2 check and finally begged for the loan of a quarter. When this, too, was refused, he walked out.

A clerk notified Patrolman Doyle, who followed the stranger down the block to another drug store. The man entered with Doyle at his heels. Again came the request to cash a check as a professional courtesy. The patrolman stepped up and told the "doctor" he would have to go to the station house.

The man offered no resistance, but appeared extremely upset. He asked for a glass of water and dropped in a "headache" powder before swallowing it. Then he walked out with Doyle. They had only gone a few steps when the "doctor" slumped to the pavement. He was dead when an ambulance from Knickerbocker Hospital arrived.

Police found a packet containing a white powder, believed to be poison, in the man's pockets. They were unable to identify him tonight, their sole clue being a brown hat purchased in Baltimore. There is no "Dr. H. D. Costello" listed in local medical records and no such person lives at 490 Riverside drive.

Detective Walsh learned that a "Dr. Costello" had passed eight worthless checks, all under $25, within a week. Two check books, one on the Irving Trust Co. and the other on the Municipal Bank & Trust Co., were found on the man. The body was taken to the morgue.

Glendenning Wins Custody of Boy, 6

Court Takes Son From His Mother, Adopted Daughter of A. I. Du Pont.

New York, May 10 (A.P.).—Harold Sanford Glendenning was awarded custody of his 6-year-old son, Allen S. Glendenning, today by Supreme Court Justice Sherman. The boy has been in the custody of his mother, the former Alicia du Pont, adopted daughter of Alfred I. du Pont, of Wilmington, Del., who obtained a divorce from Glendenning in Reno in 1926.

The filing of the order disclosed that Justice Sherman had been holding hearings in chambers in the case since May 1, when Glendenning obtained a writ of habeas corpus compelling Mrs. Glendenning to produce the boy in court.

Stipulations, agreed to by counsel for both sides, provided that the sole care, custody and education of the boy go to the father, that the couple meet February 1, 1930, to consider whether the best interests of the child call for a change in custody and if they are unable to agree they are directed to seek the aid of the court.

$10,000 Demanded Of Mrs. Beardslee

Letter-Writer Wants Sum to Hush "Evidence" in Death of Husband.

Stamford, Conn., May 10 (A.P.).—A demand that $10,000 be given to a woman carrying a lilac bloom who was to be at the Stamford railroad station on the evening of May 8, was received by Mrs. Gladys Foster Beardslee, young widow of Oliver Beardslee, of Stratford, who killed himself last month, the police announced today.

The station was surrounded by officers that night, but the woman carrying a lilac bloom did not appear.

The demand was contained in an unsigned letter sent from New York, and said:

"You murdered your husband. You know you did. I have evidence to prove it, and I will give it to the police unless you come to the Stamford railroad station on May 8 at 8 p. m., with $10,000 in $100 and $50 bills. You will not see me. A woman with a lilac in her hand will be waiting. Give her the money and she will give you the evidence. Don't say anything."

Man, Trying to See Wife, Is Held Sane

Broker, Accused of Disturbing Peace, Enjoined From Sending Flowers.

Chicago, Ill., May 10 (A.P.).—J. Clark Dean, jr., young broker, ordered to take a mentality test because he persisted in attempting to see his estranged wife, was adjudged sane late today. He now faces a charge of disturbing the peace filed by guests of the hotel where Mrs. Josephine Seeberger Dean, his wife, formerly lived.

Dean, who is 31, was disinherited by his wealthy father because he married in violation of a court order forbidding him to wed until he reached his majority. His wife divorced him on the grounds of cruelty.

Since then Mrs. Dean has gone into hiding to avoid her husband's attentions and she obtained an injunction to prevent his sending flowers and attempting to see her. He will face the disorderly conduct charge Monday. He denied making a disturbance at the hotel and said he wanted to see his police dog, not his wife.

Gibson Is Felicitated By President Hoover

Brussels, Belgium, May 10 (A.P.).—Hugh S. Gibson, American Ambassador to Belgium, today received a congratulatory message from President Hoover in connection with his work at the recent disarmament discussions in Geneva.

German Loan Authorized.

Berlin, May 10 (A.P.).—The Reichsrat today approved a plan proposed by the minister of finance for the raising of an internal loan of 500,000,000 marks to cover expenditures of the extraordinary budget. The Reicharat also authorized the minister of finance to part with certain German railway shares.

DIRIGIBLE TRAFFIC TO HAWAII SOUGHT

Goodyear Concern Asks for Hoover's Aid in Getting Mail Contract to Island.

MAY TAKE PASSENGERS

New York, May 10 (A.P.).—If plans which have already reached the stage of presentation for consideration to President Hoover materialize, California is to have a great air base from which mighty dirigible liners will fly to Hawaii, the Philippines and the Orient.

Construction of the operating base may begin as early as next winter, and if this occurs, America's first commercial leviathan of the air should be carrying passengers and mail over the California-Hawaii route by 1931.

A $10,000,000 plan for such an air line was presented to the President at Washington yesterday by Paul W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Zeppelin Co., of Akron, Ohio, who said he was ready to go ahead if Congress at its next session would authorize shipping the Hawaiian mail by air.

Mail to Cover Expenses.

The Postoffice Department, Litchfield explained today in revealing details of his plan, can let contracts for air mail such as is carried by planes, but this is not what is wanted. The regular air mail is sent under special postage, and is optional with the senders. What Litchfield wants is legislation calling for shipment of all first-class Hawaiian mail by dirigible and as much parcel post as there is room for.

This, he and J. C. Hunsaker, vice president of the company, estimate, would guarantee sufficient income to justify the large initial outlay and would cover running expenses. Profit, all return on the money invested for terminals and ships, would have to come from passenger traffic.

First-class mail to Hawaii averages about 5,000 pounds a week, and parcel post about 100,000 pounds. The mail capacity of the proposed air liners will be 20,000 pounds. The postage rate to be charged has not been decided as yet, but the possible income from carrying mail may be estimated by taking the present charge for 1 ounce first-class mail within the borders of the United States. At this rate, if the proposed dirigible could fill its mail compartment with first-class mail, it would make $16,000 on each trip between California and Hawaii.

The passenger rate has not been fixed either but it would probably be about twice the steamer fare.

Line to Orient Expected.

Should the plan go through, as Litchfield and Hunsaker expect, a second dirigible would be launched in 1932 and gradually the service would be extended to the Philippines and then to Yokohama. The westward route thus would be flown with the help of the trade winds all the way. A northerly route from Yokohama to Hawaii would be followed on the return to take advantage of prevailing winds in the other direction.

The proposed dirigibles would be the same size as the two under contract to the Goodyear Zeppelin Co. for the Navy, about twice as big as the Navy Los Angeles, would carry a crew of about 50 and have cabin accomodations for 100 passengers. A 90 mile speed would permit a one week journey to the Orient.

The ship would be run by an operating company to be organized as a subsidiary of the Goodyear Zeppelin Co. A great hangar would be erected at the California base and mooring masts would be built at Hawaii and farther East as the service extended.

Prince Henry Leaves Tokyo.

Tokyo, May 10 (A.P.).—The official part of the visit of Prince Henry, Duke of Gloucester, and his suite in Japan, terminated today and they left for a visit at Nikko, about 80 miles north of here. While traveling up country and until he returns to Canada, the duke will remain incognito.

4 KILLED, 10 INJURED IN FIREWORKS BLAST

Five Buildings Wrecked as Mysterious Explosion Starts Fire.

SHOCK FELT FOR MILES

Hanover, Mass., May 10 (A.P.).—Four workmen were fatally injured, one was missing and ten others were hurt here today as a result of a series of explosions which wrecked five buildings of the National Fire Works Co.

The dead were Edgar Knight, Frank Bulof, Robert Perry and Teobil Skwarginsky. John Handeberry was at the Brockton Hospital and John Swenska was missing. All lived in this town, 13 miles from Brockton, with the exception of Perry, who lived at Hanson. None of the injured, except Handeberry, was believed to have been seriously hurt.

The only explanation for the first explosion came from Perry just before he died at the Brockton Hospital. George J. J. Clark, treasurer and principal owner of the company, said Perry told a nurse he was placing a tray of dried powder on a rack when, in some unknown manner, the powder exploded.

Blast Felt Miles Away.

Windows in buildings considerable distance away were shattered by the force of the explosions and structures 8 and 10 miles from the plant were shaken. Fire apparatus and ambulances from surrounding towns were sent to the scene to aid in the rescue work.

Although Handeberry, a private fireman at the plant, and Swenska were officially missing, fragments of bodies found in the ruins of the buildings caused searchers to believe the men were dead.

The plant was made up of 250 small one-story buildings, with tin or iron roofs. Of the 350 employes, 112 were women.

Foreman Leads Many to Safety.

The first explosion occurred shortly after 2 o'clock. The foreman of the plant, trained for such an emergency, gathered the employes and led them off the company property. As the flames resulting from the first blast spread, four additional explosions were caused, until five of the buildings were wrecked. All windows in a two-story administration building were shattered.

The damage was estimated at $5,000. Of the buildings wrecked, three were known as mixing houses, one was used for automatic loading and one for drying powder.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 10 (A.P.).—James Carlisle, 35 years old, employe in the Solvay Process Co., a subsidiary of the Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation, died in a hospital shortly after noon today from the effects of chlorine gas which flooded the Solvay district after the explosion of a 9,000-gallon tank. Charles Ney, 39, another employe was in a serious condition from the same cause.

Gas Masks Used.

Carlisle was carried from the gas-flooded area by other workmen equipped with gas masks.

About 30 other workmen were slightly affected.

New York, May 10 (A.P.).—Four persons were injured today in a varnish factory explosion and fire in Brooklyn. The fire destroyed a three-story building built a year ago on the site of another building that was burned in the same way. The factory was that of the Campbell Dowling Co. at second and Hamilton avenues. The explosion occurred in a resin grinding machine on the first floor.

Danville's Annexation Plan, Unsupported, Dies

Danville, Va., May 10.—Danville's annexation plan, contemplated by a council committee for several weeks, was unceremoniously dropped tonight when the committee reported that it encountered opposition everywhere and support from no quarter at all. It recommended that annexation be shelved until some affirmative interest in the expansion scheme is revealed by the citizenship.

Croker's Servant Wins Will Contest

Mrs. Cremin Gets $25,000 by Court Decree Handed Down in Ireland.

Dublin, Irish Free State, May 10 (A.P.).—Mrs. Fanny Harmon Cremin, former servant of the late Richard Croker, once Tammany chief in New York, won her case in high court today, in which she claimed £5,000 (about $25,000) under a codicil to Croker's last will. The jury found that the codicil had not been revoked during the testator's life time.

The judge decreed probate of the codicil but postponed execution until the next sitting of the court.

Mrs. Cremin, who nursed Croker in his last illness and was with him at the time of his death, had sued Mrs. Bula Croker, widow of the Tammany leader, for this sum, which she asserted Croker bequeathed to her.

It was said that lawyers had hoped that grounds would be discovered during trial of Mrs. Cremin's suit for asking the courts to reopen the will contest by Mr. Croker's children against his widow.

Dry Raiders Seize Liquor Found in Bed With Girl, 12

Rum Will Be Used as Evidence Against Mother in First Case of Illinois Woman Charged With Buying Whisky; De King, Prosecutor, Directs Trial.

Elgin, Ill., May 10 (A.P.).—A gallon of liquor found in bed with the 12-year-old daughter of a hotel keeper will be used as evidence Monday in a case which the Kane County prosecutor predicted would set a precedent in that a buyer of liquor will be prosecuted for the first time in Illinois courts.

The mother of the girl, Mrs. Helen Ambrose, was arrested on a charge of buying liquor and State's Attorney George D. Carbary said she had agreed to plead guilty and accept a fine of $125, including costs.

Mrs. Ambrose, who is the first woman in the State arrested on a charge of buying liquor and who very likely will be the first to be fined on that charge, operates a hotel here with her husband, John. He recently was fined for selling liquor.

A policeman saw a bootlegger, who is now in prison, making frequent visits to the hotel, going in with a loaded satchel and coming out without the load. Carbary ordered a raid. The officers found nothing on the first floor of the hotel. Upstairs, however, under the covers of the bed in which the Ambrose girl was sleeping, was the gallon bottle of liquor.

The fine will add to the more than $50,000 collected by State's Attorney Carbary for liquor law violations in the short time he has been in office. He was elected last November on a pledge to clean up Kane County. In March, deputy sheriffs, with a search warrant issued at the request of Carbary's assistant, Carleton Shults, in Aurora, raided the home of Joseph Deking, clubbed him and shot and killed his wife.

One indictment resulted from that affair. An investigator, Eugene Boyd Fairchild, who swore falsely in affidavit to buying liquor at the Deking home, was charged with perjury. A committee of the State Legislature has been appointed to investigate the Deking slaying.

The Illinois statutes provide punishment for any one who buys liquor.

Inquiry Fruitless In Dancer's Death

Actresses Throw No Light on Previous Life of Delphine Walsh.

Los Angeles, May 10 (A.P.).—Questioning of Natalie Joyce and Mildred Harris, motion picture actresses, failed to throw any light on incidents which led to the death recently of Delphine Walsh, Hollywood dancer, William A. Byrne, special agent of the State Board of Medical Examiners, announced today.

Miss Walsh died after an asserted illegal operation. Dr. P. S. Traxler and Dr. E. S. Lanterman were arrested and charged with murder.

Miss Harris, former wife of Charles Chaplin, screen comedian, and Miss Joyce were said to have been friends of the dancer. Questioned yesterday, Miss Harris told Byrne she had known Miss Walsh intimately, but did not know anything about her associates.

A trip to San Francisco to attend a wedding and a party later attended by Miss Walsh were made the subject of an investigation in the effort to throw some light on the dancer's recent life. Miss Joyce told the investigator that she had not seen Miss Walsh for a year.

Telephones on Trains Depend on Rail Heads

New York, May 10.—With reference to telephone service on moving trains, Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., said:

"For several years the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. has been ready to install telephone service on moving trains and about two years ago had the matter up actively with two of the leading railroad systems of the country. Both railroads decided against it, as it was not considered commercially practical. If any railroad wishes to give such service on its trains and bear the necessary cost of it, we shall be very happy to install it and connect it with the lines of the Bell system."

Pastor, Assaulted By 4 of Flock, Dies

Minister Refuses to Name Men Who Objected to His Sermon.

Portland, Oreg., May 10 (A.P.).—The Rev. Andrew Lajunen, pastor of the Finnish Pentecostal Church at Mullan, Idaho, died in a hospital here today from injuries alleged to have been inflicted by four members of his congregation because they objected to a sermon.

Before his death the minister told detectives that he had refused to sign a complaint against the four men, whom he was unable to name, and that an investigation of the case by officers at Mullan had been dropped.

The pastor went to Spokane three days after the attack and then came here to visit a friend. His condition grew worse and he entered the hospital. Hospital attendants said death was caused by a fractured skull.

Laymen's Indifference To Church Denounced

Chicago, May 10 (A.P.).—The average man spends more time on the golf course and more money on his caddy than upon his church and religious life, Charles E. Field, of Chicago, today told the twenty-eighth national conference of the Federation of Church Clubs of the United States.

The indifference of the business man to his church is the greatest problem before the churches today, he said. An Episcopal layman, he censured the Episcopal Church by declaring that no other religious organization was carrying such a load of indifferent membership.

U.S. Engineer Slain By Mexican Miners

Thomas S. Decker Stabbed to Death After Reproving Two Workmen.

Mexico City, May 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The American consul at Guadalajara, Raleigh Gibson, today telegraphed to Ambassador Morrow confirming the murder Wednesday of Thomas S. Decker, metallurgist of the Cinco Minas Mine, at Hostotipaquillo, Jalisco. Decker was killed by two Mexican employes in revenge for a reproof he had given them.

The men followed Decker from the mine shaft and attacked him in his office, stabbing him to death. The killers escaped and are being pursued by a government posse.

Decker was a native-born American, but had lived in Mexico for 25 years. His wife and two small children left a month ago for a visit to the United States. One month ago General Manager Zoffman was shot at by miners at the shaft in which Decker encountered the two men who later killed him. Zoffman was wounded in the ear. The mine is owned by James W. Gerard, former American Ambassador to Germany.

Oklahoma Justice Cleared by Senate

J. W. Clark Reinstated on Supreme Court Bench by State Body.

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 10 (A.P.).—Justice J. W. Clark, of the Oklahoma Supreme Court, was cleared of impeachment charges late today by the State Senate. The senate court voted acquittal on ten charges and dismissed the eleventh article preferred by the House of Representatives. Justice Clark was accused of irregularities in office.

The senate court verdict automatically reinstates Justice Clark to the Supreme Court bench, from which he was suspended about a month ago when the court took over the house charges.

The last charge to be voted upon was one of general incompetency, of which Gov. Henry D. Johnston was convicted by the senate in March and removed from office. The vote for conviction of Clark on this charge was 13 to 30.

Gale-Tossed Schooner, 2 Weeks Overdue, Safe

West Palm Beach, Fla., May 10 (A.P.).—Battered by Atlantic gales, the four-masted schooner James C. Hamlen, two weeks overdue at Tampa, Fla., is lying off the Palm Beach coast repairing sails damaged in last Sunday's storm.

Fears for the schooner's safety were expressed in Tampa yesterday, as no word had been received from her since she left Norfolk, Va., April 15, after undergoing repairs. Distress signals were hoisted by the schooner Wednesday, but Capt. Bert Hiscock, of West Palm Beach, who brought his vessel alongside, said the Hamlen's only need was a supply of canvas.

Inveterate Bride.

Lima, Ohio (U.P.).—Although but 27 years old, Mrs. Ivan J. Daugherty has sailed the turbulent sea of matrimony six times, believed to be a record for her age. Her latest marriage was solemnized here recently. Her sixth husband, Ivan J. Daugherty, is a railroad engineer.

SCHACHT AND STAMP TO DRAFT PROPOSAL

German Reparations Reservations Will Be Placed in Writing Before Experts.

REPARTITION TO BE ISSUE

Paris, May 10 (U.P.).—The Reparations Conference of Experts took a new turn today when it was decided to permit Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, chief German delegate, and Sir Josiah Stamp, of Great Britain, to collaborate on a revised final report in which the German reservations to the Young compromise plan will be put in writing.

It was anticipated that the decision would prolong negotiations of the experts almost another week. The final report—on which there were more hopeful signs of agreement this afternoon—will be turned over to the permanent reparations committee.

After several days' conferences between Dr. Schacht, Stamp and Chairman Owen D. Young it appeared that the German reservations had been reduced to a negligible quantity, but the French delegates, who must accept the compromise to assure success, never have been satisfied because the reservations have not been put in writing.

Young confided the work to Stamp because of his ability to handle fine phraseology and his complete understanding of the case. In the report, it is expected, the Germans will accept the Young figures for annual payments with as few reservations as Stamp can induce them to make.

The question of repartition of the reparations surplus among the Allies—to which the British delegation has objected—may be left out of the conference report when it is presented to the experts for final recommendations next week. It has been emphasized that the division figures did not necessarily affect the settlement with Germany.

If the reservations of Germany are moderate enough it is anticipated that the French delegates will agree to the compromise, and the ultimate disposition of the repartition question will become the outstanding issue before the experts.

Man Hurt in Fall On Arlington Bridge

Benjamin Ramos, 27, of 415 Queen street, Alexandria, Va., was injured seriously yesterday in a fall on the Arlington Memorial Bridge, now under construction. He was treated at Emergency Hospital for a fractured skull and other injuries.

Ramos, an employe of the Comky Construction Co., slipped while at work on the superstructure and fell about 10 feet on his head. He was taken to the hospital by police of the Third Precinct.

Sixty Reported Killed In Mexican Forest Fire

Mexico City, May 10 (A.P.).—Forty children and twenty adults are reported to have perished in a forest fire which destroyed the village of Dochilapa, in the State of Guerrero, on Wednesday.

The fire engulfed the village shortly before dawn and most of the victims were burned in their beds. Hundreds of villagers were burned out of their homes.

BLOODY KERCHIEFS FOUND ON BODY

when two farmers had reported seeing on several occasions prior to the shooting a car, with a dark-haired, slender girl and a youthful-looking man, parked on the road 15 feet from the lot on which the body was found.

One of the men's handkerchiefs, according to Dr. Costello's report, bore the initial "C" or "G." This was found in the right-hand outside pocket of the youth's suit coat, he also wore an overcoat, and was wet and stained with blood. Also bloodstained was a handkerchief in the left hip pocket of the trousers with the initial "H." The woman's handkerchief, one of three found in the right hip pocket, contained bits of tissue which Dr. Costello described as "resembling brain tissue and mucous."

SENATE SETS PAY OF FARM CHAIRMAN

Votes to Retain Right to Fix Salaries Against Giving It to President.

FESS BACKS AMENDMENT

(Associated Press.)

Preparing for a final vote early next week on the farm relief bill, with its disputed export debenture section, the Senate acted upon the first of a mass of proposed amendments yesterday and accepted one which would give Congress instead of the President the power to fix the salary of the proposed farm board's chairman.

The remainder of the amendments are expected to be disposed of Monday. The Senate recessed over the week-end.

The proposal to give the chairman of the farm board a salary of $12,000 a year, the same as other members of the board, was offered by Senator Thomas (Democrat), of Oklahoma, and adopted by a vote of 46 to 32.

The bill as it was reported by the Senate agriculture committee gave the President power to name the chairman and fix his salary.

The Thomas amendment was indorsed by Senator McNary, of Oregon, chairman of the committee, who contended that to delegate to the President the power of fixing salaries would "be contrary, in my judgment, to the fundamental law." The amendment was supported generally by the same Democrats and Republican independents who disregarded Mr. Hoover's objections to the export debenture plan, and also by a number of senators who upheld the President's opposition to debentures.

Among those who voted with the Democratic-Republican-independent group was Senator Fess (Republican), of Ohio, who Thursday complained because "Senator Borah and other pseudo-Republicans" disregarded President Hoover's view on the debenture proposal.

Among those who voted for the debenture plan, but today voted to give Mr. Hoover the right to fix the salary of the board chairman, were Senators Howell, of Nebraska; Norbeck, of South Dakota, and Schall, of Minnesota, all of the Republican independent group.

Mother Urges Son, 40, As Edison Candidate

Boise, Idaho, May 10 (A.P.).—There is no age limit on genius, in the opinion of a mother living in Churchill, who today recommended her son, aged 40, as a candidate for the Ohio entry in the competition to find a successor to Thomas A. Edison.

The mother, whose name was withheld, said she had read about the State commissioners of education hunting a genius and she wanted to recommend her son, who she said was "trustworthy and was apt in a mechanical way," and was now running a sheep-shearing plant in Aberdeen.

Roads Grand Jury Clears Commission

Report Says Indictments of Employes Cover All Criminal Shortages.

Baltimore, May 10.—Declaring that it is shown to their satisfaction that there was no criminal intent on the part of any member of the State Roads Commission or any other State official, and declaring that they were convinced that the indictment returned by preceding grand juries and their own reindictment of four previously convicted persons included all the persons implicated criminally in the shortage, the January term grand jury submitted its report to Judge Samuel K. Dennis, in the Criminal Court, today.

The report referred to the investigation of other bodies, such as the grand inquest committee and the Neiligan committee, and added that the jury is convinced, after considering all the testimony, "that we can conscientiously and conclusively state that we did not establish criminal intent on the part of any member of the commission or any other State official."

In another portion, the report declared that the jury had convinced itself of thoroughness of the investigation and has "every reason to believe that all of the shortages have been brought to life and that the indictments returned by the preceding grand juries, together with the additional indictments returned by this jury, include all persons implicaed i nthe crimes established."

HARTMAN IS HELD SURE OF APPROVAL

just where Hartman's heart will take his judgment when it comes to deciding various nicely balanced questions which he will have to pass on as a member of the commision.

There is no criticism of Hartman, but there is a general air of waiting to see just what he will do. From the point of view of some of the stalwarts among the public defenders in the organized citizenship, Hartman will have to prove himself.

This does not mean that Hartman has been condemned before he begins his work. Far from it. William A. Roberts, brilliant young lieutenant to William McK. Clayton in the street car merger fight, who is one of the valuation experts and examiners of the Interstate Commerce Commission, described Hartman as a "good man."

"Hartman is thoroughly prepared for the utilities commission work," Robert said. "He is familiar with valuation, not only in theory but in detail, and has had considerable experience which will stand him in very good stead."

But others adopted the "wait and see" attitude. To begin with, Hartman is committed to the theory of "replacement new" in making valuations. This, of course, is nothing new in utilities valuations, although there is a definite and growing school favoring the application of the prudent-investment theory to utilities valuations and the Interstate Commerce Commission has pending before the United States Supreme Court the so-called O'Fallon case, in which it is sought to have the highest court in the land give its approval to the prudent-investment theory.

Hartman's friends insist that though he is a believer in the reproduction-new theory of valuation, that does not mean that he is committed to any policy which involves giving the utilities everything they claim. To the contrary, they declare, he is determined to look over all claims carefully and to give full weight to such questions as property used and useful, depreciation, actual investment in utilities, as well as moneys prudently invested.

Too, it is said, Hartman is opposed to judicial fixing of valuations, as was done in the Capital Traction case by the District courts, a case, incidentally, which has become something of a landmark in District utilities affairs.

PORTO RICAN CHOICE WAITS ON ROOSEVELT

Naming of Governor Held Up Pending an Answer From China.

(Associated Press.)

Who is to be the next governor of Porto Rico depends in a measure upon the character of a message which comes out of the wilds of interior China where Theodore Roosevelt, jr., and his brother Kermit are engaged upon a scientific expedition for the Field Museum of Natural History.

Inquiry has been made of the Roosevelt family whether Theodore, jr., would accept appointment as the successor of Horace M. Towner as governor of Porto Rico. Members of the family are unable to answer definitely, and efforts are being made to get a message through to the former Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

While the selection of a governor general for the Philippines had almost been determined upon recently, it was said today in official quarters that the whole question was open again and that it was not quite positive that Brig. Gen. Frank McCoy, U. S. A., would be named. Gen. McCoy apparently has a long task ahead as chairman of the commission of conciliation on the Bolivia-Paraguay boundary dispute.

Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, U. S. A., who is in the Philippines as commander of the Philippines' Department, is said here to be looked upon with favor, especially among some leaders of the Philippines. His name is under consideration, along with those of a number of others, all of whom except Gen. McCoy are civilians.

Besides Col. Roosevelt, it is understood that two other New Yorkers are under consideration for important Government posts. Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman, is believed to be slated for diplomatic appointment, as is Albert H. Ottinger, former attorney general, who was defeated in his race to be governor of New York last November.

Ship Captain Arrested On Hit-and-Run Charge

Milwaukee, Wis., May 10 (A.P.).—Capt. W. F. McDonald, of Buffalo, was arrested by coast guardsmen when he docked his freighter, the Charles Donnelly, last night. The Coast Guard had been notified that the freighter sideswiped a fishing tug off Two Rivers, Wis., and proceeded without determining the amount of damage.

Two fishermen were badly burned when a blast of steam from the freighter's exhaust scalded them. Capt. McDonald, who denied intention to escape consequences of the act, was ordered to make a written report to the Department of Commerce. The Charles Donnelly, owned by the Great Lakes Transit Corporation, was bound for Milwaukee from Buffalo.

Motorcycle Policeman Hurt.

Motorcycle Policeman P. R. Townland, of the Park Department force, was treated at Walter Reed Hospital last night for injuries suffered when he was hurled from his machine near the hospital when the front wheel became locked. Doctors at the hospital said he suffered a sprained elbow and painful lacerations.

KING PROCLAMATION CLOSES PARLIAMENT

Royal Edict Clears Way for General Election to British Legislature.

SESSION CALLED JUNE 25

London, May 10 (A.P.).—The London Gazette tonight published the king's proclamation dissolving the British Parliament, which rather exceptionally has lasted within a few months of its full statutory term of five years.

In customary archaic phraseology the proclamation calls on the new Parliament to assemble at Westminster June 25. King George's proclamation also releases all the machinery for holding the new general elections on May 30, and tonight more than 2,000 large-sized copies of it were issued to lord mayors, mayors and sheriffs throughout the country for public exhibition.

The concluding ceremonies in Parliament were gone through very quickly today in the presence of a small attendance of members. Most of the others had already scattered to their constitutencies to begin in earnest their election campaigns.

An air of cheerfulness prevailed at the closing scenes while members were bidding each other good-by and wondering whether they would meet again in the new House. But public curiosity was not great enough to bring more than a small audience in either house.

The speech from the throne proroguing parliament was delivered by a proxy for King George, who was well enough, however, to sign the proclamation dissolving parliament at a meetng of the privy council at Craigwill House. Lord Hailsham, the lord chancellor, read the king's speech before the assembled members of the House of Commons and the House of Lords in the chambers of the House of Lords.

All eyes in England automatically turn tonight to the general elections campaign and its hazards and struggles. The king's proclamation today inaugurated an electoral battle which will conclude on May 30.

With the substantial increase in number of candidates by the Conservative and Labor parties and the great increase in Liberal candidates, the general election will see a remarkable number of three-cornered contests. Prospects of the party leaders and of the ministers in Premier Stanley Baldwin's government are the subject of much political comment.

Japan-U. S. Accord Forecast by Envoy

Catsuji Debuchi Speaks at Journalism Banquet of Missouri University.

Columbia, Mo., May 11 (U.P.).—Such differences as exist between the United States and Japan eventually will yield to mutual respect and concession, Catsuji Debuchi, Japanese Ambassador at Washington, predicted in a speech at the journalism week banquet at the University of Missouri tonight.

The ambassador made no direct reference to the exclusion of Japanese immigrants from the United States, the outstanding problem in Japanese-American relations since the immigration law of 1924 was enacted.

"It would be neither candid nor true to say that there have been no disagreements between Japan and America," the ambassador said. "But whatever differences we may have had will eventually yield to mutual respect and concession. In these days when we hear so much about commercial rivalry among nations, it is a remarkable fact that Japan's trade relationship with America is one of cooperation rather than competition. The diplomatic horizon of the Pacific is clear."

WILSON LIFTS BAN ON PRESS AT JAIL

Welfare Director Asserts He Will Still Afford Shield for Sinclair.

ACTION LIES WITH PEAK

George S. Wilson, director of public welfare, yesterday lifted the ban on reporters in the District Jail, where Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil man, is housed under a sentence of 90 days for refusing to answer questions propounded to him by a Senate committee investigating the oil lease scandals.

Wilson said his order was issued in the first place to bring about a relief from the invasion of newspaper reporters and photographers in the jail. There were so many of them, he said, that they seriously interfered with the business of conducting the jail.

The order lifting the ban, Wilson said, was not to be interpreted as a "backing down," for he intends to afford Sinclair as much protection as was granted the ordinary prisoner.

District officials admit they have something of a tartar in Mr. Sinclair. If they are unduly harsh it will be said they are singling out Sinclair for special punishment because he is rich. If they are lenient it will be said they are treating him too easily because he is rich.

Wilson's order puts the whole matter up to Maj. Peak and some of the latter's friends do not especially relish that.

It was said, however, that there was no effort to place responsibility for any untoward incidents on the shoulders of Maj. Peak in the new order, which follows:

"The director of public welfare stated today that he had authorized the superintendent of the District of Columbia Jail, in his discretion, to receive representatives of the press and to allow them to have all legitimate news facts. The director stated that there was never any intention of interfering with the legitimate prerogatives of the press, and that it had become necessary, temporarily, to deny admission of the public to the jail building because the continued presence of a considerable number of people had interfered seriously with the operation of the institution.

"The director expressed his confidence in the cooperation of responsible press representatives, so that it would not again become necessary to impose e limitations."

the most part these efforts have come from volunteer American debt-cancellationists rather than from French sources. The effect here of these manouvers has been precisely opposite to that which has been anticipated by those urging another American example of sacrifice.

It is realized that little actual financial loss would accrue to American taxpayers if the United States agreed to some of the proposed reductions in the American share of German reparation payments. Under normal circumstances, there might be no opposition to such a plan. But in view of the cancellation propaganda any reduction at all may be frowned upon if such reduction may be made to appear as an American gesture of sacrifice for the benefit of European debtor nations.

In other words, the solid wall of American opposition to debt-cancellation programs, involving solemn obligations owed to the United States, is not going to be weakened at any point. The cancellationists obviously hope that if America weakens even to a slight extent, the ice will be broken so far as future sacrifices are concerned and that the way will at last be paved to maneuver America into the position of accepting cancellation of the debts.

Marcel Knecht, editor of the Paris Matin, happens to be in Washington while the debt question is a subject of discussion. He conferred with Secretary Stimson yesterday relative to other matters and is at present interested in encouraging cooperation of American and French capital for the development of French colonial possessions. He believes a rich and fertile field is offered to American capital in these colonies.

M. Knecht said yesterday that Premier Poincare and Foreign Minister Briand are in a position to make effective whatever program they may desire with respect to the Mellon-Berenger agreement. They have the confidence of 90 per cent of the French people, according to M. Knecht, and will have the support of the people for any program they undertake to carry out. What program Poincare and Briand will decide upon with respect to the Mellon-Berenger agreement, M. Knecht did not pretend to say, explaining that this was a matter which Poincare and Briand would decide after full consideration of the interests of France.

MARINE QUIZ BEGUN IN OFFICER'S DEATH

Baltimore Lieutenant Found Killed by Bullet at Base in San Diego.

SUICIDE THEORY OPPOSED

San Diego, Calif., May 10 (A.P.).—A Marine Corps board of inquiry was formed today to investigate the death of First Lieut. John R. Streett whose body was found at the Marine Corps base here yesterday with a bullet hole through the head.

Police and Navy officers indicated their belief that Streett had committed suicide but were unable to give any reason for it.

Lieut. Streett is survived by his widow and his mother, Mrs. J. R. Streett, 930 North Charles street, Baltimore.

Streett came here early this year from duty with the Third Brigade of Marines at Tientsin, China. He was born in Maryland October 20, 1900 and entered the service from that State. He had previously served in the Coast Guard.

Baltimore, Md., May 10 (A.P.)—Lieut. John R. Streett, whose body was found at the Marine Corps base at San Diego yesterday, with a bullet hole through the head, was a resident of Baltimore and Harford County. He was a graduate of St. John's College, Annapolis, and had been in service since his graduation. He was married about two years ago to Miss Lucille Price, of Atlanta, Ga.

MRS. HOOVER VIEWS VIRGINIA ART WORKS

First Lady Motors to Richmond to Attend Historical Portrait Exhibition.

BIG COLLECTION LOANED

Mrs. Herbert Hoover yesterday afternoon motored to Richmond to visit Virginia House, where an elaborate exhibition of 156 historical portraits is being held under auspices of the Virginia Historical Society until May 25.

Accompanied by Mrs. Hugh S. Cumming, wife of the Surgeon General; Mrs. Harlan F. Stone and Mrs. Vernon Kellogg, of Washington, Mrs. Hoover spent almost two hours in viewing the works of art, which have been loaned to the society by various individuals, organizations and universities in the United States, England, Scotland and France.

Described as one of the most extensive collections of its kind ever exhibited, the display includes portraits of men and women famous in the history of Virginia from colonial days. Ten portraits of George Washington, aside from three members of his family, are shown.

Alexander Weddell, owner of Virginia House, who has converted a large section of his home into art galleries for the occasion, anounced yesterday that the exhibition had received a gratifying patronage from Washington since its opening on May 1.

Cleaning Contract Awarded.

CATHEDRAL PEACE RITES TOMORROW

Open-Air Service Inaugurated 25 Years Ago to Be Held by Bishop Freeman.

CANON PETER TO PREACH

Open-air services around the Peace Cross in Washington Cathedral close, which were inaugurated 25 years ago, will be commenced this year at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, will be the preacher.

The preacher at the 11 o'clock service in Bethlehem Chapel will be the Rev. Dr. G. Freeman Peter, canon of the Cathedral. Holy Communion will be celebrated at 7:30 o'clock and morning prayer and litany will take place at 10 o'clock.

The special preacher at the Church of the Epiphany tomorrow morning will be the Rev. Dr. Henry Lubeck, of New York. The pulpit at evensong, at 8 o'clock, will be occupied by the Rev. Earle G. Lier, vicar of Epiphany Chapel. Holy Communion will be celebrated at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. The church school will assemble at 9:30 o'clock. The weekly meeting of the Young People's Society will be held at 6:15 o'clock.

The Rev. Clarence Prentice Parker will preach at the 11 o'clock service at St. John's Church. This will be Dr. Parker's last sermon, according to his present plan, before he leaves on a three-month vacation. A vesper service will be held on the lawn of the church at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Celebration Is Planned By Brightwood Church

Celebration of the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the Brightwood Park Methodist Episcopal Church will begin tomorrow and continue throughout the week.

At the regular morning service tomorrow the pastor, the Rev. J. Phelps Hand, will preach on "The Age-Old Dream." A "Mother's Day" pageant will be presented at 8 o'clock. A supper to former pastors of the church and their wives is being planned for Tuesday evening. Homecoming night will be celebrated Thursday, when the past, present and future of the Brightwood church will be discussed. Young People's night will be Friday, when the Rev. Oscar T. Olson, of Baltimore, will speak.

Pastors of Reformed Church to Meet Here

The annual sessions of the Baltimore-Washington Classis of the Synod of the Potomac of the Reformed Church in the United States will be held at 8 o'clock Monday night at the Grace Reformed Church.

The Rev. Lloyd E. Coblentz, retiring president of the organization, will open the meeting. An address of welcome will be made by the Rev. Henry N. Banck, pastor of Grace Church. The sessions will be attended by 21 ministers and 20 lay delegates, besides representatives of the various church boards.

Layman Will Conduct Service at Workhouse

John S. Bennett, superintendent of the Central Union Mission, will head a delegation tomorrow morning to the workhouse at Occoquan, Va., where a religious service will be held.

E. D. Preston, of the First Congregational Church, will be in charge of the service. He will be assisted by Herbert Aldridge, tenor soloist, and Dr. Harold M. Dudley, pianist. The Vaughn Class of Calvary Baptist Church will conduct the 8 o'clock service tomorrow night at the Central Union Mission.

Children to Be Given First Holy Communion

Holy Communion will be administered for the first time to 21 children at the 8:15 o'clock mass tomorrow morning at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Fifth street northwest between G and H streets.

In the afternoon at 4 o'clock the children will renew their baptismal vows, after which there will be benediction of the Holy Sacrament.

"Occult," Theosophists' Topic.

"Occultism Versus the Occult Arts" will be discussed by the United Lodge of Theosophists at a meeting at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow night. Five messages from H. P. Blavatskey to the American Theosophists will be considered at the study class Wednesday evening.

Pastors to Honor Mothers In All Protestant Churches

Sunday Schools of Several Churches to Hold Exercises; Story of Ruth to Be Dramatized by Young People of Vermont Avenue Christian Congregation.

Mother's Day will be the theme for the majority of sermons in Protestant churches of Washington tomorrow.

The Rev. W. A. Lambeth, pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Church, will preach at the morning service on "Your Mother and Mine." At the service of the junior congregation, the junior preacher, the Rev. H. R. Deal, will preach on "Our Mothers." At the evening service, Dr. Lambeth will take as his subject "Genuine Repentance."

The celebration of Mother's Day at the Albright Memorial Evangelical Church will begin with the Sunday School session at 9:45 o'clock. A brief service will be presented by the primary children. At the 11 o'clock service, the pastor, the Rev. George Schnabel, will preach on "The Faith of Our Mothers." A special Mother's Day service will feature the evening program, when members of the Men's Bible Class will participate.

Two sermons on "Mother" will be delivered by the Rev. Earle Wilfley at the Vermont Avenue Christian Church. The morning subject will be "His Mother and Mine" and in the evening, "Ruth, the Mother of Kings." At the latter service a group of young members of the church will dramatize the story of Ruth.

Exercises by Sunday School.

Special Mother's Day exercises will be conducted by the Sunday school of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, and another Mother's Day program will be presented by the young people at their Sunday afternoon tea. The Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo will preach at the morning service on "The Weapons of Life," and in the evening he will continue his discussion of religious problems, speaking on "Thinking." The usual questionnaire period will follow at the close of the evening service.

The Rev. B. H. Melton, pastor of the Ninth Street Christian Church, will dedicate his morning sermon to "Mother." The evening service will be featured by special music and baptisms.

"Her Angel Face" will be the Mother's Day subject of the Rev. Harold E. Beatty tomorrow morning at the Georgetown Lutheran Church. The vested choir, under the direction of Guy Campbell, will render selections appropriate to the day. The Christian Endeavor meeting at 7 o'clock will discuss "Appreciating Our Parents as Leaders." At the 8 o'clock service Dr. Beatty will preach on "Relating Religion to Daily Living."

"Love and Loyalty" Topic.

At the Fifth Baptist Church the "favorite scriptures of mother" will be read and her "favorite songs" sung. The Rev. John E. Briggs will preach on "The Love and Loyalty of Mothers" and in the evening on "Mothers of Bible Times and of Today." Congressman William Whittington, of Mississippi, will teach the Darlington Berea Bible Class.

"Mother's Day" will be the topic of the Young People's Christian Union of the Universalist National Memorial Church at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening at the Harned Music Studio. At the regular morning service of the church in the Ambassador Theater the Rev. Frederic W. Perkins will preach on "The Home as the Nursery of Religion."

At the Northminster Presbyterian Chapel, Mother's Day will be observed with special music. The Rev. Kenneth Carson will deliver the morning and evening sermons. A Mother's Day breakfast will be given by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the church next Thursday.

"American Motherhood" will be the subject of the sermon by the Rev. Edward O. Clark at the Chevy Chase Baptist Church tomorrow morning. A sermon on "Mother" also will be given the junior congregation. A mothers and daughters banquet, sponsored by the Woman's Society and the church school will be held Wednesday evening.

Takoma Park Baptist Services.

The Rev. William E. La Rue will speak on "God and Motherhood" at the Takoma Park Baptist Church tomorrow morning. At 8 o'clock Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest of Washington, will speak on "The Church and Charity."

Although the sermons at other Protestant churches of the city are not directly concerned with mothers, some portion of the services will be devoted to Mother's Day, according to announcements by the various pastors.

The Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce will preach on "Practicing the Presence" at the 11 o'clock service of the All Souls' Unitarian Church. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon and 7:30 o'clock in the evening the Martin Johnson film, "Simba," will be shown in Pierce Hall.

Guest preachers will occupy the pulpit at the First Congregational Church. At the 11 o'clock service the Rev. Bartlett B. James will preach on "Removing Bars to the Kingdom." At the 8 o'clock service the Rev. Moses Richardson Lovell will speak on "The Modern American Girl and the Kingdom of God." His sermon will be illustrated by the motion picture, "That Certain Thing," featuring Viola Dana and Ralph Graves.

"Problems of Young People."

The service at the Central Presbyterian Church tomorrow night will be especially for young people, it is announced. The pastor, the Rev. James H. Taylor, will preach a sermon in which he will discuss spiritual problems that confront young people today. This will be the first of a series of subjects along this line, Mr. Taylor announced.

The Rev. L. L. Legters, of Philadelphia, will preach tomorrow morning at the Washington Baptist Church. The Rev. W. L. Darby will preach at the 8 o'clock service. The pastor of the church, the Rev. C. B. Austin, is attending a conference in Memphis, Tenn.

The Rev. William A. Eisenberger will preach at both services tomorrow at the Church of the Covenant. His morning subject will be "The Determining Factor in a Successful Ministry," and in the evening, "The Supremacy of Service."

The Rev. E. Hez Swem will preach on "Singular Seed" at the morning service of the Centennial Baptist Church. He will discuss "A Most Unusual Stirring Story" at the 8 o'clock service. At that service he will be assisted by the Rev. Clinton N. Howard.

Revivalist at Tabernacle.

Miss Betty Baylor, revivalist, will conduct the service at the Full Gospel Tabernacle tomorrow morning. The pastor, the Rev. Harry L. Collier, will continue his evangelistic services tomorrow night.

"Mothers' Day" will be celebrated by all departments of the First Baptist Church of Hyattsville tomorrow. The Rev. B. P. Robertson will preach a special mothers' day sermon. The East Riverdale Church, the College Park Mission and the Daniels Park Mission also will have special services. A pulpit Bible and flag will be presented to the East Riverdale Church tomorrow night.

"Parents' Day" will be the main feature of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church tomorrow, when members of the church school will receive parents and escort them to the several departments of the church. Following this, the parents will hold a conference with Miss Betty Lois M. Kugler, director of religious education.

The Young People's Forum at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon will discuss "How Much Freedom Should Young People Have at Home?"

The discussion will be led by William Kilgore.

MOTHER'S DAY TOPIC AT LINCOLN CHURCH

Other Colored Congregations Also to Hear Sermon on That Subject.

TWO ODD FELLOW RITES

Mothers, good and bad, will be discussed by pastors of colored churches of Washington tomorrow, when special services in recognition of Mother's Day are held.

The Rev. J. L. S. Holman, at the Second Baptist Church, will preach at the 11 o'clock service on "The Christian Mother Versus the Heathen Slave." At the evening service he will have for his subject "The Unique Faith of the Syro-Phenecian Mother."

"The High Cost of Motherhood" will be the subject of the Rev. R. W. Brooks tomorrow morning at the Lincoln Congregational Church. Special music will be rendered by the senior choir. Tomorrow night the Grand United Order of Odd Fellows will hold its annual thanksgiving service. Dr. Brooks will speak on 'A Threefold Aspect of Christianity."

A special Mother's Day program will be given at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the John Wesley African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, under auspices of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society. The pastor, the Rev. Henry D. Tillman, will preach at both morning and evening services.

A special sermon to mothers will be preached by the Rev. J. Milton Waldron tomorrow morning at the Shiloh Baptist Church. The choir will render special music and prayers will be given for sick and sorrowing mothers. At the evening service the pastor will preach on "Repentance and Faith—What Are They? Who Need These Graces?"

"Mother's Influence" will be discussed at the 11 o'clock service at the Third Baptist Church by the pastor, the Rev. G. O. Bullock. At the evening service he will preach an annual sermon to Odd Fellows.

At the People's Congregational Church the Rev. A. F. Elmes will have for his sermon theme at the morning service "Dynamics of Love." At the evening service he will preach an annual sermon to Odd Fellows. The theme for the young people's hour is "Appreciating Our Parents as Leaders." Charles Higinbothem will open the discussion.

Howard to Tell Story Of Work as Reformer

Clinton N. Howard, chairman of the National United Committee for Law Enforcement, will tell of his 30 years' experience on the reform platform at the Centennial Baptist Church tomorrow night when he speaks on "From Quaker to Earthquaker."

Howard will make two other addresses the same day, one at Mount Carmel Baptist Church in the morning and the other in the afternoon at Mount Zion Methodist Episcopal Church, Georgetown.

Dr. Darby to Address Bible Class Members

Dr. W. L. Darby, executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches, will address the Men's Bible Class tomorrow morning at the Friends Church, Thirteenth and Irving street.

In the evening he will preach at the West Washington Baptist Church. Early next week Dr. Darby will go to St. Paul, Minn., to attend the biennial convention of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church.

City Official Urges Streets' Widening

Puts $500,000 Program to Link Palisades and Park Up to Chiefs.

Widening of three streets to provide for the planned connection between the Potomac Palisades and Rock Creek Park was recommended to the District Commissioners yesterday by Melvin Hasen, District Surveyor.

Hasen proposed widening of Foxhall road, which he described as an old "country road," now 38 feet wide, throughout its length of 2 miles from Conduit road to Massachusetts avenue.

The other two streets to be widened under Hasen's program are Forty-sixth street, from Cathedral avenue to Macomb street, and Nebraska avenue, from Macomb street to Massachusetts avenue. He would have each of the three streets widened to 120 feet. Cathedral avenue and Macomb street now are 90 feet wide. Several houses would be affected by the widening of Foxhall road. Condemnation proceedings would be necessary. No estimate has been officially made as to the cost, but it is expected to be $500,000 or more.

POWER FIRM'S LOANS TO PAPERS OUTLINED

Witnesses Tell of $870,000 Advance That Financed Purchase of Four Plants.

OTHERS SOUGHT IN SOUTH

(Associated Press.)

Their purchase of four Southern newspapers through an $870,000 loan by the International Paper & Power Co. and unsuccessful negotiations, also supported by that concern, involving more than a dozen other newspapers in the South, were described yesterday by William Lavarre and Harold Hall before the Federal Trade Commission.

Lavarre and Hall, who were witnesses at the commission's hearing investigating newspaper financial interests of the International Paper & Power Co., testified that the $870,000 loan completely financed their purchase of the Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle, the Columbia (S. C.) Record and the Spartanburg (S. C.) Herald and Journal.

The loan was made on notes given by them to the International Paper & Power Co.'s subsidiary, the International Paper Co., and the notes were secured by the newspapers' stock.

Lavarre testified that the arrangements for the financing of the newspapers' purchases were made last November by Hall and himself, with Archibald R. Graustein, of Boston, president of the International Paper & Power Co.

He said he and Hall had made one trip through the Southeast inquiring about buying newspapers before they approached the International concern, and that after the loan was negotiated they made other trips through that section, with expenses paid by the International.

In addition to the purchased newspapers, Lavarre testified that he and Hall had approached or made proposals concerning more than a dozen other newspapers in the South, but no deals were consummated. He mentioned some papers for which unsuccessful negotiations were made, as the Greensboro (N. C.) Record, the Asheville (N. C.) Citizen and the Times, the Charlotte (N. C.) News and the Observer, the Raleigh (N. C.) Time, the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph, the Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer-Sun and the Atlanta Constitution.

WASHINGTON WOMEN PRESENTED AT COURT

ington and Highland Park, Ill., and Miss Adeline Winston, Georgia.

The Duke of York, in naval uniform, tonight took the place of his older brother, the Prince of Wales, in escorting the queen in the procession to the ballroom. Queen Mary again made a figure of regal splendor in a beautiful gown of the palest silver-gray marquisetta, embroidered with diamante and seed pearls with gray mother-of-pearl paillettes and minute silver crystals. Her sleeves of silver lace were embroidered with similar decorations and the train of silver cloth was embroidered to match the gown. She wore a diamond Russian shaped tiara and a soutoir of diamonds with the famous Kohinoor diamond and Star of the Garter.

The two-hour wait in the Mall before entry to the palace was again favored with beautiful weather and great crowds came to see the debutantes in their court dress as they sat in the long line of automobiles.

The automobile of Miss Bennett was mobbed by excited women in the Mall in the same way that the crowd had pressed about that of Miss Wills on the previous night. The police were again obliged to surround the car to stem the rush.

Mrs. George Barnett and Miss Margaret Tyner, who were presented to Queen Mary at Buckingham Palace last night, are prominent in Washington social circles.

Mrs. Barnett is the wife of Maj. Gen. George Barnett, commander of the United States Marine Corps in the World War, now retired. They reside at 1622 Rhode Island avenue northwest.

Mrs. Barnett, who is a descendant of Maryland and Virginia families, was a noted beauty when a young woman and is a close personal friend of Lady Astor, woman member of the British Parliament, who before her marriage was Nancy Langhorne, of Virginia. This is Mrs. Barnett's first presentation at the court. She has been abroad about two months.

Miss Tyner is the daughter of Mrs. Alonzo Tyner, formerly of Highland Park, Ill., and recently of Washington. Miss Tyner and her mother reside at the Mayflower Hotel. The daughter is a popular member of the Capital City's younger set and made her debut last year, her coming out party being one of the most pretentious in the city's history.

Du Pont Revealed as Donor Of $6,000,000 to Virginia U.

Late Capitalist Had Deep Interest in Literature and Humanity, President Says; Half of Fund Will Be Used to Aid Worthy But Needy Youths.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., May 10.—The name of Philip Francis duPont was given out today by President Edwin A. Alderman as the creator of the great trust of $6,000,000 for the benefit of the University of Virginia, announced last June at the commencement exercises.

Mr. duPont, who was a native of Greenville, Del., died on May 17, 1928, at his home in Fairville, Pa., in his forty-ninth year. He studied three years at the University of Virginia, from 1897 to 1900.

"Mr. duPont's chief interests in the university," said President Alderman today, "were in the fields of the humanities and literature, and, after leaving the university, he published several volumes of thoughtful and charming verse. He was a modest, retiring man, getting his pleasure from literature and the arts. He was not a seeker after fame or reputation, but it is clear that his constant thought of the university for many years revealed a devoted and loyal attachment to his alma mater as well as a large and statesmanlike educational purpose for the service of science and the arts throughout the country.

"There is a fine historic fitness that this great benefaction to the University of Virginia should come from a Du Pont, for perhaps the noblest and most romantic friendship of our early republican history was the friendship between Thomas Jefferson and Du Pont de Nemours, the founder of the Du Pont family.

"One-half of the income of this great trust was designated by Mr. du Pont as a fund to be used for the creation of scholarships and fellowships to help capable and needy youth. The other half of the trust is left to the discretion of the University authorities."

Coaches Dismissed; Pupils Call Strike

California School Heads Are Given Ouster Notice as Students Walk Out.

San Mateo, Calif., May 10 (A.P.).—Approximately 1,000 students of the San Mateo Union High School struck today in protest against the dismissal yesterday of George S. Reed, physical director and track coach and the subsequent resignation of James E. (Spud) Spalding, baseball, football, and basket ball coach.

While the strike was hilarjously in progress, Frank H. Boren, superintendent of the school district, announced that Roy O. Diether, principal of the San Mateo Union High-School, and R. N. Faulkner, principal of the Burlingam Union High School, had been relieved of their duties effective next January 1. It was declared the removal of the principals had no connection with the leaving of the physical director and the coach.

The striking students apparently acted on a prearranged signal during the morning class. They left the school building in automobiles and paraded through the business district shouting "We want 'Spud;' we want Reed."

Boren said removal of the two school heads was a part of an economy program effective next year. Borren will assume the principalship of the schools himself. Faulkner has been principal of the Burlingam School for nearly twenty years.

Fire Car, to Avoid Collision, Hits Wall

Swerved from its course to avoid collision with another motor car, the automobile of Fire Battalion Chief Ernest Howard, of the Third Battalion, crashed through a fence and into the brick foundation of the house at 2302 Nichols avenue southeast, yesterday afternoon while the chief was responding to a fire at 431 Melon street southeast. The fire car, which was operated by Private Herbert R. Morat, of No. 8 Engine Company, was damaged only slightly.

James L. Turner, colored, 27 years old, of 1398 Morris road southeast, said by Eleventh Precinct police to have caused the accident, was arrested and charged with failure to give the right of way to an emergency vehicle. He was released on $10 collateral.

Quake Death List $2,000; Aid Asked

Conditions in Persia Called Distressing, in Dispatch From Stricken Area.

Teheran, Persia, May 10 (A.P.).—Distressing conditions exist in the zone of the disastrous earthquake which last week destroyed whole villages and killed 2,000 persons in the Province of Khorassan.

A telegram from the governor of the province to the shah today described the plight of the survivors.

'Many villages between Kuchan and Shirvan are in ruins. The people who escaped death by the earthquake are in a terrible plight, being homeless and foodless. Shorvan City was completely destroyed and its inhabitants are living in the open fields.

"Food, tents, doctors and money are urgently needed," the message concluded.

Vote Saves Board On Home Missions

Southern Baptists Reject a Proposal for Merging Two Groups.

Memphis, Tenn., May 10 (A.P.).—The Southern Baptist Convention late today voted to continue the home missions board without change in its organization, defeating a proposal by Dr. Frank H. Tripp, of St. Joseph, Mo., to abolish it and combine it with the foreign missions board. He contended the defalcations of the former treasurer, Clinton S. Carnes, had "broken the church" confidence in the board.

After a spirited debate, the convention today overrode all recommendations of its relief and annuity board regarding a proposed service annuity plan, whereby the churches would contribute to the pension aid of their pastors.

Under provisions of the special plan, the amount of the premiums would be based on a minister's salary over a period of years. His church would pay 8 per cent of the premium, the minister 2½ per cent and the board would take care of the rest, planning to seek an endowment fund for this purpose.

SOUCEK'S ALTITUDE RECORD 39,140 FEET

Navy Department Gives Out Official Figure Following Barograph Reading.

BEATS CHAMPION'S MARK

Lieut. Apollo Soucek, of the Bureau of Aeronautics, reached an altitude of 39,140 feet in his flight Wednesday over the Naval Air Station and established a new world's record, it was announced yesterday at the Navy Department.

Lieut. Soucek exceeded the old record, which was made in 1927 by Lieut. C. C. Champion, using the same Wright-Apache plane, by 732 feet. Under the rulings of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale in Paris it was necessary for him to better the old record by 100 meters, or about 400 feet.

H. B. Hendrickson, of the Bureau of Standards, completed his readings yesterday morning of the two barographs that Lieut. Soucek carried in his plane. Both the National Aeronautic Association and the Navy Department were notified of the results of the calibrations.

Officials of the National Aeronautical Association said yesterday that they could not make an announcement of the new record until the Federation Aeronautique Internationale had approved the readings made by the Bureau of Standards.

This is a matter of form and the official announcement is expected to be made in two or three weeks. It will take that long to forward all the papers to Paris and get them back.

POLICE DRAG BASIN IN VAIN FOR SUICIDE

quently made to Park Officer H. W. Brown, whom he hastily summoned.

Whaley shouted to the man, "Don't jump!" and in his haste to reach and prevent the leap he shot his automobile across the lawn toward the man. Before he could reach the spot, however, the man had silently leaped, disappearing into the murky waters below, Whaley said.

He then ran to Brown, whom he found near by, and told him of the tragedy. Brown summoned the harbor police and rescue squad.

A hasty search of the park nearby and parked automobiles failed to reveal a coat or any wearing apparel or means of identity that might have been discarded.

Boats were procured nearby and grappling hooks set for the drag. The water is deep on the north side and the bottom shelves downward toward the center of the basin. A slight tide was running shortly after the drowning was reported, at 10:30 o'clock, and it was believed the body may have rolled toward the center of the basin down the submarine slope.

Police dragged systematically, starting against the bulkhead wall and working slightly outward with each trip for 100 yards or so, parallel to the spot where the man was reported to have jumped. Up to a later hour last night their efforts had been unavailing.

Day in Congress

SENATE.

Met at noon and recessed at 3:55 to noon Monday.

Confirmed the nomination of Oscar B. Colquitt, former Governor of Texas, to be a member of the Railway Board of Mediation.

Agreed to limit debate on the farm bill and pending amendments at 3 o'clock Monday, thus assuring passage of the measure early next week.

Adopted an amendment to the bill to give Congress instead of the President the power to fix the salary of the chairman of the proposed Farm Board.

Interstate commerce committee discussed suggestions for governmental operation of radio stations and censorship of advertising sent over the air.

Senator Goff (Republican), West Virginia, praised the mothers of the Nation as the "salvation of the race."

Military affairs committee favorably reported the Army promotion bill.

Approved the conference report reconciling differences between the Senate and House bills for loans to farmers in the storm-swept sections of the South.

Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, introduced a resolution asking for an investigation of the financing activities of local real estate and finance operators in this and other cities, including Philadelphia.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 2:45 to noon today.

The members of the Pennsylvania delegation caucused on the tariff bill and announced later that, while they were dissatisfied with a few features, they would support the measure in its entirety.

Device for Submarine Rescue Wins Medals

Lieut. Charles B. Monsen and Chief Clarence L. Tibbals were awarded the Distinguished Service Medal yesterday for developing the "lung" to be used in submarine rescue work. Frank M. Hobson, civilian engineer of the Bureau of Construction and Repair of the Navy, was awarded a year's pay for his aid in developing the device.

The medal was presented to Lieut. Monsen by Secretary of the Navy Adams in the presence of the chiefs of the various bureaus in the Navy Department. Chief Gunner Tibbals' medal was sent to him in care of the commanding officer of the S-4, to which he is attached.

Commissioners Order Added Traffic Lights

Installation of four automatic traffic signal lights at the intersection of Rhode Island and Connecticut avenues northwest was approved yesterday by the District Commissioners.

The lights will tie in with the Eighteenth street system of traffic lights already approved. Recommendation for the four new lights was made by William H. Harland, traffic director. It is estimated the installation will cost $270.64.

HOME OF STRIKERS' LEADER IS BOMBED

FAMILY OF VICTIM AWAY

Elizabethton, Tenn., May 10 (A.P.).—The home of M. C. Elliott, of the rayon workers' union, which is involved in the strike of 5,000 employes of two plants here, was destroyed by a bomb explosion early today, but officers said tonight the blast may have no connection with labor troubles. Elliott and his family were away at the time.

Elliott, a former employe of the Glanzstoff Corporation, was active in union meetings. Officials said records show he was indicted in Federal Court for counterfeiting, but was acquitted. Later he was indicted for making false affidavits, but was discharged. At present he is under $500 bond for violating the prohibition laws. Two mortgages totaling about $4,000 were on the home.

The explosion was the latest of a series of disorders in connection with the textile workers' strike, which is the second in two months. Several labor leaders were abducted recently by a band of masked men and a number of indictments have been returned in connection with that incident. Four companies of the Tennessee National Guard are on duty, the guardsmen acting as special officers. The two plants this week started operating on a limited schedule.

Nashville, Tenn., May 10 (A.P.).—The presence of Gov. Henry Horton was demanded in Elizabethton by officials of the union there, following the explosion at the home of a strike sympathizer early today. William E. Kelley, vice president of the United Textile Workers, of New York, and "citizens of Carter County" wired the governor details of the explosion.

Kelley said the union frequently met at the home which was destroyed, and added that the owner believed his family dead until he learned his wife had been visiting a neighbor at the time.

The telegram said the explosion occurred "despite the presence of four companies of national guardsmen and 40 deputy sheriffs sent here by you to protect lives and property."

Guardsmen were rushed to the scene as soon as the explosion was reported, the message said. "The presence of soldiers at the scene of the smoking ruins was mockery," the telegram stated.

THE TARIFF FIGHT.

The first of the conferences of House Republicans, to determine upon a common course of action with regard to the tariff, resulted in no agreement except a general agreement to disagree. Now is the time for special interests and sectional blocs to make a noise, and they are making it. Threatenings are heard from various parts of the Middle West, from Massachusetts, and from California, with other districts preparing to enter protests.

It is customary in shaping tariff legislation for the most favored interests or sections to set up a howl, so that the less favored elements may not suspect that anybody is getting enough to be satisfied. The regions that make the loudest protests are not necessarily the ones that are treated badly. Too much importance should not be attached to the Republican roars against particular items. These matters are often easily adjusted by judicious concessions, and in the long run the Republicans usually compose their differences sufficiently to hold their ranks intact.

The real fight over the tariff bill is still to come. Whatever the House may do is tentative. The danger to the Republican party is in the Senate, where defeatists in the guise of Republicans stand ready to slaughter the party and its program whenever they can gain any advantage for themselves by deserting the party. One of them, smarting under Senator Fess' castigation, has suggested that the party needs regeneration according to the North Dakota idea of Republicanism. The party, in other words, is out of step with him, and not he with the party. Senator Borah pours a little vitriol into the sweet milk of concord, as usual, by insisting that the debenture scheme is nothing essentially different from the "bounty" which manufacturers have been receiving from high tariff rates, and that the onslaught upon those patriots who voted for the debenture plan "marks the beginning of a contest, it seems, which may be long and bitter." Mr. Borah pictures this as a contest between the manufacturers and the producers, and of course he is on the side of the downtrodden producer, while his hero of the campaign of 1928, by opposing the debenture, is inferentially an enemy of the farmer.

The Senate reserves the right to amend the tariff bill by striking out everything in the House bill after the enacting clause. From what has already developed, it is apparent that the framers of the House bill, over which House members are so excited, will not know their child after it has emerged from the Senate finance committee. Hence the excitement in the House and the holding of many conferences may be wasted energy. No doubt some of the House members have discovered that the best way to win tariff concessions for their sections is to save their breath and then make quiet little bargains with senators.

THE STOCK MARKET VIEW.

In an address delivered at the annual dinner of the Chicago Stock Exchange, E. H. H. Simmons, president of the New York Stock Exchange, severely criticized the Federal Reserve system for its campaign to reduce "overextended" brokers' loans. Thus far but one official side of the story of "overextension" has been told. The Federal Reserve system has had its critics, of course, and they have opposed its campaign vigorously, but officials of the New York Stock Exchange have kept in the background. Mr. Simmons' speech assumes greater importance as a result.

He asserted that the stock exchange had been singled out for "persecution." He suggested that an attempt to curtail its activities might result in forcing an era of commodity speculation, with disastrous effect. In his opinion it is not so much credit as it is capital that has been flowing into the stock market, and he believes that it is almost physically impossible to dictate to banks or individuals where they shall invest their capital.

The other day, Col. Leonard P. Ayres, Cleveland banker, told the Chamber of Commerce of the United States that "the invisible banking system" that has sprung up is chiefly responsible for the present situation. By "invisible banking" he meant the practice by individuals or corporations of putting their excess funds in the call money market. Mr. Simmons agrees, to a greater or less degree, with Col. Ayres. He pointed out, in his speech, the fact that stock market loans come from three main sources—New York banks, out-of-town banks and other lenders. The funds from both classes of banks, he said, show only a slight increase. It is in the third category—that of other lenders—that the great increase has come, for this class of funds has risen over $1,500,000,000 over the last twelve months. The first two classes of funds are susceptible to the same kind of money market pressure and central banking policy as any other kind of banking credit. "But the loans of other lenders," he said, "are to a large extent not credit manufactured by banks, but rather capital saved by individuals and business firms, and it is an open question whether the jurisdiction of banking authorities extends, or can be made to extend, to the flow of capital."

It is Mr. Simmons' opinion that the Federal Reserve campaign against overextension has defeated its own purpose. "The more fear, propaganda, warnings and vague threats the system has issued," he said, "naturally the more it has impelled owners of capital to place their funds in the safest form of loan they could obtain. Stock market call loans are the safest form of investment known in this country. Normally, a capitalist might put his funds in stocks or bonds, but under continual vague warnings from the highest bank authorities, he can scarcely be blamed for choosing call loans for an investment. In addition, the tight money policies of the system have succeeded in raising interest rates on call loans to exaggerated levels, far above the yield on any class of securities."

Col. Ayres suggested in his speech that it might be wise to consider the restriction or regulation of "invisible banking." Mr. Simmons believes this impossible. The United States today, he said, has more capital than it knows what to do with. If call money loans were deflated suddenly by, say, $2,000,000,000, where could the $2,000,000,000 be profitably and safely invested? The injection of any such sum into commercial business could only result in a rise in commodity prices, inflation of inventories and an artificial business boom like that of 1919, based on commercial speculation, which could only result in a colossal smash. Ultimately such a sum, and many times such a sum, will be invested productively in commercial operations, but at this minute the only place where money obtained by deflating market loans could go is into securities themselves. The practical way, therefore, to reduce stock market loans, says Mr. Simmons, is to induce the owners of capital invested in them to buy outright the collateral securities employed at present to secure their loans. Capital withdrawn from loans would thus support the market.

Mr. Simmons has presented the other side of the story, and his reasoning demands studious consideration.

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION.

Harleigh H. Hartman, railroad rate specialist and lawyer, has been named by President Hoover to fill the vacancy in the Public Utilities Commission resulting from the failure of the Senate to confirm the renomination of Col. Harrison Brand. Mr. Hartman was chosen for this important post from a field of some 40 candidates. He is said to be exceptionally well qualified, having had many years of experience in the field of public utility regulation.

No agency plays a part of greater importance to the welfare of the District than the Public Utilities Commission. Particularly at this time, when the questions of a street railway merger, the gas company revaluation, a prospective appeal for a car fare increase, a bus terminal and a new rate agreement with the telephone company are pending, it is important that the commission be composed of independent, well-informed and vigilant members. The utilities are wealthy and powerful. They are in a position to make known their needs in no uncertain terms. The commission must stand between them and the public, and, in all fairness and equity to the utilities, protect the interests of the people and guard the property and privileges that they, in effect, turn over to the utilities.

With the nomination of Mr. Hartman there remains one commissionership yet to be filled. President Hoover now is examining the records of candidates, and it is said that he hopes to fill the post within the next week or ten days. When the commission is completed it will have to buckle down at once to arduous labor.

TOO STRENUOUS SPORT.

A survey conducted some months ago to determine the health value of athletics disclosed that the student who participates only moderately or not at all has a better chance of living to a ripe old age than the young man who builds up a powerful physique on the football field, tennis court or basket ball floor. This view is now confirmed by the American Heart Association. Speaking at the recent convention, Dr. Anders warned boys and girls against strenuous competition in athletics before the age of 16. It is the opinion of many physicians that interscholastic competition is carried too far and, in many cases, to the extreme detriment of the individual.

These findings do not in any sense condemn athletics in the schools. No amount of research will ever prove that wholesome outdoor games indulged in by American youths are a menace to health, if they are played in moderation. The sports fostered in the elementary and high schools are vital elements in education, because of the physical development and the attitude of fair play which they promote. Children in crowded cities need more play and recreation, not less. The statement of Gen. George W. Wingate, founder of the Public Schools Athletic League, that no boy who had been prominent in the league during the last twenty years has become a criminal, in spite of the fact that a large percentage of crime is committed by boys under 21, indicates that athletics have a value beyond mere physical development. But this does not alter the fact that athletic competition may be carried too far.

The chief danger in school sports lies in the emphasis which is placed on winning the game. Too often the success of a physical director is gauged by the number of games his team wins, and not on the benefits derived from the game by the student groups. A dozen young men are urged and cheered to exert themselves beyond their strength, and hundreds of others have little opportunity for needed physical activity. A movement for elimination of competition from games in which young girls participate is gaining broader acceptance, but if the spirit of contest were eliminated from all school sports it would be a serious loss. This sacrifice will not become necessary if wisdom is used in conducting interscholastic meets. The general end to be achieved is improved health and better physique for the group, and not overstrained muscles or overdeveloped hearts of a few "star players."

OLD MAN HAGEN WINS.

For the fourth time in eight years Walter Hagen won the British open golf championship in the tournament concluded yesterday at Muirfield, Scotland. Johnny Farrell, open champion of the United States, came in second and Leo Diegel, whose spectacular play early in the tournament was one of its sensations, was third. Hagen had a score of 292 for the 72 holes of match play, Farrell had a 298 and Diegel a 299.

There is an old tradition in golf that the medalist, or low-score man in the qualifying rounds, never wins the tournament. By placing third, Leo Diegel, who was the medalist and who, as a result, was looked upon in many quarters as the favorite, bore out the tradition. Diegel led Hagen until the final rounds. Then he blew up in a putting slump.

To Walter Hagen should be accorded all glory. For years he has been winning tournaments, important and unimportant, and approaching age does not seem to impair his skill. By winning the British open over a most difficult course and in the final round with the wind blowing 40 miles an hour he has given an amazing exhibition of iron nerve and resource.

It would have been worth a pretty penny to see Cal Coolidge's expression when he was informed that the movie industry spent $23,000 to install "talkie" equipment in the White House.

"PURE" OR "MIXED"?

From the Boston Transcript.

In a forthcoming magazine article Calvin Coolidge will tell why he believes that there is a strain of Indian blood in his veins, "traceable back through the line of one of his great-grandmothers." The publishers suggest that this may be "a new explanation of Mr. Coolidge's taciturnity," and one newspaper hazards its opinion that the article will throw light on "the propensity which he developed for having his picture taken in Indian head-dress during his last years of office."

But the most enduring effect of the disclosure will be to remind readers of the important part which so-called "miscegenation" plays in the development of mankind. It has been shown that our population of pure-blooded Africans on this continent is now "comparatively small," one estimate asserting that a quarter of all persons of African descent have more or less white blood in them. And as to the Indian, we are reminded by race experts that "the admixture of red and white races has effected a proportion of the population which may be put at from 30 to 60 per cent of the element reckoned as Indian."

What happens as a result of these minglings? Prof. E. Finch, of Wilberforce University, has made a study of them with the result of showing that, while in some cases race-crossing produces an inferior population, the outcome is likely to be advantageous if the crossing takes place under advantageous conditions. One of his findings is that "the greatest number of negroes who have achieved distinction in the United States have been men of mixed blood. Many of the purer type have manifested remarkable intellectual power, yet it is probably more than a coincidence that Douglas, Booker Washington and DuBois, who attained the height of group leadership, have been mulattoes, superior, moreover, to both the whites and blacks in their ancestry." The professor also points out that the mulattoes of Haiti form a large percentage of the aristocracy there, and are very prominent in commerce, in the professions and in state affairs. He adds that in the province of St. Paul, Brazil, Portuguese and inhabitants of the Azores intermarried with the native Gayanazes and Carijos, and that from these unions have sprung "a race as noted for remarkable moral development as for intellectual power, and for strength, beauty and courage."

Another investigator in this field, Prof. A. J. Todd, of the University of Minnesota, calls attention to the fact that many of the world's most distinguished men, especially men of letters, have been "racial complexes," such as Edgar Allan Poe, Walt Whitman, Lowell, Bret Harte, Mark Twain, Lafcadio Tearn, Edison, Tennyson, Swinburne, Rosetti, Browning, Romilly, Lewes, Millais, Disraeli, Sainte Beuve, Dumas, Taine, De Maistre, Montalembert, Merimee, Victor Hugo, Pushkin, Lermontov, Von Vizine and Ibsen. Tennyson was a cross of Danish, French and English; Swinburne of Danish and French; Morris of Welsh and Anglo-Danish; Browning of West-Saxon British, Creole and German; Olive Schreiner of German, English and Jewish; Walter Pater of Flemish and Anglo-Danish; Thomas Hardy of English, Jersey-French and Irish; Flaubert of French and Iroquois; Dumas of French and negro; Hugo of Lorraine-German and Breton; Zola of Italian, Greek and French; Ibsen of German, Scotch and Norwegian; Pushkin of Russian and Abyssinian negro. Prof. Todd holds that such combinations provide superior intellectual traits—lead to a leveling up, not to a leveling down, and should therefore be encouraged rather than interfered with. That "pure race" fiction irritates him, and his declaration, "we are all mongrels," seems to furnish whatever apology may be needed for "mixed blood."

Los Angeles Times: The Lone Eagle's mate has written some poems that are not bad and has made some pies and puddings that were decidedly good. She is rich, but inclined to be shy and sensitive. She is a good scholar but a poor vivant. She doesn't seem to be much interested in the passions and diversions of the modern society girl. She loves good books, old music and home cooking—in fact, she seems to be a thoroughly domesticated and desirable girl. The flying colonel has had a lot of good luck and this is some more of it.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

Like other parents, I am inclined to forget that youngsters shed their early bad habits much as they shed their first teeth; and no doubt I waste a lot of effort trying to correct imperfections that would correct themselves if left alone.

A few years ago, for example, I began to worry about your finger nails and things like that. I thought you were old enough to begin to show some interest in your personal appearance, but you persisted in being the kind of Tom-boy I had taught you to be.

Your nails were broken and frequently black, and you were unaware of them; your shoes were unpolished and you didn't care; every available parking place was occupied by a freckle, and you went hatless to collect more; you were a noisy, rowdy little tree-climber, and I began to fear I had overdone the thing. You had learned your lesson too well, and I despaired of making you a lady.

It was useless worry, however. Your sex came to the rescue when I began the new lesson, and within a year you were polishing your nails for dear life and freckles filled you with loathing.

So far, so good. But I am beginning to suspect that you have learned this new lesson too well, also. I hate using the word, but I'm afraid you are getting "prissy."

You notice trifles nobody else can see; you dislike a frock because of a wrinkle nobody else has discovered; you spend too much time coaxing a lock of hair to lie where it doesn't wish to lie; you suspect your nose of shining when there is nary a gleam.

In a word, Honey, you are courting trouble by teaching yourself to be self-conscious. In a year or two, if you keep it up, you won't be able to get your mind off yourself; you will be miserable in public; your charm of naturalness will be gone; and everybody will think you are putting on airs.

The quality called "charm" is a complete freedom from self-consciousness, and once it is lost it never can be regained.

Your only hope is to forget yourself, and the only way to do that is to force your mind to get busy at something else when it begins to think about you.

Do that for thirty days and it will become a mental habit. You will be safe. But if you don't do it, you'll soon reach the point where you can't enjoy the party because one freckle isn't round. DAD.

A YOUNG MAN'S AGE?

In spite of the fervent protest to the contrary, the salient point about the election of Robert Maynard Hutchins to the presidency of the University of Chicago, so far as most of us are concerned, is that he is so young, observes the New York World. Thirty years, when all is said and done, is an amazingly tender age at which to assume such mature duties. And one is led to wonder at once whether times have changed somewhat; whether this is, as it is often declared to be, an age that belongs to youth and all the drive and energy that youth has to offer.

Certain signs surely point that way. There are the hordes of brisk young men, not more than a year or so out of college, who occupy positions of large responsibility in various concerns; there are young men in politics and literature who attain considerable eminence after brief but spectacular careers; and there is the vague feel of our civilization itself, which seems to belong to the young rather than to the old. But then doubts arise. Is our age the only one that has showered favors on the young? Certainly it is not. One thinks of a certain Alexander, who had lived, died and conquered the world he knew by the time he was 33; of a certain Shakespeare, who was a celebrated actor and playwright long before he was 30; of a certain Washington, who was a prosperous surveyor and property owner before he was 21; of a certain Jefferson, who was a Burgess of Virginia by the time he was 26; of a certain Napoleon, who was commander of an army of France when he was 26; of a certain Beethoven, who was celebrated as a composer and pianist by the time he was 25; of a certain Jackson, destined to become President of the United States, who was a member of Congress at 29. Many ages, it would seem, have been kind to youth. And then one thinks of certain oldsters of our own age: of Holmes and Root and Edison and Taft, who are as useful now as they would have been in any age that has gone before, and as richly honored.

Thus one is forced to conclude that the notion we are kinder to youth now than our forefathers were is somewhat illusory. The answer, when a man like Mr. Hutchins is elevated to high position, is the same now as it always has been: his talents have put him there, and the predilections of the age have little to do with it. Wherefore it seems to us that the young president-elect of the University of Chicago is all the more to be congratulated.

WHEAT LIFE.

Though seventeen varieties of wheat have been found in the mummy cases of Egypt back to 3300 B. C., not one—wild yarns to the contrary—has ever been made to sprout, writes Agnes C. Laut in Century Magazine. Both Flinders Petrie and Wallis Budge, the great Egyptologists, have tried it again and again, under every favorable condition that science could devise.

Wheat on an average loses its life germ within ten years. There is no record in science of wheat retaining its life after 25 years.

Yet wheat has the closest resemblance to human life of all known plants. It has its birth, its death, its resurrection, which Paul quotes in the Epistle: "Except it die and shed its coat of skin, it can not live again." It has a host of terrible relatives. It is really only a cultivated wild grass.

Wild wheat has but one grain of hope in it; but from this humble ancestor all our civilized wheat has developed—and now two square feet of it, properly nurtured, will produce one loaf of bread weighing a pound. It needs tireless care in its birth, in its growth, in its harvest to protect it from inherited disease, parasites and weather. It reverts to wild strains with amazing persistence, flattens out and becomes a ground-runner with empty glumes and dwarf seeds and earth-stained flour. Smut is an inherited disease harking back to some bad ancestor. Rust is a parasite sapping its strength.

Insect pests can be overcome only by "plowing up your fallow ground," and if that fail, by fire, as the Bible says, over and over again. Even wheat, too, has its purgatory to burn its sins away.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Thinks District Government Should Handle Questions of Title and Thus Put Title Companies Out of Business.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The time will yet come when a poor man can buy a home for himself and family without being obliged to pay heavy tribute to title and settlement companies.

These organizations are waxing fat at the expense of indolent citizens who somehow have not got enough backbone to demand of Congress certain necessary legislation that will oblige the District government to handle and settle at a nominal charge, all realty transactions directly pertaining to home ownership.

The poor man will yet have his day, and the time is not far distant when realty title and settlement companies will be as useless to society as a diseased appendix is to the human body.

PHILIP EBERT.

American Valuation Described as Sneaky and Sneaky as Provided in New Tariff Bill.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why not be honest about the American valuation plan? The so-called Mills compromise scheme looks like a legislative snake. It gives to the local appraisers unheard-of arbitrary power to decide he can not find foreign market value "to his satisfaction" and then clamp on American valuation; and further prevents the courts from reviewing his action.

That gives opportunity for outrageous favoritism. That does not look fair and straightforward to me. If American valuation is right, adopt it frankly, and make it apply to everybody. Do not try to get it by indirection by a deceitful scheme, in a partial incomplete way, through arbitrary official favor.

That sneaky compromise will please no one, least of all the American manufacturers. And all importers, including many manufacturers who import raw materials, will look upon it as an outrage.

It will neither help the Republican party nor the cause of "honest" protection to leave that "snake" in the tariff bill. FRANKLIN WILSON.

Approaches to Bridges Should Be Straight and Not Curved or Angular. Dangers in Crooked Approaches.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Please use the influence of your paper to see that the bridge to be erected at the Great Falls of the Potomac be provided with straight approaches. If it is, it will be decidedly more accessible to motor traffic than are most of the existing bridges across the Potomac and Anacostia Rivers. Of the principal bridges in operation, there are but two with straight-a-way approaches, and these span the Anacostia River. They are both old bridges of flimsy construction; namely, the Pennsylvania Avenue bridge and the Benning bridge. The Anacostia bridge, near the navy yard, of slightly more recent construction, has acute right-angled approaches at both ends and is difficult (and at times dangerous) of access. The same is true of the new Francis Scott Key bridge and the old Chain bridge, crossing the Potomac.

According to the plans, the Arlington Memorial bridge now nearing completion, also will have right-angled approaches, the north end from B street and the south end from both the proposed Mount Vernon boulevard and the Lee boulevard. The only other traffic bridge crossing the Potomac at Washington, the Highway bridge, has a straight approach at the Virginia end and a short curved approach at the Potomac Park end. Most of the bridges across Rock Creek have straight-a-way approaches, the principal exception being the Million-Dollar Connecticut avenue bridge. That structure has a straight approach at the north end, a cul de sac at the south end, with a mixture of right-angled streets and short curves.

Topography may be responsible for bridge conditions here, but does not seem to have prevented proper bridge construction in other cities of the country. Approaches are usually questions of prime importance in the location of bridges, and why they were overlooked by our local engineers is hard to understand. A. J. C.

Traffic Rule Should Protect Pedestrians Against Cars Whirling Around Corners—At Present the Lights Do Not Protect Walkers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: An item in this morning's Post states that the American Business Club is planning a new drive against jaywalking and that cooperation of the Traffic Bureau and the Police Department is urged looking ultimately to arrest of pedestrians who fail to observe the traffic laws.

In my judgment, what is needed is not a drive against jaywalking, but the making of traffic regulations which recognize the fact that pedestrians have the same right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" as those who drive automobiles.

Over and over again pedestrians have been urged to "follow the lights" or "obey the directions of the traffic officer," but now in heaven—or the other place—can a pedestrian follow the lights when a continuous stream of automobiles keeps coming around the corner until the lights change?

My observation is that an automobile that comes whirling around the corner can maim or kill just as certainly as one that goes directly up or down a street.

At intersections controlled by lights or traffic officers, any one who follows the light or the signal and starts across the street is apt to be hit by an automobile coming around the corner. Since we can not get across at all, therefore, without dodging automobiles, it is no wonder that we take any opportunity that presents itself whether the light is green or red.

What I want to know is this: Why should it not be so arranged that the lights and signals will give us an opportunity to cross the street without having to look out for an automobile coming from any direction whatever? If the American Business Club and the Traffic Bureau and the Police Department will devise some traffic rules which will actually give us the rights to which we are entitled under the Constitution, there will be no difficulty in enforcing rules against jaywalking, because that particular form of pedestrian activity will no longer be necessary. J. J. WALKER.

COLORED CITIZENS PLEDGE PRATT AID

Serenade and Greetings Are Presented in Front of the District Building.

BACK LAW ENFORCEMENT

Pledges of support in law enforcement were given Maj. Henry Pratt, superintendent of police, by a committee of colored citizens last night at a concert and serenade by the Community Centers Band, under direction of James E. Miller, in the park in front of the District Building.

Greetings on behalf of colored religious bodies were extended Maj. Pratt by the Rev. J. L. S. Holloman, pastor of the Second Baptist Church. Marie Madre-Marshall, State chairman of the Federation of Colored Women's Clubs, speaking on behalf of colored women said:

"We hold no brief for criminals, and would bring to bear every social agency to turn them away from the error of their choice of conduct. We want justice to be certain and efficient in this Capital, that all America may pattern after us. And we desire that the negro here may demonstrate, as he has in Mound Bayou, Miss., where he governs himself, that there is no great need for a large and expensive police department."

Maj. Pratt responded briefly, bespeaking hearty cooperation of all agencies with the Police Department in law enforcement.

Foes of Suffrage Say Radio Denied

Senator Dill Proposes an Amendment Giving Chance to Both Sides of Question.

Formal complaint of an organization opposing suffrage in the District of Columbia that it has been unable to broadcast its position over radio was made public yesterday by Senator Dill, of Washington, before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The senator explained that under the law a radio station must give opposing political candidates an opportunity to go on the air. He pointed out that he sought to have the committee consider an amendment extending the law to provide for discussion on the air of public questions by opposing groups also.

The complaint to Senator Dill was made by the Ten Miles Square Club, an organization opposing the Federal constitutional amendment "creating a State out of Washington City." It was filed by Grover W. Ayers as executive secretary.

HOUSE CONFERENCE ON TARIFF FUTILE

Republicans in the East, particularly from New York, that the agricultural sections might be treated a little more liberally, and the indications are that the Westerners will propose their amendments through the committee.

Tilson said he did not believe a Republican caucus, which usually binds a party to take specific action, would be necessary on the tariff, and expressed the opinion that if a majority of those responsible for the legislation want a vote on any schedule they should have one.

The only definite action taken at the conference, said the Republican leader, was the adoption of a resolution thanking the Republicans on the ways and means committee for their "arduous, careful and faithful labors during the last four months."

next Thursday at 12 o'clock. A program of music and addresses will follow the breakfast. Mrs. Lewis P. Allen, 1203 Floral street, is in charge.

The Delta Chapter, Chi Sigma Sorority, will hold a dance at the Potomac Boat Club next Wednesday, with Miss Mildred Fitzgerald acting as chairman.

Miss Ruth Pratt, representative from New York, will occupy a box at the children's horse show today at the Preece Riding School. She will present a cup to the winner of one of the afternoon events.

Others added to the list of boxholders are Mr. Sherman Flint, Mr. and Mrs. Demarest Lloyd and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin R. Holcombe. Mrs. George Akerson, wife of the secretary to the President will be one of Mrs. James F. Curtis' guests. Mr. Dion Kerr will act as one of the judges.

Prizes and ribbons will be given in all events by the committee. The morning show, consisting of eight classes, will begin at 10 o'clock, and the afternoon card of nine classes at 2:30 o'clock.

The Chi Sigma National Sorority will hold its annual spring tea at the Carlton today from 3 to 6 o'clock. Miss Dorothy Wills, Iota Chapter, will act as hostess.

Pratt Promises Aid To Stop Jay-Walking

Police to Cooperate With Auto Association in Campaign.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt yesterday promised the cooperation of the Police Department in a campaign to educate pedestrians against jaywalking.

The promise was made by Maj. Pratt yesterday at a conference with representatives of automobile associations, who believe that such a campaign will be of value in reducing the number of accidents resulting in injuries or death.

Inspector E. W. Brown, assistant superintendent of police in charge of the police division of the Traffic Bureau, probably will employ his squad of bicycle men in the educational campaign against jaywalking. Study of statistics has convinced officials that if they can eliminate jaywalking they can cut down the number of traffic accidents.

Woman Wins $8,000 From Taxicab Concern

Mrs. Delia Flaherty, of 8240 Twentieth street northwest, was awarded $8,000 damages against the Wardman Park Taxicab Co. by the verdict of a jury given to Justice William Hitz yesterday in circuit branch of the District Supreme Court.

The complaint was based on a traffic mishap which occurred at Twentieth and M streets northwest on June 18, 1926. Mrs. Flaherty, according to the complaint, was crossing the street, when she was felled by a cab of the defendant. Negligence in operation of the vehicle was charged against the driver by the plaintiff, who was represented by Attorneys Harry T. Whelan and William O'Connell.

Coming of Jesus Topic Of Rev. Dr. Wilkinson

"Is Jesus Soon Coming?" will be the subject of a sermon by the Rev. Dr. B. H. Wilkinson, dean of theology of the Washington Missionary College, at the Arcadia tomorrow night. This will be the last lecture by Dr. Wilkinson this season, it is announced.

Supplementing the lecture, there will be a medical demonstration by experts from the Washington Sanitarium.

Kansas City Minister To Preach at Mission

The Rev. David Bulkley, superintendent of the City Union Mission, of Kansas City, will preach on "The Wages of Sin Is Death" tomorrow morning at the Gospel Mission, 214 John Marshall place northwest. A chapel service will be held at 8 o'clock, to be followed by a free Bible class breakfast at 9:30 o'clock, it was announced by Harvey V. Prentice, superintendent of the mission.

LOUIS FIOT FUNERAL MONDAY

Rev. Edmond Fontaine Will Conduct Rites for Baby Killed in Fall.

The funeral of Louis Andre, the infant son of M. and Mme. Andre L. Fiot, of the French Embassy, who was killed in an elevator accident at the Ritz apartments on Wednesday, will be held at 11 o'clock, Monday morning from the John R. Wright funeral parlors, 1337 Tenth street northwest.

The Rev. Edmond Fontaine, of St. Paul's Catholic Church, will conduct the funeral services.

POLICEMAN ALLEN RESTORED TO RANK

it is hereby ordered: That the finding and sentence of the Police Trial Board are hereby disapproved."

This means that Allen will continue as a member of the District police force despite the finding of guilt by the trial board.

Allen was accused of firing his pistol on March 15 a few minutes after 11 o'clock at night at James Albert Frazier, colored, 19 years old, residing at 2116 Ward place northwest, at Twenty-fourth and G streets northwest. Frazier was shot in the right leg below the knee.

Allen said that he and another policeman had been patrolling their beat when they had heard a shot. Running to an alley where the report came from, they separated to cover both entrances.

He saw two colored men running, Allen said, and called on them to halt several times. When they refused to do so, he said, he took careful aim at Frazier's leg and fired, bringing him down. Allen said that both he and his colleague had thought at the time that the men were fleeing after com-

Convicted by a trial board composed of Capt. T. R. Bean, Martin Reilly, and J. E. Wilson, Allen was sentenced to be dismissed for unjustifiable use of his pistol. He appealed to the District Commissioners.

Allen, it is recalled, once achieved front-page notice in the newspapers by charges that policemen beat and otherwise cruelly treated prisoners.

Store Robbed of $74.

Gaining entrance by use of a duplicate key, a burglar early yesterday looted the cash register in the Bert Clothing shop at 705 Seventh street northwest of $74 and stole two suits of clothing valued at $50, according to a report made to police yesterday by George M. Hoffman, the proprietor.

COULD NOT DO HER WORK

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Berlin, N. H.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was in a family way because I was run-down and falling away every day. My food wouldn't digest and I could not do my work. I had to have a hired girl all the time. I took several medicines before I tried yours but none would help me. A friend told me about the Vegetable Compound and told me to try it as it would help me a lot. Your medicines have done me a lot of good and I cannot praise them enough. I will answer any letters that ask me what Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines have done for me."—Mrs. Willie Ameko, 627 Burgess St., Berlin, N. H.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

Ken Maynard appears to be about the only Western star who is going any place in particular in the films.

Bill Hart, of course, is in retirement, Tom Mix, after a whirl in vaudeville, is back with a tent show, or a Wild West outfit, or something of the sort, and death recently eliminated Fred Thomson, once a clergyman, but latterly one of the most popular of the two-gun men.

Just at the point when all Hollywood was predicting a definite end to the "westerns" and the talented gentlemen who had so flamboyantly interpreted them, Universal announced that Maynard had been signed to a five-year contract calling for six westerns a year.

The film colony tells an interesting story of how Maynard first got his name into the newspapers.

At the time he was a rodeo and circus rider and his immediate ambition was to get into a show at Coney Island. The show owner saw him only as another cowboy and wasn't interested.

Maynard borrowed a midget horse, one that was only 24 inches high, and had it sent in a crate to a room he rented in the finest hotel on the island.

He tied the horse to the bedpost and then asked the clerk to send him a bale of hay.

A few minutes later Maynard led his horse through the lobby and to the street, propelled by the clerk and supporting police officers.

The newspapers carried the story and the next day Maynard appeared with the Coney Island show as an exhibitor of the world's smallest horse.

To be good, that diminutive equine should have turned out to be Man o' War!

Frederic March, the stage actor who has recently gone movie, says he hates the month which was not named for him because it promotes too much friendly wisecracking. For instance, he dislikes being asked, "How are your Ides?" and I don't blame him.

Yeah, just a paragraph on a slim day.

An enjoyable visit from "Wee Willie" Robyn this morning served as the excuse for a large amount of reminiscing by us both. Mr. Robyn, appearing currently at the Fox, where his second week is proving more eminently successful even than his first, was long associated with Roxy and his gang and now is about to return to the fold, and Roxy and I were closely associated in the tropics years ago when he was just plain Sam Rothapfel, with the "p" still undeleted by the implied demands of armed conflict. What we said about him——!

The marvel of the man to us both is that he should have achieved his present high place of eminence on Broadway, where he is looked upon as rather an arbiter of things musical, without any musical education whatsoever.

Mr. Robyn recounted to me a rehearsal during which Roxy was observed in action—unknown to himself — by Leopold Godowsky, the distinguished pianist, who afterward remarked that every correction of the rendering of a standard overture, under the alternate conductorship of Messrs. Rapee and Mendoza, insisted upon by the impresario, was absolutely right and according to the composer's original score, which, incidentally, Mr. Rothafel did not have before him.

When I knew him first, the only place one could be sure of finding Sam was in Bob Holmes' La Margarita Cafe pumping away at the only player piano on the West Indian island where we both happened to be at the time. He got his music by leg muscle, as you might say.

Just to set the record straight, the m. c. at whom I made a stern face was not clowning with friends out front, but had his back to the audience and was cross-firing with his stage associates. "Wickland Snell" spells his name Walter Huston, not "Houston," and "Gentlemen of the Press" was supervised but not directed by Monta Bell, former local newspaper man, actor and ghost writer for Charlie Chaplin. It was directed by Millard Webb.

No sooner is it announced that Milton Davis, one of the Capital's most gifted theater organists, is about to transfer his talents back to the console at the Tivoli Theater than the New York home-office officials of the Warner Bros. enterprises decide that he is too good for a residential post and should be taken out upon the big time in an executive capacity.

So it is, I am informed, that Mr. Davis soon will be hitting the high spots in Eastern territory, seeing to it that the sound equipment is kept in proper order to function satisfactorily in all of the Warner, Stanley and First National (if any) houses. It is the plan eventually to ensconce Mr. Davis in the New York office as director of sound for the entire country—or the part of it by that time dominated by the interests which he serves.

The appointment was made by Spyros Skouras, in charge of all Warner Bros. theaters, with the consent and cooperation of John J. Payette, supervisor of theaters for the Stanley-Crandall Co. of Washington, with which Milton Davis has so long been associated.

Did I tell you I had a friend who calls his bootlegger "Circumstances" because he alters cases?

Shake: I'm not so steamed up about that one either.

Uncle Ray's Corner

HERE is a puzzle which I should like to see whether you can work out:

Mr. and Mrs. Brown are on the side of a river, and they have with them two sons who are twins, and there is also a dog.

The party must cross the river, but they have nothing but a small boat which will carry no more than 150 pounds.

Mr. Brown weighs 150 pounds and his wife weighs 150 pounds. Each of the boys weigh 75 pounds. The dog weighs twenty pounds. How are they going to get across?

None of the Browns can swim. And the dog refuses to swim. What could the Browns do about it?

They were puzzled. Thinking that there should be "ladies first," they sent Mrs. Brown across, but she had to come back with the boat, so that did no good.

There was a way of working out the problem. See whether you can do it. I'll give you a hint by telling you that there must be five round trips, besides the last trip. In the last trip one of the boys takes the dog across.

In trying to solve this puzzle, you might have to send the boys across and have them came back again, one at a time or two at a time. If you succeed in working out this puzzle, you may use it on your friends.

I shall print the answer in the Saturday talk next week.

Would you like a copy of the leaflet, "Home Pastimes for Boys and Girls?" If so, fill out the coupon and mail it to me with a return envelope. Please write plainly. When you write a letter put your own address on the upper left-hand corner of the envelope.

Island Residents Fear Lake May Break Dikes

Windsor, Ont., May 10 (A.P.).—Battling turbulent Lake Erie waters, the farm folk of Pelee Island are maintaining night and day shifts to hold dikes on the eastern side of the island where the lake is within a foot and a half of the top and slowly rising, it was reported today. Thousands of sandbags already have been thrown up against the dike and island people are working pumps night and day to keep the inner portions of the island dry.

American Envoy Threatened.

Athens, Greece, May 10 (A.P.).—A man, whose name was not given in police statements, was arrested today on a charge of sending a threatening letter to the United States Minister, who, it was reported, had prevented his entering the United States.

Student Flier Drowns As Seaplane Crashes

Pensacola, Fla., May 10 (A.P.).—Peter Henry Mang, of New York, a student flier at the Pensacola Naval Air Station, was drowned in Pensacola Bay off Cull Point today when the seaplane he was piloting crashed during a practice torpedo run.

The plane nosed into the water at great speed, pinning Mang in the cockpit. His mechanic, J. Franklin Seratt, of Muskogee, Okla., was not injured.

Mang's home address was listed on naval records here as 325 East 163d street, New York City. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Hazel Lee Mang, of Leesburg, Va. Seratt's home address is 133 Chestnut street, Muskogee.

Prelude to "Virginia" on Air Tonight

Braine's American Opera for First Time on Radio Over WRC at 8 P. M. "Romeo and Juliet" by WJZ—Navy Band at 9.

A symphonic climax of radio's observation of National Music Week will be reached tonight when the prelude to Robert Braine's American opera, "Virginia," is played for the first time over the air in the symphony concert of General Electric Hour at 8 o'clock.

Under the baton of Walter Damrosch, the orchestra will play the introductory music to the third act of the young American composer's work. "Virginia" is an opera of the Civil War, with a story of crinoline days in which love, beauty and sacrifice intermingle to produce the conflict of a powerful drama. The story of the opera was written by Hetty O'Haley and was set to music by Braine, whose previous compositions have been introduced to symphony audiences by Mr. Damrosch.

The radio concert tonight will also include "Moment Musical," Schubert; "Spring Song," Mendelssohn; Andante from "Symphony No. 2," Brahms; "Algerian Scenes," Saint-Saens; "Afternoon of a Faun," Debussy; and "Roses From the South," a waltz, Strauss.

Broadway of today and yesterday will be represented in the program by the Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra at 9 o'clock from WRC. The complete program follows:

"Yama Yama Man," "Japanese Sandman," "I Love You, I Love You," "Wedding Bells," "Marie," "Message of the Violets," "Outside," "Beside a Babbling Brook," "St. Louis Blues," "Dance of the Paper Dolls," "Paddlin' Madeline Home," "Goodby, Boys, I'm Through," "Irish Eyes," "Down by the Old Mill Stream," "My Kinda Lovin'," "Somebody Stole My Gal," "Stumbling," and "Ranger's Song."

Robert P. Lamont, Secretary of Commerce, will be the speaker in the fourth nation-wide broadcast of the Universal Safety Series at 6:15 o'clock, from the studios of WRC. "Safety—A National Problem" is Mr. Lamont's subject.

The Park Central and Wardman Park Dance Orchestras will conclude WRC's broadcast.

The U. S. Navy Band, directed by Lieut. Charles Benter, will be on the air at 9 o'clock this morning through station WRC.

Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" will be presented on the air with a cast of veteran Shakespeareans at 9 o'clock tonight from WJZ, New York. Shakespeare's own lines without interpolations in modern phraseology, will be used in the radio adaptation. Music will be from Gounod's opera based on the story of "Romeo and Juliet" and there will be special dramatic music used throughout the production.

Florence Malone, now one of the outstanding radio actresses, will play "Juliet." William S. Rainey, NBC production manager and a veteran actor, will play "Romeo."

Charles F. Adams, Secretary of the Navy, and James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, will be the principal speakers in a program broadcast from WMAL at 9 o'clock this evening.

The George Olsen Hour of music will be immediately followed by the King Covert Vagabonds and the Club Plaza Orchestra.

"Promoting Retail Trade in Washington," will be the subject of Isaac Gans, of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, from WMAL at 8 o'clock.

Signor Luigi Calbi, of the "And So To Bed" cast, now at Poli's theater will offer a program over WOL at 6:30 o'clock during which he will play on the piano, violin, cello, banjo and lute. A program of dinner music is scheduled at 6:10 while Signor Calbi's offering will be followed at 7:20 by the Castillian Dance Orchestra.

The first radio presentation of a Swiss male chorus of 70 voices, and a yodel quartet, will be heard over WABC, New York City, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon during the "Minute Men Club."

"What Shall We Do With Muscle Shoals?" will be the subject of Representative Gordon Browning, of Tennessee, from WJSV at 8 o'clock tonight. Regular Saturday evening features will be broadcast from the station between 9 o'clock and midnight.

Bridal Veil in Modern Guise

© VOGUE

THE last and most effective touch to the bridal costume is the traditional veil, that touch which lends dignity and radiancy to any bride. Although the possible effects seem many, the actual arrangement of the veil requires true artistry, and the really successful ones are decidedly limited in number. Lovely bits of old lace, yards of simple tulle, handsome court veils may be incorporated into exquisite creations or become nondescript frames, all depending upon the skillful handling.

In the sketch are some charming suggestions for the arrangement of different types of veils. The one in the upper corner was seen at a prominent wedding in Paris. A white satin ribbon tightly binds the hairline of the bride, emphasizing the effect of a high forehead. The veil of tulle is arranged so that it is short at one side of the head and very long at the other side, to form the train. A cluster of simple flowers and an eye veil add softening touches.

The other two models were created by a well-known English artist. He arranges old Duchesse and rose point lace in a nun-like guise and shrouds the whole effect with fine Brussels net. A band of lace follows the throat-line, and the actual veil is drawn simply about the head into a cap shape. The arrangement of the third veil in the sketch is ideal for a face with classic features. A severely chic turban is effected from white tulle, and the long train falls from beneath the turban at the nape of the neck.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

WARNING TO MENINGITIS.

THE Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service recently warned the country that meningitis had been exceptionally prevalent for several months. There seemed some evidence that a fresh supply was being fed into this country from the Orient.

This warning was given to a meeting of health officers and physicians and for that company was appropriate. They need to be on the alert for this disease. The research men need to be prodded. So far as the people generally are concerned they can turn over and go back to sleep. It is enough to warn the pickets, that is, at this stage of the game.

The meningitis season is nearly over for the year. The curve of prevalence is downward. Presently we will pass into the valley of relative security and stay there until somewhere about Thanksgiving Day. This somewhat beneficent holiday starts more than one kind of trouble.

Epidemic meningitis is due to a coccus with which man is ordinarily on the friendliest terms. He harbors this coccus in his throat and nose, giving it a home rent and tax free. He furnishes the coccus with such food as it needs. To the coccus man is a gracious host and to the man the coccus is an obliging guest. On rare occasions host and guest fell out and a fight ensues. The fight is called meningitis. If the coccus wins it loses. That is, if it kills the man it and the host are burned together and both return to the dust from which they sprang. If it loses it may win. If the man recovers he may remain a meningitis coccus carrier for the remainder of his life, that is to say, he and the coccus may patch up a permanent peace.

Season and weather have everything to do with peace and unity of these two neighbors and potential enemies. Warm weather makes for peace between them. There are few fights when the weather is good and the man carries his guests into the sunlight and open air. The story for the cold, wet weather of the early spring is different. Under those circumstances host and guest spit at each other like tomcats and every now and then they have it out "hammer and tongs." For that matter season has something to do with the temper of tomcats and other members of animal kind.

And so, being it, man can go back to sleep. But not the guards. They must be working in preparation for change of seasons. They should get set for next winter long before winter comes.

CONVICTING CHILD'S FOOD.

R. E. G. writes: I have a 5-year-old boy who has long been subject to attacks of acidosis and eczema. I tried many things. I found that simple cold cream was quite as effective as medicated salves. He developed an asthma and a nose condition not the result of colds. I had his tonsils and adenoids out and it seemed to make him worse.

A complete physical examination made by a very careful physician showed nothing organically wrong. It was a case of acidosis and sensitization.

Before having skin tests made I decided to try a voyage of discovery. I bought a notebook and I set down minutely what the child ate and drank and when and the state of his acidosis or sensitization and restlessness at night, bowel action, and so forth. First, I became convinced that cereal was harming him. It was left out of his diet. Next, lettuce was accused, convicted, and excluded. I now feed him on food that produces alkaline ash and milk, half and half. He is a different child now.

REPLY.

I am sure other mothers could free their children from tendency to acidosis by following your plan.

TOO MUCH CALOMEL.

H. writes:

1. What and why are the bad effects of taking rather large doses of calomel frequently for nearly a year?

2. Is it ever given with good results in cases of high blood pressure?

3. What causes "teeth on edge" when eating spinach?

REPLY.

1. There is some danger of starvation or other evidence of mercury poisoning. Calomel is a purgative. To take purgatives repeatedly results in constipation and disturbs digestion and upsets regularity of habit.

2. As a remedy for high blood pressure it is both ineffective and harmful.

3. Sensitive dentine and possibly acid saliva.

Flying of Zeppelin to Be on Radio

WRC and WMAL to Carry Voice of Announcer on Dirigible as She Crosses Atlantic to U. S.—More 50,000 Watts Stations.

For the first time the radio audience will receive daily account of a transatlantic flight direct from the Graf Zeppelin, when it leaves Friedrichshafen bound for Lakehurst around May 15. These accounts will be broadcast every night over the National Broadcasting Company and Columbia Broadcasting System networks, heard here through WRC and WMAL. For the first part of the flight, the short wave transmitters of the giant blimp will broadcast in code, but after the Zeppelin passes the fortieth meridian in mid-atlantic, constant efforts will be made to pick up the voice of the announcer aboard. It is not expected that these attempts will be successful until the Graf Zeppelin nears the American coast in which case the code reports will be continued until transmission of a voice becomes practical.

In order that the radio audience may receive the daily story in its complete form, each day's reports, regardless of the time they are sent from the Zeppelin, will be given to the radio audience every night at about 10 o'clock, Eastern standard time. The exact hour will be announced in a few days. When the Graf Zeppelin nears the American shore, and it is possible to broadcast the announcer's voice direct from the airship, the broadcast may be put on whenever good reception is obtained, but special efforts will be made to have Nicholson on the air at the regular 10 o'clock broadcast period.

With granting of construction permits to station WBAP at Fort Worth and Station WTAM, at Cleveland, for 50perpower, the list of 50,000-watt stations grows. As far as known, 50,000 watts is the highest power regularly used by any program station in the world. There are now five such stations already in operation in the United States, with eight more in contemplation.

The following stations are now using 50,000 watts: WEAF, New York; WGY, Schenectady; WENR, Chicago; WLW, Cincinnati; KDKA, Pittsburgh.

Those stations which have been granted construction permits to install 50,000-watt transmitters are as follows: WBAP, Fort Worth; WTAM, Cleveland; WCFL, Chicago; KFI, Los Angeles; WQAI, San Antonio; WFAA, Dallas.

Station KPWF, Westminster, Calif., has been authorized to erect a 50,000-watt transmitter with the understanding it will not be used full capacity at this time. The State is over its power quota and Commissioner Harold A. Lafount simply allowed them to install this high-power equipment in case there should ever be an opportunity for its use. KMOX, St. Louis, has been promised a construction permit for 50 KW but has never made official application at the commission.

Due to the fact that the broadcasting of time signals by WRC occupied the beginning of the half hour —and apparently was more or less bungled—the new skit "Buck and Wing" by Phil Cook and Vic Fleming, got away to a slow start Thursday night. Phil Cook is well remembered as "Morpheus" in the old "Cotton and Morpheus" broadcasts and doubtless when the new act which is to be heard every Thursday night gets shaken down, he will be just as popular in this. However, the first night the "Buck and Wing" skit seemed too long drawn out and proved a bit tiresome.

The next broadcast from the "Irrational Broadcasting Company's 'Lavender Network,'" will be the "Musical Novelsque" program broadcast by Station WLW tomorrow night between 11 and 12 o'clock Eastern standard time.

This is another of the series of "Weak End Satires," of which Don Becker, of Station WLW, is the author. These skits are believed to be among the first burlesque of radio programs offered in this country. It is a coincidence that the British Broadcasting Company, through its Station 3LO, in London, is just now trying out something on the same order.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

MAY 11.

"THE Protectoress of Agriculture and the Fruits of the Earth—a Beneficent Demeter of the nineteenth century." These words were used by the dean of Edinburgh University in conferring the degree of LLD. on Eleanor Ormerod, English entomologist, born this day, 1828. She was the first woman to be so honored.

Miss Ormerod gained her knowledge of entomology through her own investigations, interesting herself especially in injurious insects. Her advice was sought all over the world. She was the first woman to be honored with a fellowship in the Meteorological Society of Great Britain. In 1882 she was appointed entomologist to the Royal Agricultural Society. She received silver and gold medals from the University of Moscow and a silver medal from Societe Nationale d'Acclamation de France. Persons in all parts of the world sent her insects for examination.

Jane Porter, famous English novelist, was born this day, 1776. Her novels include "Thaddeus of Warsaw," "The Scottish Chiefs," "The Pastor's Fireside," "The Field of Forty Footsteps," and "Sir Edward Seaward's Narrative of His Shipwreck and Conquest and Discovery of Certain Islands in the Caribbean Sea."

Dare Interprets the Mode

Just graduation frocks, which may give you some ideas! (All Dah-ray designs).

WHAT shall you have for a graduation dress! This is truly important, because you want to look oh so lovely, yet at the same time you want a dress you can wear afterward for parties and other occasions. And then sometimes one doesn't have quite all the money one wishes to spend, either, does one?

But all these re problems that a truly clever little lady will surmount. It is just this paying attention to such things that develops good taste, you know—and that is why richer girls often grow into women who just never are chic no matter how much money they spend for clothes.

Your graduation dress, first of all, should be white or a pastel color unless the class have all agreed upon something else in particular. And then you have your choice of chiffon, georgette, crepes, taffetas and organdies.

Next, the type of a dress. Here you have to decide whether you want an afternoon dress or a party frock or even possibly sports wear, if you have all agreed to it. And last, but not at all least, you must decide upon the color that best suits your own coloring. And then, you know, don't you, that our idea for a graduation dress for you is the sleeveless one, which can be worn for a party frock, and then with its matching jacquette as an afternoon outfit?

And so we have illustrated for you today some graduation frocks from which you may select the one you like for yourself!

Mustn't Miss This.

And more than that, we have made you an illustrated leaflet telling you exactly how to make the one that can be a party frock and then become an afternoon frock with the addition of its matching jacquette, which we also tell you how to make. And, sh-h-h-h-h, it takes only 4 yards of material! Better get right busy and send that stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the leaflet!

"The older woman who is still a welcome guest has decided to dress the part that the years have given her. If she has lived successfully, she possesses other assets that have grown with time—a witty tongue, a heart reasonably kind, a certain wise tolerance for human foibles, and the priceless ability to listen when others talk. While she has these, she may be in truth 'an older woman'—but she will never be old."

Still time to send your envelope for the spring lingerie—you know, a step-in bloomer, a lovely lady nightgown, a form-fitting combination, a frilly-fussy one, and oh-o-o-o! a black lace one!

In tomorrow's paper appears the regular weekly fashion letter. Make it a point to read it.

Au Revoir!

"Parking With Peggy"

"The race problem, as I see it, is how to pick a winner."

WORK ON BRIDGE

"The Auction Player unfamiliar with Contract is apt to be troubled by the big difference between Auction and Contract values for tricks, under-tricks, premiums, slams and rubbers, &c. The vulnerability feature of Contract is also apt to be confusing.

As a special service to our readers, Mr. Work will be glad to send you upon request, complimentary, a complete statement explaining all these new features, provided you inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for his reply. Mr. Work also answers all Auction and Contract questions without charge."

ONE feature of Contract Bridge which all will concede to be an improvement upon Auction Bridge is the way in which the premium for winning the rubber is allotted. In Auction Bridge the winners of two games get 250 points regardless of whether they have won two straight games or two games to their opponents' one; but in Contract this is different. The solons of Contract recognized the fact that a player deserves more credit for winning two games to none, than two games to one; and consequently they allow a larger premium for the victory won without giving up a game.

When Contract was first introduced the method of scoring the premium was managed in a different way—which produced the same result; 200 was allowed for winning a game, with an extra premium of 300 for winning the rubber. If one side won two games and the other none, the winning side would score 200 plus 300 equals 700; but if the losing side won one game to the winners' two, the losers would score 200 points to the winners' 700 and the net premium of the winners would be 500. Another way of stating it—precisely similar to the other two in effect—is to say that the premium for a side's first game is 200 and for their second 500. That makes a two-game rubber worth 700, and a three-game rubber 500 net, the same as before; the laws follow the simplest method by saying that 700 is the premium for winning two games to none, and 500 for winning two games to one.

Some players go astray (rather too readily, it seems to me) by imagining that the 700 for a two-game rubber is reduced when the losers have an honor score or have made partial scores on games they failed to win, or because the winners used two or more deals to win one or both of their games. Such details bear the same relation to the premium as "the flowers of spring" did to "the case"—they have nothing to do with it.

Shorthand Practiced In Europe Century Ago

Austin, Tex., May 10 (A.P.).—The stenographer's art is an old one. Evidence that shorthand existed more than a century ago has been found in Spanish textbooks at the University of Texas library. One text, published in 1811 by its author, Don Guillelmo Atanasio Xramillo, relates that it was a modified form of a shorthand book he once studied. Reference to a public examination indicates that shorthand was of somewhat general importance.

Another text, written in Spanish and published in 1821 by Don Francisco De Paula Marti, says there were more than 50 methods of shorthand in French and English at that time.

What Today Means to You

MAY 11

"TAURUS."

IF May 11 is your birthday, the best hours for you today are from 9:30 a. m. to 10:50 a. m., from 12:15 p. m. to 2:30 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 11 p. m.; the danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., and from 5 p. m. to 7:15 p. m.

A note of pessimism will pervade the atmosphere today and this infectious fear will be reflected in political and financial matters. This uncertain attitude will not promote good business.

The child born today will have a hesitating nature, and will be loath to take the initiative. It will be very sensitive, and its feelings will be chronically hurt. Proper training will bring out sturdier characteristics.

You have a most agreeable, optimistic and cheerful personality, and no matter how dignified your position in life may be, you are a hoyden at heart. You are very audacious, and your audacity can be as irritating as it is engaging. Life, to suit you, must be a perpetual motion. You love activity, and you detest any form of stagnation. It is stimulating, but not restful, to be with you.

In a democratic way you are very sociable and you have a grand disregard for conventions. Good-natured, warm-hearted, impulsive and cordial, you are always a genial host or hostess. You enjoy having congenial associates about you, and you prefer a crowd to solitude. You seek stimulation and not relaxation. You like noise and bustle, and not ease and quiet.

You have an alert, inquisitive mind, but it is sometimes discursive, and it is difficult for you to fix your mind upon any one project for long. You could not be called industrious, yet in an easy, rather inefficient manner you accomplish a great deal. You have a fair amount of vision and your success will be due more to your cleverness than to your labor or powers of perseverance.

You are very fond of home and family life, although you are too much the friend of everybody to become clannish.

Successful people born on May 11:
John Lowell, philanthropist.
Mathew Vassar, philanthropist.
John Fox Potter, statesman.
Septimus Winner, composer.
Charles W. Fairbanks, senator.
Irving Berlin, song composer.

Radish Grower Expects $50,000 From 75 Acres

Muskogee, Okla., May 10 (A.P.).—A radish king in the Arkansas River Valley, which has produced several so-called "potato kings," expects to make a gross income of $50,000 from this year's crop.

Dayne Mayes planted 75 acres to radishes this spring, and used 200 workers to harvest the crop.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREAD WINNER — He Knows When He's Well Off

I LIKE YOUR IDEA ALL RIGHT, MR. LIBB, BUT WE CAN'T ADVERTISE 2 TWO PINS AT TH' SAME TIME! IT'S GOT TO BE EITHER TH' SAFETY PIN OR TH' HAIR PIN!!
I'LL TELL YOU WHAT BOSS - LET MISS WINKLE DECIDE!!
I'LL TAKE THESE TWO PINS OUT AND TELL HER WE WERE IN A HUDDLE AND DON'T KNOW WHICH PIN TO ADVERTISE FIRST!!
SAY MISS WINKLE — I WANT TO ASK YOU SOMETHING — WHAT-YOU HERE AGAIN?? FOR TWO PINS I'D TELL YOU WHAT I THINK OF YOU RIGHT NOW!
I GUESS THE BOSS BETTER ASK HER!!
BRANNER

HABIT

When a person, young or old, does a thing so many times that he repeats it without having to think about it, we say he has formed a habit.

Habits are men's worst enemies, or his greatest benefactors—according to how he uses them.

Every time you perform an action it makes it easier to do again. "Just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined."

What kind of habits are you forming? What are the unconscious acts which will be directing your life five or ten years from now?

Are you loafing? Are you shirking responsibilities? Are you dissipating? Are you overeating? Are you neglecting your personal appearance? Are you associating with the wrong companions?

If you are wise you are doing none of these things. You are forming entirely different habits to take care of your routine life, leaving your real self free to think about other problems.

If you are awake to your opportunities in this greatest of all ages you are—

Saving a certain portion of your earnings.

Associating with intelligent, moral companions and reading good books.

Attending religious services at least once a week.

Habits Are Easy to Form and Hard to Break
START THE RIGHT KIND!

BULLS WIN CONTROL IN BRISK NEW BUYING

Sales Near 4,000,000-Share Mark as Call Money Drops to 6 Per Cent.

UTILITIES ARE LEADERS

New York, May 10 (A.P.).—With call money available at 6 per cent for the first time since early April, bullish operations were confidently resumed on the stock market today, centering in the utilities.

Total sales approached the 4,000,000-share mark for the first time in a week, and the Associated Press index of 20 leading utilities was sent up to the highest level yet reached. The precipitant drop in call money, which renewed at 14 per cent only yesterday, together with the vigorous defense of stock exchange use of credit by President Simmons, of the exchange, speaking in Chicago last night, threw sunshine into speculative circles for the first time in several days.

The fact that money touched 6 per cent but for two days after the passing of the money pinch a month ago was recalled, but failed to weaken the impression in Wall street that the credit situation had taken a definite turn for the better. The source of the sudden influx of money was somewhat puzzling.

Call Funds at 6 Per Cent.

New York banks were believed to have improved their reserve positions in the past two days with the belated return of the month-end outflow of funds, and it was pointed out that a 14 per cent call loan rate must eventually draw funds in a prosperous country.

Call money renewed at 10 per cent, but dropped successively to 8 and then to 6 per cent, but even at that rate funds went begging and were offered in the outside market at 5. The action of time money in contrast, however, did not promise any sustained ease in credit.

Shorter maturities were distinctly firmer. Although there was no change in the official rate, little 30-day money was said to be available under 9 per cent.

The day's business news was fairly satisfactory. Reports from the reparations conference were more cheerful, and the United States Steel April 30 unfilled tonnage report showed a small gain, considerably smaller than Wall street estimates had indicated, but the first gain for April since 1922, and contrasting with a sharp drop a year ago. The weekly business and trade reviews were a little more conservative in tone, but still found general conditions good.

Buying in Holding Companies.

The buying in the utilities centered in the large holding companies, and was believed to have been partly inspired by the recent appreciation in the market value of their holdings. United Corporation shot up 6 points to a record price, at 72¾, while North American Co., Columbia Gas and Consolidated Gas rose 2 or 3 points to new high record prices.

General Electric was a bull favorite, jumping 9 points, a new peak, at 268, reflecting rumors of a 4-for-1 slit-up. Chesapeake Corporation was also heavily bought, climbing about 7 points to a new high, at 94½, as a new offer of rights was rumored. Rails generally gave a fair account of themselves, in response to reports of record-breaking car loadings.

Commercial Solvents mounted 15 points to a new top, at 367, and American Can forged ahead nearly 7 points. Sparks-Withington, Stewart Warner, Timken Roller Bearing, Underwood-Elliott, Vick Chemical, and General Railway Signal were other issues reaching new high ground.

Motor Shares Are Firm.

Motor stocks were firm. General Motors and Packard selling up about 2 points, and Marmon reaching a new top, at 104.

Oils were rather quiet, save for Atlantic Refining and Barnsdall, which reached new highs. Coppers were quiet. U. S. Steel mounted more than 2 points on the tonnage report.

Among the few soft spots were Standard Milling, By-Products Coke, American Railway Express and Byers, which sagged 2 to 5 points.

In the commodity markets, wheat finally steadied after its precipitant declines, helped by a smaller Government estimate of the winter crop than had been feared. Cotton likewise steadied, influenced by bullish consumption reports for April, and closed practically unchanged. Raw sugar futures were again under pressure, however, and reached new lows for the movement.

Foreign exchanges were firmer, sterling improving a little, and the German mark holding steady despite the large loss of gold revealed by the Reichsbank statement. The discount on the Canadian dollar was reduced to less than ½ of a cent.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, May 10 (A.P.).—Some uncertainty as to week-end weather, together with bullish private figures on domestic consumption for April and reports of a firmer spot basis in the South, led to rallies from an opening decline in cotton today. The decline started off in the later trading, however, and after selling up from 18.47 to 18.64, July declined to 18.50 under renewed realizing or liquidation. The general market closed steady, net unchanged to 4 points lower.

The opening was steady at a decline of 4 to 8 points under liquidation and some local and Wall street selling. Inspired by a fairly favorable view of the early weather with relatively easy Liverpool cables and the standard cloth statistics, May declined to 18.27 and December to 18.70, but at once the market evidently attracted covering. There was also some buying on a private report placing domestic consumption of lint cotton for April at 635,000 bales, compared with 633,000 for March and 524,000 for April last year. Offerings were comparatively light after the initial selling and there appeared to be a little more trade buying on the advance at midday.

Some traders seemed to apprehend that the forecast for showers in western and central belt sections might prove the forerunner of rainy weather over the week-end and, although additional moisture would be considered beneficial in parts of west Texas, the belt generally is supposed to need dry warm weather.

For a time the market showed considerable firmness, with May selling up to 19.42 and December to 18.86, or 8 to 13 points net higher, but the demand tapered off somewhat at these figures. The failure of bullish features to develop more active or general buying was probably disappointment to some early buyers and prices weakened later under liquidation or reselling.

Closing quotations showed declines of about 10 to 14 points from the best. The standard cloth statistics reported sales for April amounting to only 71.3 per cent of prediction and showed an increase of 2 per cent in stock on hand with a decrease of 3 per cent in unfilled orders. Exports for the season, 15,014, making 7,452,310 so far this season. Port receipts, 5,984. United States port stocks, 1,264,895.

BRAXTON YIELDS 4 HITS IN BEATING CHISOX, 4-2; DR. FREELAND CAPTURES PREAKNESS BY LENGTH

DR. FREELAND —Wins the Hike— HOME TO OATS

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

PIMLICO, Md., May 10.—There was furore and emotional display at the old Pimlico horse track about half past 4 o'clock this afternoon as a shiny brown horse with little dabs of lather on him went hiking under the wire, the winner of the Preakness, the Marylander's one big moment of the year. His name was Dr. Freeland. He was ridden by a half portion of a man named Louie Schaefer, and his owner, Walter J. Salmon, a New York real estate man, with one of those tall, needle-shaped New York buildings named after him, will receive in due time, a check for $52,325, the capital prize.

Just a length behind Dr. Freeland ran an earnest young barnyard pet, whose owner had sold him off just as a fight manager would sell a fighter, only a few hours before the race. This was Minotaur, and you may imagine the feelings of Mr. Charles Graffagnini, the lover of the thoroughbred, who let him go, and of Mr. John R. Thompson, jr., of Chicago, who bought him. There was a prize of $5,000 for Mr. Thompson on account of Minotaur's running second in the Preakness, which was just twice as much as Mr. Graffagnini paid for the horse last year.

The third horse was African, owned by R. T. Wilson, jr., but entered in the race as a partner of Dr. Freeland, under an arrangement somewhat like that maintained by Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen in the golf tournaments. In other words, Dr. Freeland and African ran as a joint entry, so the people who bet on African to win picked up as much money as through they had bet on Dr. Freeland, or $9.70 for $2, although he certainly did not win the horse race, being a length at least behind Minotaur.

Sande's Steed Wanted to Stop And Eat Some Grass.

Earle Sande rode Hermitage and when they had gone a half mile or so had him no further from the leaders than you could throw a feather into the wind. But it seems that Sande just did not have a very good horse between his knees for his pale purple chemise was seen bobbing sedately along twenty yards behind the pack soon after that and he finished like a street car in an automobile derby.

It must have been somewhat humiliating for Mr. Sande used to pick them up and carry them home for his employers when he was riding for hire and now his own steed wanted to stop and eat grass, apparently.

Mrs. Gann Gets Rightful Seat With Vice President Along.

They called Mr. Salmon into the judges' stand to shake hands with half a dozen dressy visitors but Vice President Curtis wasn't one of them. Mr. Curtis has a feeling for the horse tracks and they do allege that he used to ride some live stock on the leaky roof tracks of Oklahoma in his shoeless days. However, he had his sister, Mrs. Gann, along, and the place was so congested that he may have felt that it was his place to stay beside her lest some one try to do her out of her rightful seat.

The crowd was so closely wedged in the betting area under the grand stand just before the Preakness that a lot of people simply gave up trying to get near the windows. Pimlico is a small park, with seating arrangements for only 27,000, and there seemed to be a standee for every sitting customer. Between races they charged into the inclosure under the stands until the sides of the house seemed to stretch. Some of the neighbors got slightly temperish in the jamming and tugging, but there was no fighting worthy of report.

Admiral Grayson Was There, But That's Not News.

A few ladies were squashed and had to be aired on the lawn, but the only serious hurt befell a pallid little shrimp named Bejahak, who came unstuck and fell off a horse called The Skirt, in the first race. The horse showed up at the finish with no bridle and with her saddle under her keel, and a buggy was dispatched across the infield to bring the boy in. They backed an ambulance up to the back door and took him away for a survey half an hour later, but the doctor said he was not badly damaged.

Admiral Grayson, the Navy doctor, who used to issue iodine and pills to Woodrow Wilson, was present, but that is not news. His absence from the Preakness would be.

Minotaur Is Second After Leading in Stretch Drive.

Rancocas entry, showed his early foot to good advantage and took command going up the back stretch with Folking on his heels.

Dr. Freeland, Minotaur, African and The Nut were trailing the leaders, but in fairly close attendance as their riders bided their time and the general order of the running was maintained down the back stretch with Harry Payne Whitney's Beacon Hill joining the leaders around the turn, where a general closing in was in order as the jockeys on the favorites made their first move.

The sweep around the stretch turn was thrilling, with seven of the horses and riders flashing into the home lane virtually neck and neck in a thrilling struggle that apparently was to be decided in the straightaway run to the wire with the huge crowd still raving.

Schaefer Makes His Move With Dr. Freeland and Draws Away.

The close stretch duel continued until the last sixteenth pole was reached when Schaefer made his move with Dr. Freeland, which drew away to fight the issue out with Minotaur. Dr. Freeland proved the better in this final dash which saw The Nut and Beacon Hill drop out of winning contention after offering a stubborn fight throughout the running. Dr. Freeland flashed over the line a length in the van of Minotaur, with Jockey Roger Leonard, on African, lashing his mount across the line third, another length behind, but saving third money for the Salmon Stable by beating out The Nut, which led Beacon Hill to the finish by two lengths.

Loughran-Braddock Sign for Fight July 18

New York, May 10 (A.P.).—Tommy Loughran, light heavyweight champion, and James J. Braddock, outstanding challenger for the crown, signed articles today for a fifteen-round title match in the Yankee Stadium here July 18. Loughran will receive 37½ per cent of the gate and Braddock 12½.

The Philadelphia master faces the most dangerous contender of the present 175-pound crop in Braddock. The Jersey puncher broke Pete Latzo's jaw with one right-hand punch and knocked out both Tuffy Griffiths and Jimmy Slattery during the winter campaign.

"Honey Boy" Finnegan Flattened by Santiago

Chicago, May 10 (A.P.).—Armando Santiago, Cuban sharpshooter, scored a surprising victory in knocking out "Honey Boy" Dick Finnegan, of Boston, a contender for the featherweight championship, in the sixth round of their scheduled ten-round fight here tonight.

Santiago, who jumped into prominence by knocking out Joey Sanger a few months ago, smashed Finnegan to the floor a few seconds after the opening of the sixth round with a short right cross to the chin. Finnegan rolled over on his back and was counted out.

Santiago floored the Boston featherweight in the first round, dropping him with a right to the chin for a count of nine. Finnegan, however, came bounding back only to run into more trouble.

Record Indoor Crowd Sees Canzoneri Win

Chicago, May 10 (A.P.).—Before a record-smashing crowd of 25,000, Tony Canzoneri, former world's featherweight champion, was awarded an unpopular decision over Andre Routis, present 126-pound title holder, in their ten-round bout in the Chicago Stadium tonight.

The battle was witnessed by the greatest throng that ever saw an indoor boxing show in America. The gross receipts were around $90,000, a record gate for Chicago at popular prices.

The decision did not deprive Routis of his championship as the match was fought above the 126-pound weight limit. The verdict, however, was unanimous with Eddie Purdy, the referee, agreeing with Phil Collins and Ed Klein, the judges.

Hennessy Shows Form In Davis Cup Practice

Philadelphia, May 10 (A.P.).—John Hennessey, No. 4 in the national tennis ranking, was on the winning side twice today in a double-header doubles workout preparatory to the Davis Cup matches with Canada, in Montreal next week.

The Indianapolis ace, paired with John Van Ryn, former Princeton star, won from Wilmer Allison and J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., 6—3, 6—3, 4—6, and then, coupled with Fritz Mercur, Bethlehem, Pa., beat Allison and Van Ryn, 6—2, 6—4, 6—2. Hennessey, Van Ryn and Allison are members of the Davis Cup Team for the American zone matches, and have been working out here for the last week.

HAGEN GAINS 4TH BRITISH CROWN

it only four times," said Hagen. "They are still up on me, but I'm coming back again.

"We brought two British trophies over from America with us, and we lost the first one to your British Ryder Cup Team easily. We were well beaten, but we pulled ourselves together and decided to fight all the harder for the championship, and I was lucky enough to win."

Smiling Johnny Farrell answered calls for "Johnny," "Johnny," by saying, "Walter has expressed my sentiments." But Leo Diegel, called on in turn for a speech, complimented the Muirfield crowds for their sportsmanship.

Could Hardly Stand Up In Wind, Says Diegel.

Percy Alliss and Abe Mitchell, the leading British players, were called, and Alliss, speaking for both, congratulated the Americans on their great showing. "The best golfer won," said Alliss.

If Hagen won the title on the greens, Diegel lost it there. On eight of them he took three putts. "The wind wrecked me," he said. "I could hardly stand up in it." After a disastrous third round of 82, the professional champion began to regain control of the ball and his fourth round of 77 included few mistakes, but it was too late then to recover the lead that had slipped away from him this morning. Only at the very last was he able to summon his sizzling putting touch of yesterday to his aid. At the eighteenth he dropped a long one for the 299 that gave him third place.

British hopes for championship honors also were blown away on the putting greens. Mitchell took three putts on three greens in his third round and four on one.

"I was lucky," said Hagen, describing his victory. "But I managed to work up a fine putting touch that held all through the 36 holes today. All the time I expected sixes, but managed to escape them."

Hagen Scores First Six in 121 Holes of Tourney.

Hagen's six at the fourteenth hole of the third round was his first six in 121 holes of British championship golf. He went through the full 72 holes last year without a six. He seems to renew his golfing youth in Britain.

No one knew what Hagen's score was when he finished. The question had arisen as to whether his ball moved as he addressed it on the third green during the fourth round. If he had suffered a penalty stroke there his count would have been 293. The championship committee considered the question and ruled that the ball had not moved, so the official score went up at 292.

While most of the seventeen Americans in the competition were well among the leaders, some of them had an unusual experience in Great Britian. As a result, they can sympathize with British pros who have trod their native fairways in championship after championship without a sign of a gallery to watch their play because everybody was attracted to the American stars.

HUFTY BEATS SHOREY ON 21ST HOLE

Wins Tourney at Town And Country in Long Finals Match.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

PAGE HUFTY, champion of the Congressional Club, whose name in full is Mann Randolph Page Hufty, yesterday won the invitation tournament of the Town and Country Club on the twenty-first hole of a hard-fought battle in which John C. Shorey, Bannockburn, was defeated after staging a remarkable up-hill fight. He was 4 down and 4 to play, but not until the twenty-first green was reached did he hold out his hand in congratulations to his opponent.

There have been many contests for supremacy in club invitation tournaments in this section but none have ever equaled in a succession of thrills the struggle which finally resulted in Hufty's victory on the Town and Country Club course. The first four holes of the round gave no indication of the sensations which were to follow. Hufty won the first hole, a par 4, when Shorey's putt for a 4 hit the cup and failed to drop and then the next three holes were halved in 5s, through indifferent playing and especially because Shorey failed to hole putts which were not more than 4 or 5 feet in length, securing him a half when the sinking of the putt would have given him a win.

Then the fireworks began, Hufty scoring three birdies in a row. On the fifth, 230 yards, he drove within 10

SWANSON GOES BACK.

Chicago, May 10 (A.P.).—Karl Swanson, an infielder, has been released on option by the White Sox to the Indianapolis Club of the American Association. Swanson was obtained from Moline, of the Mississippi Valley League. Swanson's release reduced the Sox roster to 27, 2 more than the number permitted after June 15.

Nats Triumph Again, Over Chicago

Gooch, Playing First in New Line-up, Is Attack Leader.

By FRANK H. YOUNG

CHICAGO, May 10.—Garland Braxton held the White Sox to four hits this afternoon, and because this feat was coupled with the fact that the Nationals were able to put the seven safeties they obtained from the combined offerings of Bob Weiland, Dan Dugan and George Connally to good use, the southpaw was credited with a 4-to-2 victory. It was the Nats' second triumph in a row and the first time this season they have been able to win more than one game in succession.

The game was a thriller from start to finish and aside from Braxton's clever pitching, it was featured by a number of brilliant fielding plays, all of which were contributed by White Sox players. Both teams temporarily lost one of its players because of injuries. Right Fielder Clarence Poffman, of the home team, being forced to quit after charging head first into the right field wall while robbing Cronin of a hit in the fifth, while one of Dugan's wild heaves hit Buddy Myer while he was at bat in the eighth. The ball struck Myer on the elbow and he was forced to leave the game. Trainer Martin says the arm is likely to stiffen overnight and it is unlikely that Myer will play tomorrow.

Braxton Halts Budding Chisox Rally in Ninth Inning.

But for the fact that the home team was particularly fortunate in getting such premiums from its singles, the Nats' task would have been easier. One run came in the fourth and another in the fifth, the Sox then threatening in the ninth, when, with one out, Kamm singled and Clancy doubled. With the tying runs on second and third, Braxton managed to put on the brakes.

Gooch, who started when Blackburne announced that a southpaw pitcher would face the Nats, led his

Heavy Hurler Out of Condition; Burke to Get Chance.

Special to The Washington Post

CHICAGO, Ill., May 10.—Changes in the Washington line-up, including the benching of Jack Hayes indefinitely and that of Capt. Joe Judge when southpaws pitch against the Nats, are not the only ones being made in Acting Manager Clyde Milan's efforts to make the Nationals develop winning habits, for, via the grapevine route, it has been learned that Irving Hadley has been told that he no longer may consider himself as a starting pitcher.

Hadley's inability to last more than four or five innings has convinced Milan, it is learned, that the big Lynn boy has not worked himself into the best physical condition and it is reported that he has been told that his only chance of getting in any games until he works himself into his best pitching form is in relief roles.

Hadley is a big, heavily built lad, who needs continual work, and who takes on weight fast when idling. As the Nationals have had a number of rest days, due to rain, this pitcher in particular has waxed fat and has been unable to pitch winning ball as a result.

Any plans he might have had toward

M'GONIGLE'S MILE IS FEATURE OF DERBY TRIALS

Speed Shown By Others in Training

Peabody and McLean Entries are Probable Favorites in Race.

LOUISVILLE, KY., May 10 (A.P.).—The best of 'ay's workouts among eligibles for the Kentucky Derby, to be run here May 18, was turned in by McGonigle, owned by C. H. Knebelkamp. McGonigle, working at Douglas Park, zipped off a mile in 1:41 1-5, turning the quarter in 0:25, half in 0:49 4-5, three-quarters in 1:15 2-5.

Clyde Van Dusen covered three eighths in 0:36 1-5. Other ' rks included Ervast, 5 furlongs, in 1:02 3-5; Amsterdam, quarter in 0:24, half in 0:49 3-5, three-quarters in 1:16 3-5, and 8 furlongs in 1:44, driving; Garl Eitel, a mile and an eighth in 1:58 3-5; Hot Shot, three-eighths in 0:39 3-5, breezing; Lord Braedalbane, half in 0:47 2-5, driving, and Deep River, 3 furlongs in 0:35.

Amsterdam, from the Hal Price Headley barn, was sent a mile in 1:44. Lord Braedalbane, Desha Breckinridge's candidate, worked a half in 0:47. A. C. and Jay Van Winkle's colt Deep River turned in a fast three-eighths in 0:35. Karl Eitel, owned by John J. Coughlin, did 1¼ miles in 1:58 3-5. Hot Shot went 3 furlongs in 0:39 3-5.

Although candidates for the Kentucky Derby went through their usual workouts, interest in the racing colony here was centered on the opening tomorrow of the spring race meeting at Churchill Downs and on the Clark Handicap, feature of the opening-day card.

The Clark is for 3-year-olds and up, $10,000 added, and is contested over the 1¼-mile route. Fourteen racers have been named.

Probably the outstanding favorite is the Stuyvesant Peabody entry of Martie Flynn and Flat Iron. The McLean stable's pair, Toro and Jock, also are coming in for a lot of favor. The other entries are the Le Mar Stock Farm's Canaan, L. B. Combs' Broadsides, Kenton Farm Stable's Typhoon, R. F. Lechleiter's Cartago, H. P. Headley's Paraphrase, Mrs. E. L. Swikard's Chip and Duellist, Audley Farm Stable's Easter Stockings, J. W. Parrish's Percentage, and Mrs. E. L. Denemark's Blackwood.

Georgetown Golf Team Routs Holy Cross, 8-1

New Haven, Conn., May 10.—Georgetown's strong golf team trampled the mashie wielders of Holy Cross, 8 to 1, here today in one of the first matches in the newly formed Intercollegiate Golf League. Led by Maurice McCarthy, intercollegiate champion, the swingers from the banks of the Potomac outclassed the Crusaders in all but one individual duel. Earls, of Holy Cross, downed Manning, of Georgetown.

TWOSOMES.—McCarthy (Georgetown), defeated Lee, 6 up and 5; Flanagan (Georgetown), defeated O'Neil, 1 up; Wilson (Georgetown), defeated Kelly, 5 up and 4; Beger (Georgetown), defeated Baxter, 1 up; Foley (Georgetown), defeated Whelan, 8 up and 6; Earls (Holy Cross), defeated Manning, up and 2.

FOURSOMES.—McCarthy and Flanagan (Georgetown), defeated Lee and O'Neil, 4 up and 3; Wilson and Beger (Georgetown), defeated Kelly and Baxter, 7 up and 1; Foley and Manning (Georgetown), defeated Whelan and Earls, 5 up and 4.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DOCTOR FREELAND, $9.70, $5.60, $6.10; MINOTAUR, $11.40, $8.30; AFRICAN, $6.10.

DOCTOR FREELAND, away in good fashion and racing within striking distance of the leaders, responded courageously for the final issue, was bothered during the final half mile, but luckily fought his way clear and, closing stoutly, wore MINOTAUR down to win going away. MINOTAUR, outrun for seven furlongs, made up ground rapidly, moved into the lead at the furlong pole, but was not good enough to stall off the winner. AFRICAN, a slow beginner, closed a big gap after circling his field. THE NUT met with trouble in the early running. He finished gamely on the inside. BEACON HILL, away slowly, was made too much of to reach the leaders and he weakened in the final drive. FOLKING raced well. ESSARE could not keep up. LEUCITE tired. SOUL OF HONOR quit. HERMITAGE stopped suddenly.

JIMMY MORAN LOOKS FULL OF RUN TO VACANT.

FIRST RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 2:32. Off at 2:33. Winner, E. K. Bryson's ch. c. (2), by Lucky Hour—Memento. Trained by G. R. Bryson. Value to winner, $900; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:01 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JIMMY MORAN, $10.00, $4.20, $3.20; VACANT, $3.50, $2.90; ICICLE, $6.60.

JIMMY MORAN, away quickly, followed at the heels of VACANT, displaced the latter turning out of the back stretch, went into a winning lead and was never endangered through the final stages. VACANT, hard ridden was placed to punishment, but was not good enough. ICICLE finished gamely and outlasted REGULAR BROOM. GOLD CORD, unprepared for the start, went into the air when the break came. SKIRT was caught in a jam at the half mile mark and unseated her rider.

PATRONESS SHOWS ST. PRISCA THE WAY IN SECOND.

SECOND RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:05. Off at 3:07. Winner, Raccoon Stable's ch. f. (2), Lucullite—Gratuity. Trained by J. Lowe. Value to winner, $900; second, $304; third, $186. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 1-5, 0:54 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PATRONESS, $5.50, $3.50, $2.50; ST. PRISCA, $5.90, $3.20; LOST AGNES, 2.30.

PATRONESS, outrun for the first three furlongs, gained stoutly under pressure while saving ground, came between the leaders at the final furlong pole and finishing in bold fashion, was up right at end. ST. PRISCA, away well, lost ground on the turn, but continued with good courage and fought it out stubbornly. LOST AGNES broke sluggishly, possessed keen speed to take command, was inclined to bear out entering the home stretch, but was straightened out and held on grimly. MARTIE was never a factor. LADY TRYSTER tired. MY SCOOP raced green.

EUPHRATES DISPLAYS LONG NOSE TO DRAWING BOARD.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good and fast. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 3:40. Off at 3:41. Winner, C. R. Fleischmann's ch. g. (5), by Sardanapale—Lisette IX. Trained by T. Burnham. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24 1-5, 0:49, 1:14 2-5, 1:42, 1:49 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—EUPHRATES, $13.20, $5.40, $3.20; DRAWING BOARD, $6.70, $3.60; TIFFIN, $2.60.

EUPHRATES, allowed to settle in his stride while trailing far back in the early running, moved up fast when called on, came to the outside for the final issue and, finishing in faultless fashion, managed to get up in the concluding strides. DRAWING BOARD hurried to the front, was raced along while racing wide, TAKE YOUR TIME, disposed of the latter and held on determinedly. TIFFIN raced forwardly, was put to a drive, but was unable to menace the leaders. TAKE YOUR TIME weakened the last quarter mile. SANTORIO had early speed. MIMIC raced wide.

BARON KING WINS FIFTH STRAIGHT IN FIFTH.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300, The Howard. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:08. Off at 5:09. Winner, Samuel Ross' ch. c. (3), by High Time—Amanuensis. Trained by Woods Garth. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48, 1:14.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BARON KING, $3.30, $2.80, $2.30; EQUATION, $3.80, $2.90; WATER LAD, $4.40.

BARON KING moved into a short lead the fifth furlong, was rated along until approaching the main stretch, shook off bold contention from EQUATION and drew out cleverly when taken up at the final furlong pole. EQUATION began quickly, forced a good pace for five furlongs and was unable to keep pace thereafter. WATER LAD saved ground from the start and finished well. SUN HATTER made up some ground the last half mile. COIN COLLECTOR raced well up early, but tired and may have been short.

CORPORAL ON RAIL GALLOPS BRAVELY HOME IN SIXTH.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good and fast. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:42. Off at 5:43. Winner, R. L. Freeman's b. c. (4), by George Smith—Coretta. Trained by E. Trueman. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $200. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49 2-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:42, 1:45 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CORPORAL, $5.00, $3.10, $2.70; WAR HAWK, $4.80, $4.40; DOWAGIAC, $8.70.

CORPORAL, outrun for six furlongs, saved ground at the far turn, finished in resolute fashion and, under severe urging, was up in the last strides. WAR HAWK, poorly handled, was on the outside from the beginning, was severely punished all the last half mile and, with more intelligent handling, would probably have been winner. DOWAGIAC raced well placed, was put to a drive and closed gamely. BANTON broke fully in motion, went into a good lead, saved ground, but weakened the last quarter mile. FAIR BETH tired suddenly after racing well up. The others were outrun.

KEYDET BEATS BLUE DARTER IN FINAL NUMBER.

SEVENTH RACE—One and three-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place easily. Went to post at 6:21. Off at 6:24. Winner, J. F. Adams' ch. g. (5), by Foreground—Lasulete. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $900; second, $331; third, $204. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:50, 1:15 2-5, 1:42, 2:02 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—KEYDET, $10.30, $3.80, $2.80; BLUE DARTER, $2.90, $2.40.

KEYDET raced well in hand and followed in nearest pursuit of BLUE DARTER, drew to the latter with good speed approaching the stretch turn, assumed a brief lead and continued resolutely to the end. BLUE DARTER went into an easy lead, was rated along, was shaken up and held on willingly. LETTER SIX, close up, made repeated efforts and passed tiring horses. MARAT was unable to threaten the leaders. FOREHEAD weakened badly.

GETTYSBURG BOWS, 6-5, TO G. U.

Leary, Sub Infielder, Is Star in Role of Moundsman.

ED LEARY, sophomore substitute infielder, turned pitcher yesterday for the Georgetown University Nine and straight-away turned in a victory, the Hilltoppers gaining a 6-to-5 decision over Gettysburg College in eleven innings.

Leary, who had adorned the bench for the past three weeks following a period of relief duty at third base in place of Walter Morris, who was injured, not only twirled a creditable game but checked in with two hits, one of which was a homer into the woods in deep center field which tied the score at 5-5 in the eighth inning. He yielded the Pennsylvanians ten hits and walked four but a performance of that kind was considered nothing less than remarkable by his teammates in view of his inexperience as a hurler.

The winning run came unexpectedly in the second extra inning when, with two out, Pitcher Utz flung a fourth ball wildly past Johnny Dunn, permitting the G. U. shortstop to go to second. Johnny Scalzi, second baseman and clean-up batter, then punched a single to right, chasing Dunn over the plate with No. 6 and the verdict.

French High Commission Cup to Maj. Hinemon

Maj. J. H. Hinemon, U. S. A., yesterday won the French High Commission cup at the conclusion of the golf tournament, which has been in progress during the week at the Chevy Chase Club. His opponent was Dr. W. B. Mason, whose handicap is 12 as against Maj. Hinemon's 18, but the latter had little occasion to take advantage of the strokes allowed him. He was 6 up on Dr. Mason at the turn and won easily, 6 up and 5 to play.

LEADERS UNCHANGED AS BOWLING TOURNEY CLOSES

Harrison Gets All-Event Trophy

Leads With 1,128 Set, Shares Doubles Prize With Rosenberg.

Dixon's 1,100 is Best All-Events Score In Class B.

THE Washington City Duckpin Association's nineteenth annual tournament was brought to a close at the Coliseum last night without an outstanding feature on the final night. The last of the postponed sets were disposed of and none of the contestants finished among the prize winners.

Paul Harrison, who, with Max Rosenberg, won the class A doubles, remained the all-events leader in class A with an 1,128 total. Harry B. Dixon is the class B all-events champion, having collected 1,100 pins in nine games.

TECH DOWNS WESTERN, 11 TO 6

Gorman Clinches Victory With Homer, 2 on Base.

By GARRETT WATERS.

WITH Ben Spigel pitching steadily, despite being hit rather freely, the Tech Nine advanced one more notch toward the high school series baseball championship yesterday by defeating Western, 11 to 6, at the Eastern Stadium. The game was the last appearance for Western in the series. Tech has only to meet and defeat Eastern for the coveted title now, this to be definitely decided next Friday when the two teams clash.

Spigel got better as he went along in turning in his second series triumph. He was hit freely in the early innings and for a time looked to be in for a trouncing, so consistently did Western make runs. He finished with plenty to spare, however, after his teammates gave him the lead.

Western suprised by starting George Fletcher on the mound. Coach Ahearn's flinger hurt his foot in practice Thursday, but pluckily asked to be allowed to pitch as it was to be his last appearance on the mound for his team. He hurled a fair game, even though he lost.

Spigel Helped to Win Own Game With Three Hits.

Spigel's bat helped in winning the game for Tech. The pitcher smacked out three hits in five times at bat, while Gorman, Drissel and Heflin also did some heavy hitting. Gorman hit a home run in the ninth, with two on base, to sew up the game. It was Willis Benner, though who should be given a great deal of credit, as his timely single with the bases full broke up a tie score in the seventh inning, and put Tech into the lead, never to be headed. His single scored two runs.

getting busy on the running track or in the bull-pen have been temporarily postponed because of a foot injury which Hadley suffered while pitching to batters in practice before today's game. Bennie Tate did the damage, lining out a liner which caught the pitcher on top of his right foot. The injury is not serious, but the foot has become sore and swollen and will prevent hard work for a day or so.

Bobby Burke will be promoted to Hadley's place as a regular starter and may be given the mound assignment against the White Sox here tomorrow, as he beat them in one start last season and was particularly effective on some other occasions while filling relief roles.

The Return Of OLD KING BRADY

(Copyright Protected. Reproduction in Whole or in Part Prohibited.)

In chapter VI Old King Brady and his party are escorted into Death Valley by a half-breed, Luke, arriving just in time to see Grayball shot by the outlaws. Capt. Thunderbolt and his gang had arrived by a different route. They found Charley Carter convalescing. Young King Brady's identity is discovered and he is in a serious predicament.

DARING WORK IN DEATH VALLEY.

CHAPTER VII.

Young King Brady Gets Into a Serious Hole.

AND so it came about that while Young King Brady found himself at one end of Death Valley, Old King Brady with his little force of miners and mill men were at the other. Old King Brady came on the scene just in time to see Harry in a desperate situation, and realized that action was needed—immediate and certain. But let us go back and see what Young King Brady had been doing to get into such a hole.

Young King Brady's reception at the outlaw camp was pleasant enough. Not by a word or look were his suspicions aroused that he might be in any danger. So far as the gang was concerned he was probably safe enough, for Capt. Thunderbolt confided in no one.

As Harry and Dan dismounted Dick Wright came forward to meet them. Of course Dan McNutt had to answer all sorts of questions about the unsuccessful attack on Burton Mills. And not until after he was satisfied did Harry get a chance to inquire about Charley Carter.

"He's all right," said Dick. "He's coming along fine. His wound don't amount to much. What about this fellow Downs?"

"My orders were not to say anything about him," replied Harry firmly.

"Oh, well, if they were orders you got to stand by them, but it's strange just the same," said Dick. "That fellow came to us with a letter from Downs, of the Burton Mills, stating that he was a brother of his and had a proposition to put to us, that was to turn over the mills and the bullion to us. I never understood it at all."

"I can't explain to you," said Harry.

"Yes, and don't you tell if you want to live," said Dick emphatically. "Cap is all right if you rub him the right way but if you don't—but never mind! Come along and see the kid."

"How differently everything has gone from what we expected!" thought Young King Brady, as he followed Dick Wright. "I wonder how it will all end?"

Charley Carter was found lying on a cheap cot. He was overjoyed to see Harry and anxious to know all that had happened.

Some time later they heard loud shouts and the clatter of horses outside. Capt. Thunderbolt had arrived. At the next instant the door of the hut opened and the captain came striding in.

"Well, Baxter, how is the boy?" he exclaimed.

"Doing fine!" replied Harry. "Did you succeed in your second attack on Burton Mills?"

"Succeed nothing. They turned the hose on us," he growled. "But there is one thing I did succeed in, young man, and that is, in proving you a most beautiful liar. Now, I haven't a doubt you are Young King Brady for I saw Old King Brady at the window upstairs over the office of Burton Mills with my own eyes."

Harry caught his breath. It was a perilous moment. He hesitated, for the life of him he could not decide what to say. "There is but one thing for me to do, and that is to own up," he thought, so he said quietly, "I admit I am Young King Brady, but just the same I have tried to be true to you and to this boy."

"Indeed!" said the outlaw chief. "I never doubted that you were the detective. What brought you to Wyoming, anyway?"

"It was for the sake of the boy. I happened to know that the boy was your nephew and also I knew about Elisha Sniffin's will."

"What!" cried Charley, sitting up on his cot and looking at Capt. Thunderbolt. "You are my uncle, then!"

"I am," replied Captain Thunderbolt. "You are my sister's son, and have nothing to fear from me. Lie down and keep quiet. Brady, follow me."

Harry walked out of the hut with a sinking heart.

The situation did not look any more cheerful when he saw Lawyer Grayball with his hands tied behind him standing against a tree, while the outlaws stood around with grim faces.

"Boys," said Capt. Thunderbolt. "A change has come over our plans. I have determined to abandon Death Valley for good and all. Hitch up and we will make a quick start. Make the wounded boy comfortable in one of the wagons. Now, Brady, make yourself easy. I have decided to let up on you, seeing that you have done me no harm."

Immensely relieved, Harry hung around and watched the preparations for the departure.

Noboby spoke to him. Capt. Thunderbolt disappeared inside one of the huts and it was two hours before he came out again, accompanied by Sophie.

Harry Gets a Surprise.

Harry thought Capt .Thunderbolt took Sophie's refusal very quietly, for the outlaw chief turned away and joined his men.

The girl was pacing up and down before the hut, when suddenly she was pounced upon by Dick Wright and Dan McNutt, who had sneaked up behind her. In spite of her screams and appeals to Capt. Thunderbolt she was dragged toward him, kicking and struggling as she came.

"Tie her up! Throw her into the wagon!" he ordered. "I'll tame her or kill her, one of the two."

Harry's blood fairly boiled at this outrage.

Grayball all this time had kept his place against the tree.

Capt. Thunderbolt now walked up to Harry and extended his hand. "Shake, Brady," he said. "Do you know I admire you. I never knew a fellow with such nerve."

Harry laughed and took the extended hand. A grip of iron closed upon him and he was jerked forward, kicked in the stomach and went sprawling on the ground.

"You blamed spy!" roared Capt. Thunderbolt. "You will come out and hunt me down, will you? Tie him up, boys! We'll shoot him with the other one before we start!"

And so Young King Brady found himself standing beside J. Steel Grayball by the tree.

The outlaws had placed themselves in a semicircle. Capt. Thunderbolt, rifle in hand, stood before the band. "This is my job!" he cried. "Spies I never tolerate. Here goes one!" He threw up his rifle and fired at the lawyer; the bullet did its fatal work.

"And here goes the other one," said Capt. Thunderbolt, after a brief delay, during which he looked fixedly at Harry.

Even as the rifle cracked Young King Brady fell forward on his face.

"Two out!" sneered Capt. Thunderbolt, turning away. The words were scarcely spoken when Dick Wright yelled, "Look! Look! an attack! Great guns! The valley is full of men."

All hands threw themselves into the saddle. As they dashed down the valley Old King Brady and his men advanced.

"They have killed my young partner, boys; spare none of them!" cried Old King Brady. "Fire when I give the word." It came in a few seconds.

Yells, shots, wild cries and fierce imprecations burst upon the air. It was all over in a minute. Skilled at the rifle as the outlaws were, the mill men were equally so.

The outlaws had retreated far beyond the huts and now they disappeared among the rocks.

"Don't follow them up, boys," cried Old King Brady. "As long as they keep their distance that is all we care for."

Downs made a dash for the wagon and in a minute had the girl Sophie on the saddle in front of him.

Meanwhile, Old King Brady's mind experienced a great relief. As he looked at Harry he saw him alive and kicking. Running toward him at top speed, the old detective gasped out, "My dear boy! I thought you were gone that time."

"Don't say a word, governor; I did your old turn that time. The instant that fiend's hand went on the trigger I threw myself flat on my face. Well, it saved me. Have you got him?"

"Death has got him, Harry. Capt. Thunderbolt will plague Wyoming no more."

"And once more we win out!" cried Harry.

"When we get to the hut I'll order a halt. You don't want to be found when we start again." Old King Brady whispered these words in the ear of Supt. Downs.

The man nodded, but made no answer.

The start was now made and the big wagons were being drawn toward the secret entrance to Death Valley. They entered the little canyon and reached the tunnel. The secret door stood open at the end and the way was clear.

There was no one to be seen, but as they halted they saw a man scrambling over the rocks above them who instantly disappeared.

"Look out, there!" shouted Old King Brady. "There's mischief afoot. Hurry the wagons through and get out yourselves as fast as you can."

Old Mose, who was driving the first wagon lashed his horses into a run, and the others followed with all speed. Just what happened was never known, but Old King Brady, as well as the others, saw the rocks come tumbling down, crashing against the secret door and burying it.

"It is the outlaws' last throw," declared the old detective. "No doubt they left that fellow behind them to light the fuse which connected with that dynamite, for the explosion could have been caused by nothing else.

"And that's the last of Death Valley," declared Old King Brady. "Grayball's body will have to stop where it is."

The halt at the Mink Hut was duly made and Luke got his other twenty. When they started again Downs and Sophie had disappeared. The party went ahead and deposited the bullion at Burton Mills, and the Bradys, with Charley Carter, made tracks for New York, via Rawlins and Cheyenne.

At Rawlins the Bradys reported to the mill people, who later on rewarded them handsomely.

At Cheyenne they interviewed the governor, and the promised reward for Capt. Thunderbolt, alive or proofs of his death, was paid over. Old King Brady had taken care to bring with him the affidavits of several of the mill men that the outlaw was actually dead.

And now Charley Carter was informed of the great good fortune in store for him. The Sniffin estate amounted to several millions and this vast sum the poor ranch boy eventually came into possession of. He handled himself in a very proper fashion, and took to his wealth as though he had been used to it all his life.

The court appointed a guardian, and at Charley's request Old King Brady was the man. The boy was placed in a good school and went through college afterward. As soon as he came into possession of the estate he handsomely rewarded the Bradys for all they had done for him.

Next week the Bradys and the associate, Miss Alice Montgomery, answer a call from the United States Secret Service to go to San Juan Hill. Don't miss it! A thrill in every chapter.

Springs in Rock Creek Held Free of Bacteria

The springs in Rock Creek Park are free of bacterial growth, according to tests recently conducted by the Office of the Public Buildings and Public Parks, it was announced yesterday.

Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of the office, said that no chemicals are being used in the spring. Maj. S. M. Corbett, sanitary inspector, made the tests.

EASIER CALL MONEY STIMULATES BONDS

Investment Issues Benefit the Most by Drop of Funds to 6 Per Cent.

FEDERAL LIST IS FIRMER

New York, May 10 (A.P.).—Another abrupt drop in call money rates from 10 to 6 per cent had a tonic effect upon the bond market as well as stocks today. The revival of bullish confidence stimulated the convertibles particularly into activity at advancing prices. Strictly investment issues, also benefited. Although time money remained stiff, the easier demand rates halted price recessions of the past week and imparted to the market a firm undertone.

Still dominant in the trading, the semispeculative convertibles were in strong demand from the opening gong. Some of them failed to maintain their early pace but virtually all the stock privilege issues figuring in the broad trading finished with gains. International Telephone 4½s following the voting of rights to stockholders, again were the feature of the convertible group, closing up more than a point on a turnover of $857,000 par value.

More than a score of issues with stock features firmed with the advance in stocks. The more active were Alleghany Corporation 5s, American I. C. Chemical 5½s, American Telephone 4½s, American International 5½s, St. Paul adjustment 5s, Missouri Pacific 5½s and Chesapeake Corporation 5s.

The upturn was shared by such better grade rails as Atchison general 4s, Atchison C. & A. 4½s, which advanced more than a point to a new high, Baltimore & Ohio 4s, Pennsylvania 4s, 1931, Southern general 4s and Union Pacific 4s. Junior rails made less progress. Texas & Pacific 5s, a recently listed issue, dipped another fraction to a new low at 97⅜. Renewed speculative activity in Seaboard Airlines on expectations of a recapitalization announcement carried the adjustment 5s up 3 points.

Traction and Cuban Sugar issues were weak. Camaguay Sugar 7s sagged to a new low for the year. Cuban-American Sugar 8s moved within a fraction of their low. Selling affected the sugars on announcement of the proposed higher tariff. Among the tractions, Interborough refunding 5s reached a new low, as did Utah Light & Traction 5s.

United States Government issues firmed with the easement in money. So did foreign issues, particularly South American loans. With the reparations conference still shrouded in uncertainty, German obligations for the most part continued soft.

PARENT-TEACHERS' OBJECTIVES CITED AT FINAL MEETING

Resolutions Reaffirm Stand on Prohibition and Indorse Kellogg Peace Pact.

ADDRESS IS DELIVERED BY INTERIOR SECRETARY

Better Homes Urged to Save Youth, Which Also Gets Clean Bill of Health.

Responsibility for the future of the Nation was placed squarely upon mothers in an address last night by Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, before the final general meeting of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers at the Washington Hotel.

"We can only hold our democracy together if we have a contributing, responsible, educated, obedient, loyal and interested citizenship," Dr. Wilbur declared. "The home as we know it in America is the base of such citizenship. Such citizenship is basic to the permanence of the Government.

"The mother is basic in such a home. In other words, in this great republic we must depend upon the American mother and the home which she maintains for her children if we are to have permanence and security."

Secretary Wilbur pointed out that children given responsibilities early in life usually make the best citizens. He added: "We can not expect children to be trained for good citizenship by elimination of unpleasant duties and drudgery. Every boy needs what I would call door-mat training, to get clearly in his mind that mud belongs in the yard, not in the home."

Resolutions Cite Objects.

Faith in the American home and school was expressed in resolutions adopted at the closing session of the Parent-Teacher Convention. Adoption of a platform containing seven cardinal objectives of education featured the meeting. The platform stands for health, worthy home membership, mastery of tools, vocational and economic effectiveness, faithful citizenship, wise use of leisure and ethical character.

The congress went on record commending Federal, State and local health activities, indorsed its previous stand on narcotic education, to prevent use of tobacco, alcohol and drugs by children, and deplored hasty marriage and easy divorce. More use of radio in schoolrooms was urged, while the press was requested to give less prominence to details of crime and divorce.

Members voted to reaffirm their stand for the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act, while indorsement was given the Kellogg peace pact. Vigorous leadership to secure reduction of armaments was urged. Cleaner and better motion pictures were advocated. Use of children on the stage was opposed.

Youth of Nation Defended.

Dr. Ernest E. Groves, professor of sociology of the University of North Carolina, gave modern youth a clean bill of health, absolved it from responsibility for lawlessness in American life, indiscriminate "petting," abue of the prohibition law and influences ending in marriage failures and divorce. He placed responsibility for these national problems on the parents and teachers and asserted that the chief requirement of the youth of today is to be "let alone."

More than 200,000 children are being kept in their own homes through the mothers' aid pensions, Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau, United States Department of Labor, told the delegates.

A trip to Washington Cathedral occupied the visitors following the afternoon session yesterday. They were shown through the bishop's garden and the crypt chapels of the cathedral. In Bethlehem Chapel they were addressed by the Rev. Arthur B. Rudd, canon of the cathedral.

Paul Wooton was the principal speaker at a publicity dinner last night, attended by many newspaper men and women.

While most of the delegates left for their homes last night, a few remained in Washington. Meetings of the national board of managers and the national executive committee are scheduled today in the Hotel Washington.

STUDENTS MAKE DRESSES

Street, afternoon, sports and evening dresses which the exhibitors themselves had designed and made were displayed by students of clothing and art yesterday at the fourth annual fashion show in the chapel hall at Gallaudet College.

A feature of the program was the rendition in the sign language of Kipling's "Recessional" by Miss Velma Brassell, who is said to be one of the most accomplished sign speakers on the campus of the national institution for the deaf. Miss Elizabeth Peet, dean of women, read the "Recessional" orally as Miss Brassell recited it by signs.

Miss Brassell read Kipling's poem out of courtesy to Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Barnes, of England, who are guests of Dr. Percival Hall, president of Gallaudet. Mr. Barnes, an internationally known educator, is connected with the British College of Teachers for the Deaf.

Several dancing numbers were included in the show, the dancers keeping time to the music without hearing it. Those taking part in the dancing numbers were the Misses M. Rose, K. Buster, L. Butler and I. Hanson. Other mannikins were the Misses G. Davis, R. Fish, E. Krumm, A. Kaylor, M. Bolton, B. Shockley, J. Beesley, M. McKellar, L. Bowyer, M. Caponigro, V. Brassell, M. DuBose, A. Campbell, D. Kittleson, L. Roberts. Dresses worn in the show were made under the direction of Miss Hazel Thompson, instructor of clothing and art.

Ghandi in Saddle In India, Is Claim

Congressional Club Speaker Defends Book Written by Katherine Mayo.

Ghandi controls the situation in India today and threatens to reinaugurate the boycott on British goods and nonpayment of taxes unless India is given the status of a dominion, Mrs. William F. McKnight, of Grand Rapids, Mich., told the members of the Congressional Club yesterday. Mrs. McKnight spoke on "Mother India in Pictures," her address being illustrated.

Mrs. McKnight discussed Katherine Mayo's book, "Mother India," and declared she believed the authoress gave first-hand information without fear or favor. She pointed out that Miss Mayo had seen India in relation to health and sanitation and had kept closely to her subject in her book.

The lecturer discussed the recent bomb outrages in India and said that the British government blamed Russian communists for inciting the rebels. She stated that India made a mistake in insisting on the grant of dominion status at an early date, and asserted that if British rule is withdrawn from India the different racial and religious groups will destroy one another. She stated emphatically that because of religious and social antipathies India is not ready for home rule.

Dry Group Sends $50 to Policeman

Howard Declares Check Is to Repay Rouse for Cost of His Bond.

The National United Committee for Law Enforcement, of which Clinton N. Howard is chairman, yesterday sent a check for $50 to Policeman Clyde O. Rouse, Eleventh Precinct, who shot and killed Ottmer Fleming during a smoke-screen chase. The check, according to a letter which accompanied it, was to pay the cost of the bond executed for Rouse's release pending hearing. Rouse was cleared of any fault by the grand jury.

"The deliverance of the grand jury is a new charter of liberty for the Police Department of Washington and a fitting rebuke for those members of Congress who sought to make a martyr of the unfortunate victim of his own folly in attempting to smoke screen the guardians of the law and the Constitution of his country," said Howard in his letter to Rouse.

Howard quoted President Hoover in his letter, saying that the grand jury's action is in harmony with the President's address to the Associated Press, in which he said "instead of the glamour and romance of heroism which our American imaginative minds too frequently throw around those who break the law, we would invest with a little romance and heroism those of our officers who are endeavoring to enforce the law, it would itself decrease crime."

Trinidad Citizens Plan To Protest Tax Levies

The Trinidad Citizens Association at a meeting last night at the Samuel G. Wheatley School, Twelfth and N streets northeast, appointed a committee to draft a protest against assessments levied for widening and paving Benning road. The protest will be in the form of a petition and will be in behalf of property owners affected. It will be filed with Associate Justice William Hitz on or before next Wednesday, the final date on which protests will be received.

Recommendation was made by the association that street cars in the District be rerouted to achieve the object of a merger of street railway lines without the formality of an actual merger.

A short story by Miss Clara Isabelle Boone was awarded first prize in the civic group competition held to stimulate interest in the Washington bicentennial in 1932. Miss Alpharetta Smith won the two other prizes in this contest with two poems.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. E. Richard Gasch as president, with the prizes being presented on the occasion by Mrs. Turin Boone and Miss Evelyn Weems.

Wakeen Swor Dies Suddenly.

Wakeen Swor, about 45 years old, an Armenian residing at 1230 C street northeast, died suddenly from heart trouble at 10:15 o'clock last night in his candy shop at 1224 C street northeast. The Fire Rescue Squad responded to the call.

WILBUR SUCCEEDED BY DR. L. F. BARKER

Johns Hopkins Leader Named Head of Veterans' Bureau Medical Council.

HINES ADDRESSES GROUP

Dr. Lewellys F. Barker, of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, yesterday was elected chairman of the medical council, United States Veterans' Bureau, succeeding Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, who resigned. The election was the principal business of a meeting of the council held at the Veterans' Bureau.

Secretary Wilbur presided at the opening session of the council yesterday and then tendered his resignation. He has been chairman of the council since its organization.

Frank T. Hines, director of the Veterans' Bureau, and Dr. E. O. Crossman, medical director of the bureau, were among the speakers. Director Hines requested the council for advice as to the ratio of personnel to patients in hospitals.

Members of the group were received at the White House by President Hoover shortly after noon.

Dr. Barker, the chairman, is a prominent figure in medical circles. He belongs to several medical societies and is professor emeritus of medicine at Johns Hopkins and visiting physician at the university's hospital. He is chairman of the advisory board of the Federal Industrial Institution for Women at Alderson, W. Va.

Wife Slayer Given 25 Years in Prison

George Bongers, Who Shot Mate in Judiciary Square, Pleads Guilty.

A sentence of 25 years imprisonment was imposed yesterday on George Bongers, who pleaded guilty to second-degree murder of his wife, Mrs Eva Iola Bongers, by Justice Frederick L. Siddons in criminal branch of the District Supreme Court. Bongers was indicted for first-degree murder, but was permitted to plead guilty to the lesser charge.

Bongers shot and killed his wife in Judiciary Square last October 5. The couple were estranged and the shooting occurred when Mrs. Bongers refused to permit her husband to return and live with her and their children.

After shooting his wife, Bongers turned the weapon on himself. He was in a hospital for several weeks in a critical condition. The prosecution was represented in the case by Attorney Joseph V. Connolly, while the defendant's counsel was Edward F Mitchell.

Typists and Soda Clerks Keep Library Books Active

Association Delegates Find Taxi Drivers and Telephone Girls Have Large Appetites for Better-Class Volumes Covering Wide Range of Technical Topics.

Bill Jones and Mary Smith, composites of the vast legions of stenographers, taxi drivers, soda clerks, telephone girls and their time clock and pay-envelope comrades, gradually have supplanted the more affluent business and professional man and woman at the shelves of the Nation's public libraries.

And, strange to relate, this immense new army of registered readers burns the proverbial midnight oil over the Greek classics, gems of literature and the mounting array of works on every phase of business, travel, psychology, poetry, etiquette, biography and the like.

It's the renaissance of Mr. Average Reader, and the transformation is still in progress.

So say the best-informed on this subject from virtually every State in the Union in attendance at the Adult Education Institute of the American Library Association, which opened a two-day session yesterday at Carnegie Library, prior to the four-day annual convention of the association beginning Monday.

The tendency during the past year has been strongly toward the cultural by the masses, the librarians agreed in their informal, round-table talks of the institute. The practical also has gained in popularity. The reader, they point out, now seeks to improve himself in every manner possible through good, constructive reading that may aid in opening the gates to a better job, increased salary and higher standards of living.

The "highbrow stuff" isn't highbrow any longer. The old favorites of literature have become the well-thumbed volumes, the "good English" texts are eagerly sought for, and virtually every book that has even an indirect reference to a particular trade or craft or line of work is readily borrowed for home reading by representatives of that paticular line of activity.

In line with a movement undertaken by the American Library Association five years ago, the librarians have under consideration at the institute gatherings the program for extending adult education. The principal aim is to guide readers in a carefully prepared schedule of reading, rather than for libraries to function as merely a clearing house for books.

The up-to-the-minute librarian, under the program they are seeking to further at this session, now seeks to learn the taste of the reader, and then prescribe possibly several elementary books on the subject before launching the reader into the "Reading With a Purpose" series. Forty-five subjects, covering a wide range from radio, aviation and electricity to public speaking, evolution, business letters and philosphy among others, have been covered. The association now is publishing monthly, under a schedule designed for the next four years, pamphlets outlining suggested reading on numerous other subjects.

Brevity, simplicity, vitality and non-technical treatment are considered principal in the selection of readable books.

Discussion at the institute yesterday was led by Judson T. Jennings, of Seattle, Wash. and Charles H. Compton, of St. Louis, Mo., while the program today lists Francis K. W. Drury, of the American Library Association, Chicago, for the morning session and Douglas Waples, of the University of Chicago, for the afternoon.

BROOKHART BEGINS FIGHT FOR REALTY FINANCING INQUIRY

CAPITAL PRESTIGE HELD DAMAGED BY PRACTICES

Avers Proffers of Mortgages Are Not as Claimed in Prospectuses.

A memorandum containing "evidence" is being prepared by Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart (Republican), of Iowa, and will be used by him to reinforce his resolution asking for a financing operations here.

The Iowa senator offered his resolution yesterday, and it was immediately referred to the Senate judiciary committee. Senator Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, the chairman, said the senatorial investigation of real estate measure would be considered at a meeting Monday morning.

Brookhart said yesterday that the memorandum which he is preparing and which will be presented in a few days will contain a list of actual transactions involving the F. H. Smith Co.

In his resolution, Brookhart asked that the judiciary committee or a subcommittee thereof be authorized to "make a full and complete investigation of the activities of the real estate and finance corporations of the District of Columbia, with respect to general mortgage bonds, first and refunding mortgage bonds and general mortgage bonds upon properties in the District of Columbia and elsewhere."

F. H. Smith Co. Named.

While there is no mention of the F. H. Smith Co. in this enacting clause, Brookhart made no secret of the fact that it was this firm at which his resolution was aimed. In fact, this is the only firm which is mentioned in the resolution. It is accused of "irregular practices" and the "pyramiding" of values to secure excessive loans.

Brookhart said yesterday that the presentation of his resolution was the climax of a secret investigation that has been going on for three months. He was moved to action, he said, when two of his constituents in Iowa, a farmer and a woman, complained that they had paid $700 for two mortgage refunding bonds that turned out to be worthless.

In Brookhart's resolution appear the following "whereas" statements:

"Many millions of dollars of real estate mortgage notes and bonds have been sold throughout the United States for a period of many years by real estate and finance operators in the District of Columbia, through the medium of alluring advertisements in magazines and newspapers for which many hundreds of thousands of dollars have been expended.

Capital Prestige Held Injured.

"By reason of the fact that the City of Washington is the Capital of the Nation, it is of the most vital interest to all sections of the country to know whether or not the sales of real estate bonds and mortgage notes by real estate and finance operators in the City of Washington are honest and conservative and free from fraud and misrepresentations.

"It has been alleged that the Commonwealth Finance Corporation of the City and State of New York, with many millions of stockholders, has been defrauded of more than $5,000,000 of its assets by reason of fraudulent misrepresentations as to real estate values in the District of Columbia.

"It has been alleged that some of the real estate and finance operators in the District of Columbia, and particularly the F. H. Smith Co., and its subsidiaries, have been debarred from selling bonds sponsored by them in the States of Pennsylvania and Ohio, and that the said F. H. Smith Co. has been denied membership in the Real Estate Board of the District of Columbia because of irregular practices consisting of pyramiding of values for the purpose of securing excessive loans, of having irregular and excessive appraisals made by favored and partial agents, and of publishing or causing to be published advertisements intended to deceive the public as to the real value of the properties securing said mortgage notes or bonds.

"Not First Liens, as Claimed."

"It has been alleged that many of the bonds sold through the mails by virtue of newspaper and magazine advertisements by said F. H. Smith Co., or its subsidiaries, are not first mortgage bonds, as claimed, but merely so-called first and refunding bonds.

"It is alleged that in many cases where such first and refunding mortgage bonds have been issued the pre-existing first mortgage remains an outstanding liability to the full extent of said original issue and that the purchasers of the said so-called first and refunding mortgage bonds have bought said bonds believing that they were first mortgage bonds on real estate.

"It is alleged that in many cases the said F. H. Smith Co. and its subsidiaries, including certain banks controlled by the officers of the F. H. Smith Co., have not only sold so-called first mortgage bonds and first and refunding mortgage bonds but also general mortgage bonds on various apartment houses in the Cities of Washington, Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Philadelphia under such circumstances as have led the purchasers to believe that such bonds were first mortgages or first-lien bonds, when, in fact, they were second or third liens on said properties.

"Prominent Persons Retained."

"It has been alleged that prominent political and financial personages have been employed or retained by various real estate and finance corporations of the District of Columbia with the result that it has been possible for said corporations to escape the payment of legitimate income and profit taxes upon the excessive and extortionate profits received from the sale of real estate and real estate notes and bonds in the District of Columbia by virtue of advertisements through the United States mails.

"It has been alleged that many thousands of persons in the United States, including men, women and children and trust estates, now hold so-called first and refunding mortgage bonds upon various apartment houses in different parts of the country which have been advertised and sold by the said real estate and finance corporations in the District of Columbia as first mortgage or first lien bonds, when in fact there were outstanding at the time of such sales preexisting liens on the said properties in large amounts, the existence of which was unknown to the purchasers of said first and refunding mortgage bonds."

In the interest of these purchasers and in order that the truth be made known with respect to such transactions, Brookhart asks that his proposed investigation be authorized by the Senate.

G. Bryan Pitts, chairman of the directors' board of the Smith Co., posted $2,500 bail at the District Supreme Court yesterday to insure his appearance for trial of a perjury indictment which was returned against him Thursday by the grand jury.

Pitts was accompanied by his counsel, Wilton J. Lambert. The indictment charged him with falsely testifying before Ralph D. Quinter, bankruptcy referee, in May, 1926, during bankrupt hearings of the Hamilton Hotel Corporation. Pitts, according to the accusation, declared the Smith Co. was not connected with the hotel corporation, but the indictment declares that he knew the investment firm obtained a bonus for floating a loan for the hotel concern.

The defendant, in a statement shortly after the indictment was returned, denied that he made the alleged false statements. His bail was signed by Philip J. Viehman, manager of the Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co., of Hartford, Conn.

MOTHER'S DAY SALE AIDS VETERANS

GIBSON AND POLICE OFFICIALS CONFER

Representative May Propose English Methods for District Force.

FULL PROGRAM WITHHELD

Needs of the District Police Department were discussed at a conference in the District Building yesterday by Representative Gibson, of Vermont, chairman of the House District subcommittee, and Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, and Inspector William S. Shelby, assistant superintendent of police in charge of the detective bureau.

The conference, it is understood, was a mutual exchange of ideas between the representative and police officials. One of the results will be a program of improvement for the department which Pratt and Shelby believe to be vitally needed if the District police force is to function as they think it should.

No details of the program were revealed after the conference, Gibson declaring that his committee was intent on helpful legislation and was not interested in destructive or captious criticism. His report to the House, Gibson said, would embody the results of careful study of the situation here as well as police methods and equipment in use in other cities both in this country and in Europe. It is understood that Gibson has become quite enthusiastic about police methods and equipment employed in England.

Maj. Pratt and Inspector Shelby are busy preparing a program of improvement for the District Police Department, but this program has not yet been reduced to writing and probably will not be ready for submission to Gibson or the District Commissioners for two or three weeks, it is said. Police officials, meanwhile, will not discuss it.

Representative Gibson indicated that he was in thorough sympathy with at least one of Maj. Pratt's proposals; that is, the establishment of a scientific bureau as a part of the District Police Department.

Former Policeman Admits Robberies

Schenck Pleads Guilty on Two Charges, but Denies Third Indictment.

Guilty pleas to two charges of robbery were made by Frederick A. Schenck, former District policeman, yesterday before Justice Frederick L. Siddons in criminal branch of the District Supreme Court. Schenck pleaded not guilty to a third robbery indictment.

The former policeman admitted that he held up Russell Bennett, night clerk of the fashionable Meridian Mansions, 2400 Sixteenth street northwest, on February 20 and robbed him of $20. At the time, police declared, Bennett told the robber that his employers would believe he had taken the money. Schenck, to accommodate the clerk, is said to have awakened a sleeping bellhop and forced him to witness the crime.

The other robbery, to which Schenck pleaded guilty, occurred across the street from police headquarters. Invading a gasoline station at Fourteenth and D streets northwest on February 18, the former cop admitted he held up Kenny C Van Meter, station manager, and took $10 from him at the point of a pistol. Schenck denied he held up and robbed William Conklin, manager of a Sanitary Grocery store at 1301 Fairmont street northwest on February 12 of $114.65. Schenck was sent to jail to await sentence.

Law and Order Body Plans Mass Meeting

The Citizens Service Association for Law and Order of the District elected officers and complete plans for a mass meeting at the annual meeting of the organization yesterday at the University Club.

The Rev. William S. Abernethy, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, was elected president; Dr. Everett M. Ellison, recording secretary; Horace L. Stephenson, treasurer, and Dr. Thomas B. Jarvis, executive secretary. Bishop James Cannon, jr., and Dr. Loretta E. Gress were elected members of the board of directors.

MOVES TO EXPEDITE JUSTICE CONSIDERED

Law Institute Proposes Optional Waiver of Trial by Jury at Session Here.

NEW POWER FOR JUDGE

Revolutionary changes in the criminal code designed to arrive at a more exact determination of justice and to speed up the machinery of the courts may be adopted by every State in the Union and the District of Columbia within the near future, according to the belief unofficially expressed by several members attending the meeting of the American Law Institute at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday.

The institute of learned men, representing the most brilliant of legal minds, discussed three major points of contemplated changes during the morning session—optional waiver of the defendant of trial by jury; the examination of prospective jurors by or through the presiding judge only, and the equalization of peremptory challenges between the State and the defense.

It is believed that all three of these questions will be acted upon favorably, and, in the event they are, all will be recommended to the Legislatures of all the States and to the Congress for the District of Columbia for adoption into their separate criminal codes.

Blow to Emotional Appeal.

However, the suggestions and discussions must be reported back to the national council of the institute, be incorporated into a tentative draft and be resubmitted to the institute at its meeting next year, when favorable action is said to be a foregone conclusion.

William E. Mikell and Edwin R. Keedy, both of the University of Pennsylvania Law School, are the reporters of this session of the institute.

The optional waiver of trial by jury will result in trying the case on law only and do away with emotional appeal often made by lawyers.

It will obviously eliminate the time necessary in procuring a jury and other time-wasting procedures necessary when a jury is present—such as excusing the jury to argue points of law and such information that should not properly come before the jury.

Would Equalize Challenges.

The number of peremptory challenges shall be equally divided between the State and defense. In most States the defense has the greater number of peremptory challenges, resulting in an advantage on this point of procedure to the defense; some States allow twice as many peremptory challenges to the defense. A recommendation in the discussion would fix the number of sixteen peremptory challenges for each side in capital punishment cases; eight such challenges for each side where the offense charged is a felony but not punishable by death or imprisonment for life; and four challenges each where the offense charged is a misdemeanor. This move too, is calculated to speed the machinery of trials by facilitating the procuring of a jury quickly.

Examination of prospective jurors by and through the judge only will prove of incalculable value in saving time. The judge shall examine each prospective juror, and, if an attorney on either side desires further questioning of the prospective juror, he shall have to make his request to the judge, and if the judge deems it a proper question, he in turn shall put it to the prospective juror.

An experiment by consent of each side was recently conducted and a jury which both sides and the judge believed would require two days to secure under the present procedure, was secured in less than an hour, it was said following the discussion.

One of the underlying principles governing these proposed changes is to strip procedure of as many technicalities as possible, it was said.

3-Year Sentence Given for Forgeries

Former District Worker Accused of Collecting $600 on Refund Checks.

Pleading guilty to two charges of forgery of refund vouchers, Charles Hess Stanley, 32 years old, former clerk in the office of the District highway engineer yesterday was sentenced to serve three years in prison by Justice Frederick L. Siddons in criminal branch of the District Supreme Court.

Stanley was charged with obtaining more than $600 by forging refund vouchers mailed out by the disbursing officer to persons, who had left deposits for construction work and failed to collect refunds from the building inspector's office.

The clerk is said to have taken advantage of persons, who failed to call for refunds after they had been required to post deposits to cover damages to streets and pavements during construction. After the construction, the damages are deducted and refunds are made. Stanley was arrested last October, but was recently indicted. He is married.

ELABORATE SERVICE HERE TOMORROW TO HONOR U.S. MOTHERS

Good to Head High Officials in Exercises at Tomb of Unknown Soldier.

CONGRESSIONAL CLUB, WAR MOTHERS IN LEAD

Other Clubs and Churches to Observe Special Day Appropriately.

Led by James W. Good, Secretary of War, the National Capital tomorrow will celebrate Mother's Day.

Mothers of private citizens, mothers of disabled veterans and mothers of the heroic dead of the Nation will be honored in a series of meetings, concerts and ceremonials, chief of which will be the exercises at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington Cemetery, conducted by the American War Mothers and the Congressional Club.

While sons and daughters of the country's private citizenry are paying tribute to their mothers with flowers, candy, greeting cards and gifts of divers descriptions, American War Mothers from almost every State in the union will be gathered in the Capital for an impressive service dedicated to those mothers whose sons gave their lives in the World War.

High Officials To Participate.

Services in Arlington Cemetery will begin at 3 o'clock tomorrow and will be national in their scope. High ranking Government officials, officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, and leaders of patriotic organizations will be present, not only to pay homage to the mothers of America, but to add one more bit of glory to that of the Unknown Soldier.

Mrs. Clara Sonneman, mother of Hart Sonneman, 19-year-old Washington boy who was killed by machine gun fire at the battle of St. Mihiel, and Mrs. Charles McGroarty, of Falls Church, Va., whose son, Stephen, died in the battle of Belleau Woods, will head the lanes of an aisle of honor formed by War Mothers bearing service flags, gold, silver and blue, through which the dignitaries who will participate in the ceremonies will pass.

These notables, led by Mrs. Thomas Spence, of Milwaukee, president of the American War Mothers, and Mrs. Porter H. Dale, of Vermont, president of the Congressional Club, will place wreaths on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Among the American War Mothers expected to attend is Mrs. Ida M. Blue, a gold, silver and blue star mother, who had the distinction of having seven sons who responded to their country's call. Four saw active service, one was killed and another was disabled in France.

Good to Speak.

Mrs. Thomas Spence will preside at the ceremony with Mrs. Dale extending greetings of the Congressional Club. Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries will speak on "Mothers and Civilization," followed by Secretary of War Good, whose subject has not been announced.

Music will be furnished by the United States Marine Band with vocal solos by Representative Clifton A. Woodrum, of Virginia, and Herman Fakler, barytone. Mrs. Gertrude Lyons, a war mother, will give a musical interpretation of "Taps—Out of the Night, the Bugle Blows."

Col. James A. Moss, director general of the United States Flag Association, will lead the salute to the flag, while Col. Edmund P. Easterbrook, chief of chaplains of the Army, will deliver the invocation. Benediction will be pronounced by Capt. Charles A. Dickins, chief of chaplains of the Navy. Taps will be sounded by Staff Sergt. Frank Witchey, who sounded taps at the burial of the Unknown Soldier on November 11, 1921.

Troops from Fort Myer, Va., will act as ushers, presenting each person with a carnation, all of them to be placed later on the Unknown Soldier's tomb.

Arrangement Committee.

The committee on arrangements includes Mrs. Spence, Mrs. Dale, Mrs. Mattie C. O'Neil, Mrs. Mary T. Shanahan, Mrs. Norman C. Nock, of the American War Mothers; Mrs. Daniel C. Reed, New York; Mrs. John C. Schafer, Wisconsin; Gen. Charles P. Summerall, Maj. Gen. Fries, Maj. Gen. B. F. Cheatham, Maj. Gen. Wendell C. Neville, Maj. Gen. Harry L. Gilchrist, Admiral Charles P. Hughes, Admiral L. E. Gregory, Rear Admiral R. H. Lehigh, Rear Admiral R. E. Coontz, Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, Col. Noble J. Wiley, Col. W. R. Gibson, Col. Easterbrook, Capt. Charles H. Dickins, Capt. Morris S. Daniel, jr., Maj. Gen. J. E. Fechet and George Ross.

Brigadier Arthur Hopkins, divisional commander of the Salvation Army of North Carolina, will be the speaker at a series of meetings honoring mothers beginning tonight and continuing through tomorrow. Tonight's service will be held at No. 5 Corps, Eighth and I streets northeast, while tomorrow's three meetings include one at 9:30 o'clock at the Men's Social Service Center 102 B street northwest; one at 11 o'clock in Army Temple Corps, 606 E street northwest, and a third at night in Georgetown Branch, 1075 Jefferson street northwest.

A literary-musical program honoring mothers will be presented tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock by the Filipino Club of Washington, at 1736 G street northwest.

Practically every church will hold special services tomorrow to commemorate Mother's Day.

Chamber Makes Report On Harbor, Waterways

A complete report on the harbor and waterways in Washington was made yesterday at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce committee on this subject. It was decided to present the report to Brig. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of the U. S. Engineers in this area. John H. Small, chairman, presided.

Five members of a committee to present the report to Gen. Jadwin were named. They are John H. Small, Manton M. Wyvell, Col. Harrison Brand, jr., B. R. Buck and Sidney Hechinger. They will call on Gen. Jadwin next Thursday.

Lawyer's Loud Arguing Halts Court; Wins Case

Defending William F. Foster, colored, of a driving-while-drunk charge before Judge Ralph Given and a jury in Police Court yesterday, Attorney Michael J. Lane argued so loudly that Judge Gus A. Schuldt, presiding in an adjoining courtroom, adjourned proceedings until Lane completed his fiery appeal to the jurors.

The appeal, however, was weighty, for the jury, after a brief debate, returned a verdict of not guilty. Foster was arraigned May 1 and accused of colliding with three vehicles while driving in an intoxicated condition. Lane contended his client, after long hours at work, fell asleep at the wheel of his car just before the collisions.
